Personal Data Bill Advances

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to prohibit trafficking in personal data about citizens yesterday cleared its first hurdle, but a stiff fight was promised by its opponents as the measure moves further through the Legislature.

The bill, AB 2656 by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, was endorsed by the Assembly Efficiency and Cost Control Committee and passed on to the Ways and Means Committee. The unanimous action came after Bagley assured the committee he will attempt to work with opponents to eliminate their objections.

Such amendments are supposed to be worked out before committee endorsement, but Bagley appealed for quick action in the face of the Jan. 30 deadline for 1973 bills to clear the house in which they were introduced.

The measure would prohibit the transfer of any personal data from one computer bank to another without the affected individual's prior consent. It also would require that the person be told to what use such personal information will be put, and allow people to see the information about themselves and to include their own versions alongside disputed data.

The bill imposes criminal penalties of up to one year in jail or a $5,000 fine for violations of procedures to assure the privacy of personal data.

Its preamble declares "the power of individuals to affect record-keeping systems is far weaker than the power of such systems to affect their lives," and that "the constitutional right of privacy includes the right of an individual to control the uses made of personal data about him."

It also declares "there must be no personal data record-keeping systems whose very existence is secret."

Personal data is defined in the measure as "any information that describes anything personal about an individual and which can be associated with an identifiable individual." Both state government and private computer systems would be affected by the bill.

Opponents included the Department of Motor Vehicles, which apparently fears the bill could allow holders of drivers' licenses to prevent the department's selling of driver lists to commercial firms.

Also objecting to the bill were lobbyists for the California Bankers Association and Association of California Life Insurance Companies. Both argued the bill would impose burdensome and costly steps on their clients, and urged the problem be attacked instead on a nationwide basis. Lewis Keller, speaking for the insurance companies, conceded that a nationwide law would take "a very long time" to get.

Both agreed "in principle" with the need for laws to protect individuals from abuses, but said the subject was so complex it needed more study first.

The California Highway Patrol objected that the bill could inhibit its ability to transfer criminal information to other states, but Bagley said this problem could be ironed out.

MECHANICAL MONSTER AT WORK

Looking like some sort of prehistoric beast, a demolition bulldozer poises, ready to bite into the wreckage of the old dormitory of the Marin County fire station at Woodacre. The building was razed yesterday by Ghilotti Brothers crews to prepare the site for a new, $150,000 dormitory to be built by Joseph E. Redmond contractors of San Rafael. The future dormitory will house 22 men. A mobile home is providing temporary sleeping quarters for four men while the building is being erected.

Reagan Urges Energy Sacrifices

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan today asked Californians to cut personal energy use by 10 per cent and called for removal of the secretary of state's office from partisan politics.

In his farewell "State of the State" message to the Legislature, the two-term Republican chief executive also proposed new spending restrictions on the lawmakers, urged planning of a deep water port for "supertankers" and declared "no need for any general tax increases."

Reagan, at a joint meeting of the Assembly and Senate carried live statewide by radio and television, offered to work with the Democratic-controlled Legislature to speed the siting of "environmentally" protected nuclear power plants.

He targeted the energy crisis as "the issue demanding our attention this year," and said "to minimize its potential impact would be a disservice to the people."

Indirectly criticizing activist Secretary of State Edmund Brown Jr., frontrunner in the polls for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, Reagan said Brown's office should be "free of the possibility of conflict of interest and bias" in overseeing elections and campaign contributions reports.

Reagan, who has said he will not seek a third term, asked for a proposed constitutional amendment to make the secretary of state's office nonpartisan, "selected on the same basis as the nonpartisan state superintendent of public instruction."

The governor ticked off a list of energy conservation steps state government has taken to conserve fuel in recent months and appealed to citizens to voluntarily cut back their personal gasoline consumption by at least 10 per cent.

"I also ask every family and every business to reduce energy use 10 per cent by taking similar steps in their homes, offices and other places of businesses," he said.

"California stands ready to cooperate fully in any national program to conserve and fairly apportion available fuel and electric power," the governor declared.

But he added because agriculture is the "backbone of our economy it must have a high priority along with industry. Any severe cutbacks of energy for industry and agriculture means fewer jobs."

The governor, who last year vetoed Democratic-sponsored legislation to create a powerful energy commission with authority to site atomic power plants, announced he is ready to work to reconcile "obvious differences" and agree to compromise legislation.

He blistered as a "needless delay" refusal by the ecology-conscious state Coastal Commission to approve new nuclear generating units at San Onofre.

"Construction of these and other nuclear units must go forward," he asserted.

In addition to calling for development of a California "super port" for huge oil tankers from Alaska, Reagan also disclosed the state is studying possible addition of new hydroelectric generators at Oroville Reservoir and other dam sites.

Reagan, whose ballot initiative to fit a lid on taxes and spending was defeated by the voters in November, proposed a constitutional amendment requiring that any budget approved by the legislature and sent to him be balanced or propose higher taxes to bring it into alignment.

The constitution requires a governor to submit a balanced budget along with higher taxes, if necessary. Reagan asked for the "same restraint" on the legislative branch even though he can veto expenditures he doesn't like.

In another "realistic budgeting" step, he asked the legislature to approve a law specifying that when a program requires higher taxes, the amount of new taxes be spelled out "in capital letters" on the bill.

In other areas, the governor also:

CRIME—The governor again called for mandatory prison sentences for offenders who commit crimes with a firearm.

STRIKES—He repeated his opposition to strikes by public school teachers and said any collective bargaining legislation he approves "must not compromise the public's right to decide educational policy."

ACADEMY—Reagan said he is planning an "Academy for Educational Management"

Nixon Names Mailliard As Ambassador To OAS

I-J Special Report

SAN CLEMENTE — President Nixon yesterday nominated Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, as the new U.S. ambassador to the Organization of American States.

A spokesman for Mailliard said he will resign his congressional seat after his confirmation by the Senate. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee presumably will act in time for Mailliard to attend the OAS General Assembly meeting in April in Atlanta.

Mailliard would have to resign by March 12 to consolidate a special election to fill his seat with the June 4 primary election. A primary election, to choose candidates to run for the post, would then be held May 7. If he quits after March 12 but by April 9, the primary would be consolidated with the June 4 primary and the runoff would be held on July 2.

Mailliard, 56, Marin's congressman since 1968, announced on Dec. 27 that he would not run for reelection.

He was congressional advisor to the OAS from 1964 to 1967. The previous ambassador to the OAS, Joseph John Jova, now is the U.S. ambassador to Mexico.

Bagley Introduces New Spending Plan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to restrict state spending was introduced yesterday by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The measure, AB 2711, embodies the basic concept of last November's defeated Proposition 1, but avoids the "locked-in constitutional features" attacked by critics of the ballot measure, Bagley said.

The assemblyman was quietly critical of the proposition pushed by the governor, because it would have restricted spending by constitutional controls that could have been changed only with another statewide ballot.

Bagley said his proposal has the general approval of leaders of both sides of November's ballot fight, including the governor and Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post, who was one of the most severe critics of Proposition 1.

The Bagley bill would tie the size of the state's annual budget to a fixed percentage of total personal income in the state. The financial department would set the percentage every four years. Whenever a future governor proposed spending in excess of the limit, Bagley said, he would have to explain the reasons for the excess.

The result, according to the assemblyman, will be that the governor's "priorities will be placed squarely before the public and the Legislature."

The measure also would require theat — before the budget itself could be voted upon — special public hearings would have to be held and fiscal committees would have to vote on each amendment.

"This series of public alarms," Bagley said, "should succeed in focusing needed attention on any state government proposal to take a greater percentage of the income of California taxpayers."

Some Schools Order Later Class Starts

New Time Plan Sends Students Out In Dark

By MARY LEYDECKER

"It's not worth taking a chance," said one Marin school official today as he ordered classes to start 30 minutes later.

A few other districts in the county and in Southern Sonoma have made similar moves, advanced starting times so that youngsters will not have to travel to school in the predawn darkness, but many school administrators adopted a "wait and see" attitude.

In San Rafael, Marin's second largest school district (which also has some of the earliest starting times for classes and bus pickups) the only concession to the new Daylight Saving Time will be to allow small children to be 15 minutes late.

Bus problems, fuel shortages, high school work experience programs, extracurricular activities and working mothers were cited by Supt. Donald L. Leisey as reasons for not changing class starting times.

Elementary classes in the district start at 8:30 a.m. with some youngsters picked up at bus stops at 7:55 a.m., long

Novato Rejects Taco Bell Plan

By FRANK FARRARA

Taco Bell has 536 restaurants in 33 states but its bid for No. 537 was rejected last night by the Novato City Council. (Another Novato City Council story, page 20.)

Councilmen voted 3-to-2 to overrule planning commission approval of a Taco Bell at the southwest corner of Grant Avenue and Machin Street. Mayor Fred F. Ruegg and Councilman Dorothy P. Young dissented.

The long-standing, controversial issue was thrashed out before an audience of about 75 persons, many mustered by applicant Ben R. Ostlind of San Rafael to support his cause.

The council came under fire since most speakers, businessmen and residents, supported the restaurant and applause indicated the majority of the audience also favored the proposal.

Restaurant proponents charged that the city was harassing Ostlind, discouraging business from settling in Novato, disregarding public support, disregarding a property owner's right to develop his land and rejecting the restaurant on minor architectural matters.

Opponents said Ostlind had been told months ago the mission style design was unacceptable but had made "no substantial changes" in his plan, so the plan review committee had valid reason for rejecting the architecture of the building.

The council, by its vote, backed the plan review committee's decision that a typical Taco Bell building wouldn't be in harmony with other buildings in Novato Square.

Councilman George C. Quesada said the restaurant had a "pseudo Spanish mission front" that constituted a caricature of Spanish mission architecture."

After the council was charged with being arbitrary, Councilman F. Wayne Sartain said: "The only arbitrary decision has been made by the parent company, Taco Bell; for they think it is possible for this design to fit any town and any lot."

Marvin Bonine, Taco Bell franchise holder in Northern California, said that, without the bell tower, proposed for deletion, "we would be just like

Prison Hospital Pursues Reaccreditation Efforts

A watchdog agency inspected the facility last July, and in November presented a list of shortcomings, along with a notice that the hospital has been denied reaccreditation.

The notice came from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, an affiliate of the American Medical Association, according to Dr. John Gorman, chief of medical services for the state Department of Corrections.

Dr. John Krahl, San Quentin's chief medical officer, said today that he and San Quentin administrators are evaluating the deficiency list to see what corrections can be made within the prison's own budget, and what items will need action by the state department or even the Legislature.

Some of the shortcomings noted by the committee include doorways too narrow for passage of gurneys, lack of safety grounding for electrical installations in rooms with metal flooring, lack of filtered ventilation in some areas, and inadequate nursing call systems in some rooms.

Accreditation requirements have become stiffer through the years while the building and equipment aged, Krahl said. The building wasn't constructed for hospital use, but was con-

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Baker Agrees To Settlement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's final legal case against one-time Senate aide Robert G. (Bobby) Baker ended yesterday with Baker agreeing to pay $40,000 in an out-of-court settlement.

Baker

The government brought the suit four years ago in an attempt to collect $108,968 it said Baker took for influence peddling as Senate Democratic majority secretary in the early 1960s.

The settlement was announced at a brief hearing before U.S. District Court Judge George L. Hart Jr. after government attorneys said they had evidence that Baker had diverted only $54,000 to his own use.

Shale Oil Bid

DENVER (UPI) — Standard Oil of Indiana and the Gulf Oil Corp. yesterday made a surprisingly high bid of $210 million for the right to develop 5,000 acres of federally owned shale oil land in Colorado.

Interior Department officials had predicted the top bid would be between $5 million and $50 million.

A spokesman for Sun Oil Co. of Delaware, which submitted the second highest offer, $176 million, had said before the sealed bids were opened that the firm felt its proposal would easily be the highest. He called the Standard-Gulf bid "unbelievable."

GI Sentenced

FORT CARSON, Colo. (UPI) — Pvt. Richard D. Bucklin, who said he deserted the Army because he protested American involvement in Vietnam, was sentenced to 15 months at hard labor in a federal penitentiary yesterday for being AWOL four years.

The nine Army jurors at Bucklin's one-day court-martial also assessed him a bad conduct discharge and ordered forfeiture of all back pay.

Out By Easter?

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A "fairly good chance" exists President Nixon will resign before Easter under pressure from the Watergate grand jury, the business community and the Republican party, according to Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz.

"There is a fairly good chance that before Easter, the president will want to do a last service for his country, to step aside and let Gerald Ford take over," Udall told the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association yesterday.

Astronauts Busy

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Skylab 3 astronauts, faced with their most hectic day of scientific research, not only completed all their assigned tasks yesterday but found time to squeeze in a lot of other chores as well.

The schedule called for astronauts Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue to work 28 man hours on various scientific projects yesterday. They logged 30 man hours.

They took pictures of four boiling volcanoes in Guatemala hoping that they could lead someday to the Earth using its own heat supply as an energy source.

Phnom Penh Push

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — The government moved armored personnel carriers and helicopters today against insurgent guerrillas fighting only four miles west of the capital.

Counterattacking government troops, including 40 armored personnel carriers and 2,000 infantrymen, were met with a barrage of mortar fire, field reports said. The battle has been under way since Sunday.

Policy Protest

BANGKOK (UPI) — Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka arrived for a state visit today and thousands of shouting, banner-waving students massed in the streets of Bangkok to protest Japan's trade policies toward Thailand.

An estimated 5,000 to 10,000 students gathered in the streets.

The crowds were generally orderly, but a group of students near the hotel pounded on the sides of two buses carrying newsmen accompanying the prime minister.

Predawn Attacks

BELFAST (UPI) — Extremists launched six predawn attacks in Northern Ireland today, burning down three homes and blowing up two small hotels.

An army spokesman said damage was heavy in the bomb attacks, but the only casualty reported was a 17-year-old youth shot in the leg by a suspected Irish Republican Army punishment squad.

New Deputy Mayor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joseph J. Galiber was named the first black deputy mayor of New York City yesterday and said he wanted "to bring this city back together."

New Budget Will Top $300 Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of running the U.S. government in the next fiscal year will exceed $300 billion, more than the combined federal budgets from the founding of the Republic to World War II.

The proposed jump in federal spending past the $300 billion mark comes despite President Nixon's pledge a year ago to hold outlays to a limit of $288 billion.

It also marks the sixth straight year the government will spend more than it collects in revenues.

Budget director Ray Ash set the deficit at $6-$10 billion for the 1975 fiscal year that begins July 1.

The promise of a balanced budget in the current fiscal year has also evaporated, according to Ash. With six months left to run and estimates uncertain because of the economic situation raised by the energy crisis, Ash said the government's books would likely run about $4 billion in the red for the 12 months ending June 30.

Ash, former president of Litton Industries and now finishing his first year as director of the Office of Management and Budget said neither he nor Nixon considered the $300 billion figure a psychological barrier to be avoided.

President Denies ITT, Milk Charges

SAN CLEMENTE (UPI) — President Nixon says charges that he raised milk price supports and intervened in an ITT antitrust case in return for campaign donations are "totally false."

He declined to make public tapes and other material on the two matters, and a top aide says "Operation Candor" is now completed.

"We're not going to be responding to the constant maligning of the President," a high administration official said. "We're not going to constantly debate the charges in the public arena."

"At the appropriate time, the President will have something to say about Watergate," he added, "but we are not going to spend 1974 waging a political partisan debate about Watergate."

The new denials were made in two written statements, called "white papers," the name once used for British documents of state. They were issued issued here and in Washington late yesterday, on the eve of Nixon's 61st birthday.

Charges that Nixon ordered federal price milk supports hiked in 1971 in return for political contributions from the dairy industry were branded "totally false."

As for Nixon's 1971 intervention in an antitrust case involving International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., the White House said the President "was unaware of any commitment by ITT to make a contribution" financing part of the Republican National convention at the time that he tried to halt a Justice Department appeal in the suit.

PRESIDENT NIXON
Two white papers

Nixon acknowledged that he had been informed of the dairy industry's intention to raise funds for him before his decision to increase milk support payments on March 25, 1971.

The dairy industry contributed a total of $427,000 to the Nixon's re-election campaign. The President ordered the higher milk price support partly out of "traditional political consideration," according to the White House.

The statement said Nixon's advisers told him Congress favored even higher supports and that it could be "politically disastrous" for Nixon if he were to veto dairy legislation.

The other statement said Nixon had instructed then Deputy Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst to block an appeal of a key court decision in the ITT antitrust battle on April 19, 1971, but rescinded the order two days later when advised by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell that Solicitor General Erwin Griswold, who was prosecuting the case, threatened to resign if Nixon refused to prosecute the government case further.

A White House summary said "tapes, papers and other documents" on the two cases, which have been given to special Watergate prosecutors, "are not being publicly released today." It said the President wanted to maintain their "confidentiality."

The President has been working and relaxing at the Western White House for the past two weeks. His top advisers said that he is "cooperating fully" with special prosecutor Leon Jaworski and will continue to turn over to him White House documents.

The President's information counter-offensive, which aides called "Operation Candor," was launched in mid-November and was aimed at mollifying Watergate critics and answering calls by Republican Party leaders "to clear the air" of politically damaging charges.

Earlier, Nixon's aides had hinted that there also would be "white papers" on the "plumbers," the secret White House surveillance operation set up in 1971, and on the controversial $100,000 contribution from recluse billionaire Howard Hughes to Charles G. (Bebe) Rebozo, Nixon's best friend.

However, the scope of the counter offensive has now been curtailed and Nixon believes that with the public release of his financial and tax statements and the two new "white papers" he has "met his commitments," aides said.

GOP leaders were notified by White House congressional aides of the documents released yesterday. Theleaders had expected Nixon to release summaries of the seven Watergate conversations which were turned over to federal judge John J. Sirica.

"We said that we are going to address the charges against the President," an aide said just before yesterday's statements were made public. "We've done that on the financial statement. Now we will address the ITT and the milk fund."

"But we're not going to be in the constant position where the people can constantly malign the President and his administration making us prove the negative," the aide said. "Enough is enough."

Kissinger Will Meet With Sadat

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will arrive in Egypt tomorrow for talks with President Anwar Sadat on the Geneva negotiations on Arab-Israeli military disengagement, diplomatic sources said today in Cairo.

Israeli sources also have reported an imminent Kissinger visit to Jerusalem in hope of straightening out the disengagement problem so the peace talks could get on to major political questions.

While the Geneva talks dragged out there have been increasingly serious clashes along both the Suez Canal and the Syrian cease-fire lines and both sides have warned against the possibility of a new war.

Egyptian and Israeli military representatives met for 70 minutes today in Geneva in one of their shortest sessions to discuss troop withdrawals. They did not report progress and adjourned the meetings for a week.

UPI correspondent Maurice Guindi said the Cairo political sources reported that Kissinger would go to see Sadat at Aswan, where the Egyptian leader is on a working vacation.

Final Intertie Paper Being Readied

The Sonoma County Water Agency will soon begin a final draft of the environmental impact report for the Russian River-Cotati Intertie.

"We'd like to get the final report to the supervisors in a couple of weeks or so," said Gordon Miller, agency chief engineer.

The agency held a hearing on the preliminary draft Monday night in Santa Rosa. Representatives of agencies and organizations and interested citizens commented on the project's environmental aspects.

The intertie is a proposed pipeline from the Russian River at Mirabel through the Forestville and Sebastopol areas to an existing line at Cotati. It would supply Petaluma, the North Marin County Water District and other customers.

Miller said most of the cities and water districts represented at the Monday session favored the project. A number of persons spoke against it, he said, with most of them objecting that increased water supply would encourage population growth in the area.

He said the final environmental report will attempt to incorporate the ideas voiced at the hearing.

The argument of many environmentalists that more water produces heavy population growth played a central role recently in the Marin Municipal Water District, where voters overwhelmingly rejected a bond issue which would have increased the availability of water in most of Marin.

Nazis Are Attacked At School Board Meeting

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Twelve members of the American Nazi party were attacked last night during a Board of Education meeting called to consider the integration of the city's junior and senior high schools.

Police said 10 of the attackers were arrested and some of the ANP members sustained minor injuries.

"A minor riot erupted," a police sergeant said.

The meeting was being held in the Board of Education headquarters on Van Ness Avenue. After police quelled the disturbance, the board continued to consider the integration issue.

Police said the ANP members were assaulted when they were to present their views to the board. The ANP had been scheduled to address the panel.

$1 Million To Prepare For Plant

It will cost the Ross Valley Sanitary District about $1 million to prepare San Quentin Prison land for construction of a proposed subregional sewage treatment plant, the district's board learned Monday.

Warren E. Nute, district engineer, estimated the cost of leveling the proposed site at between $750,000 and $1.2 million.

"But no decision can be made because we don't even know if we are getting the land yet," said District Mgr. Ned J. Ongaro. "He was just making us aware of some of the costs."

The sanitary district had proposed to build the plant, to handle sewage from throughout Central and Southern Marin, near its present plant opposite the Golden Gate Bridge District's proposed ferry terminal.

That drew objections from several agencies, including the City of Larkspur, which would like to see development in the area around the terminal.

State Department of Corrections officials told the district in November it would have no trouble obtaining San Quentin prison land for the plant.

But the 10 to 12 acre site is a rocky hill on the Bay just east of the prison's west gate and will require the extensive leveling.

District directors also authorized an agreement with the Marin Municipal Water District to relocate a water line on Shady Lane in Ross. The relocation is part of the district's replacement of trunklines in Ross and San Anselmo and is estimated to cost $11,000.

Directors authorized Harding Lawson and Associates to take soil samples and do analysis of the present trunkline through San Anselmo from downtown to near Sir Francis Drake High School.

Ongaro said the analysis is in preparation of the next phase of trunkline replacement and will not cost more than $2,700.

New Berkeley Manager Named

The city council decided last night to offer the $44,000-a-year post to Taylor.

Taylor, 46, will assume the job no later than Feb. 7, city officials said.

Berkeley has been without a city manager for nearly two years as the council squabbled about the appointment.

Petaluma Class Registrations Set

Registration for classes in crafts, dance, guitar, judo, macrame and zen self-defense may be made at the recreation department office in the Petaluma City Hall.

A spokesman said registration will not be accepted by telephone, although information about the classes may be obtained by calling the department.

Educational Program For Marin Jail Eyed

A plan to provide an educational program at the Marin County Jail was presented to the Marin County Board of Education last night.

The program, suggested by Dr. Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools, and Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, would provide a fulltime teacher at the jail to offer individual instruction to inmates.

The board will be asked to adopt the program at its meeting Jan. 22.

A trial period from March to June of this year is proposed. If the program is successful, the board could establish it on a permanent basis beginning July 1.

Asst. Supt. Robert E. Spain said such a program was made possible through legislation sponsored by Sen. Peter H. Behr (R-San Rafael) and passed by the legislature next year.

The program would cost $7,079 for the trial period. State funds would supply $4,750 and the remaining $2,329 would come from the county schools administration budget reserve.

A proposed budget of $20,900 is seen for 1974-75, when the program would be funded entirely by the state.

Spain said the program will also need approval by the Marin supervisors and he hopes their endorsement can be obtained before the school board's Jan. 22 meeting.

The Marin County Board of Education also:

PERSONNEL — Employed Joseph Lopez as a part-time custodian and groundskeeper at the Kent School for Deaf for $3.24 per hour.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Barbara Boxer as chairman of the Marin County Schools Office Personnel Commission.

CLOSED — Met in closed session to consider hiring personnel and possible litigation, but took no action.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to Jan. 22 at 8 p.m. in county schools office.

Grand Jury Indicts Six In Sex Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The San Francisco Grand Jury has indicted six men on charges stemming from a Christmas Eve sex ordeal endured by two 16-year-old girls from Marin County.

Charged with seven counts of forcible rape and other sex crimes, were Clarence L. Seminole, 21; Gerald Lookingback, 36; Leo O. Siers, 41; Charles G. Ballard, 31; Narcisse W. Thundershiled, 28, and Jesse T. Rogers, 31.

Police inspectors said the two high school co-eds became lost while attempting to drive to Christmas Eve Midnight Mass at St. Mary's Cathedral. At Geary and Larkin, they asked Seminole for directions and he offered to show them the way, police said. But after aimless driving, he led them to a Geary Street hotel where the girls used a rest room.

Four of the hotel residents seized the girls and forced them into a nearby room where they were held captive and assaulted for seven hours.

Another hotel resident, hearing the girls' screams, called police who rescued the nude victims and booked the six men into jail. Some of the men also were charged with robbery and marijuana possession.

Courses Slated At Strawberry

The Strawberry Recreation District will begin winter classes the week of Jan. 21. The sessions will run for eight weeks, according to district recreation manager Gayle L. Hunter.

Registration will begin next Monday and continue through Jan. 19, at the recreation center, where the activities will be held.

Classes are planned for persons three years old and up and are open to residents and nonresidents of Strawberry. They will include arts and crafts, ballet, banjo, belly dancing, cake decorating, cooking, judo, macrame, pre-school tumbling and slimnastics.

Peace Officers Set Installation Date

New officers of the Marin County Peace Officers Association will be installed Jan. 19 at a dinner meeting at the Hamilton Air Force Base Officers Club.

The event will also feature presentation of "Peace Officer of the Year" and "Citizen of the Year" awards to winners who were chosen at the association's December meeting. Dinner at 8 p.m. will be preceded by a cocktail hour. Tickets for nonmembers are available from Arthur H. Fellows, secretary-treasurer, 28 Prospect Drive, San Rafael.

Kentfield Youth Faces Drug Trial

I-J Special Report

WOODLAND — A Kentfield youth will stand jury trial on two counts of selling amphetamines in Yolo County Superior Court here on March 12.

John William Vidano, 18, of 8 Cypress Lane, pleaded innocent to the charges on Monday. He was arrested by Davis police last August on a warrant charging him with a variety of narcotics violations. He was sent to superior court after a preliminary hearing in Davis Judicial District Court. He is free on bail.

Weekend Credit Courses Planned

Indian Valley Colleges in Novato will offer weekend credit courses starting Feb. 4, according to president Ernest H. Berg.

The classes will be held at 7 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. Saturday and registration is now open. Further information about courses available can be obtained at the college.

House Breaking Suspect Nabbed With TV Set

A Vallejo man, who told police he was hungry and broke after being robbed in San Francisco, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of breaking into a Sausalito home and taking a television set.

David Lewis Stanley, 23, was being held in county jail in lieu of $1,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Stanley was stopped for questioning after a patrolman spotted him walking down Spencer Avenue at 4:17 p.m. with a portable TV set in his arms, police said.

Unable to produce identification, Stanley was taken to the police station and later led officers to a home on Miller Avenue where he said he ate fruit and removed the TV after forcing open French doors at the house, according to investigators.

Sewer Problem Session Tonight

The new Mill Valley sewer service charge and other alternatives for raising funds to correct problems in the city's sewer system will be discussed by the city council at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

The council voted last August to levy the charge, $3.40 per month for a single-family residence, but is trying to find other ways of raising money for sewer repairs. Possibilities which have been mentioned are a tax override election or a bond issue.

The sewer service charge would raise $225,000 per year.

Art Instruction Class Scheduled

Norman Todhunter of Mill Valley, designer of 16 U.S. stamps and a former illustrator for Esquire magazine, will teach a class in the basics of art beginning Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Alto-Edna Maguire School in Mill Valley.

The course, sponsored by the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department, will stress drawing skills, according to Don Hunter, recreation supervisor.

Judo, Guitar Classes Slated

The Novato Parks and Recreation Department has announced its winter schedule for judo and guitar classes.

Judo for boys and girls will start Jan. 21 with classes on Mondays and Wednesdays.

BELL

Tijuana Taco. That's our identifying factor."

Ruegg said he had run on a promise to try to get "more business to come to town and change the atmosphere at city hall," and there is still a feeling that the city is antibusiness. "I hope we don't enhance that reputation tonight," he added.

He said, as several residents did, that a restaurant at the proposed location would be an improvement over the existing vacant lot.

Councilman David Price Jones said he had run on a platform to upgrade the appearance of Novato and he was representing the people who voted for him in opposing Taco Bell.

Philip Coady of 747 Bradley Avenue asked the council on what basis it decided to review the planning commission decision on Taco Bell since no residents had appealed it.

"We had different opinions from town appointed bodies, the plan review committee and the planning commission and the staff had real concerns," Sartain said.

Coady also asked if it was not the "sworn duty" of the council "to act for the majority of citizens."

"I don't think it's our sworn duty to reflect the majority one way or the other," Quesada said.

Gordon Lee, president of the Novato Chamber of Commerce, said most businessmen, including those in the area, supported the restaurant and added "it's hard for me to understand how this city council can totally disregard this support."

Quesada, who is not seeking reelection, offered Ostlind a two month continuance, which the applicant rejected.

Ostlind said after the meeting that he probably will file suit to get a building permit for the restaurant.

Nixon, Rebozo Go On Drives

SAN CLEMENTE — For two days in a row, President Nixon and his friend Chareles G. (Bebe) Rebozo have gone for long automobile drives in the rain on Southern California freeways.

With Rebozo at the wheel they drove for three hours through neighboring towns including Tustin and Corona Tuesday, then returned to Nixon's villa for dinner.

On Monday, Nixon and Rebozo also took a three-hour drive and at one point had to retrace their path when a mudslide in a canyon area at Elsinore blocked the road.

Asked how all this gibed with Nixon's appeal to the public to limit pleasure driving to save fuel, a White House press aide wordlessly shrugged his shoulders.

Employee Pay Hike Approved

A 5.9 per cent pay hike for classified employees of Sausalito schools has been approved by district trustees.

The increase amounts to a cost-of-living raise and will cost the district about $12,000, according to Supt. Donald W. Johnson.

The agreement, reached Monday, ends negotiations between the district and the California School Employees Association that had been going since May.

Folk Singer Will Launch Series

Dennis Hogan of Mill Valley, a college student doing research in American folk music, will begin a series of children's programs combining music and history Saturday at 11 a.m. at the Mill Valley Public Library.

Hogan, a senior at the University of California-Berkeley, spent two years working as an American folk singer in Norway and taught American folk music in Norwegian high schools.

Couple Arraigned In Burglary Case

James Chalmers Ropp and Dianne Frances Ropp of 5 Kent Street, Petaluma, were released on their own recognizance after arrest and arraignment in Petaluma Municipal Court Monday on charges of burglarizing the Samples Room, a Petaluma gift shop.

The husband and wife are scheduled to appear for a preliminary hearing at 1:30 p.m. Monday in municipal court.

Good Recovery

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., who underwent X-ray treatments for a "pinhead" tumor of the bladder, is making a good recovery according to his office.

Radio's Ira Blue Is Dead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ira Blue, the flamboyant radio talk show personality who claimed "a half million people either adore me or can't stand me," is dead at age 64.

"Turn down your radio, you idiot," he would tell a caller, whose radio was causing background noise problems for Blue's broadcast.

Blue was heard first on radio before World War II as a bridge tournament commentator. Before becoming a talk show host, he spent 27 years as a sports director for network radio stations in Mexico, Hollywood and here.

He was best known in the San Francisco Bay Area for his KGO braodcasts from the old Hungry I between 1962 and 1967.

verted to a medical facility in 1929 or 30, the medical officer added.

The accreditation committee criticized at least two administrative issues, reporting it found no written policy for emergency procedures and a lack of continuing medical education for the 82 paid employees.

"There is an emergency procedure directive, but it has to be revised," Krahl said. The continuing medical education problem will call for a larger budget and more staff, he added.

Only inmates are treated in the hospital, which is one of four operated in the state prison system.

Brinegar Will Push Car Pools

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Secretary of Transportation Claude S. Brinegar yesterday said a national car pool system would eliminate the need for gas rationing.

In about three weeks, he said, representatives from his department will begin national tours to help promote and form car pools.

"A modest national car pool system would mean no gas rationing and none of the misery that goes with rationing coupons," Brinegar told a meeting of the Traffic Club.

Brinegar said conservation efforts on the part of industry and the public have resulted in the saving of 1 million barrels of oil a day, while the current shortage is estimated at two million barrels a day and is expected to go to three million.

State Threatens Methadone Units

SACRAMENTO — The state Department of Health has threatened to close five San Francisco methadone treatment centers for refusing to open their records to state officials.

Deputy Health Director Andrew G. Robinson yesterday issued the closure warning and added the state was exploring alternative methods of supplying the centers' addicts with methadone treatment.

The state already has restricted the activities of the five centers, forbidding them to take on new patients or begin new programs.

Crosby Reported As Satisfactory

BURLINGAME, Calif. — Bing Crosby, 69, has failed to respond to antibiotic treatment for pneumonia but is in satisfactory condition, his personal physician reported last night.

Dr. Stanley Hanfling said further diagnostic tests were being conducted to determine the cause of the singer's lung problem. He added Crosby would remain hospitalized for at least a week.

SCHOOLS

before the sunrise about 8:30 a.m. San Rafael High School classes begin at 8:10 a.m., and Leisey noted that pushing them up one-half hour "would not help" these students.

Leisey said parents of elementary children will be encouraged to dress their youngsters in light-colored clothing and to accompany them to bus stops.

In Larkspur, however, Supt. Milton S. Cohen said, he "went out in the dark and saw those little kids and decided, 'it's not worth fooling with.' "

He ordered classes in the Larkspur district, which includes Corte Madera schools, advanced from 8:45 a.m. to 9:15 a.m., beginning today.

Kentfield School District Supt. Eugene C. Peters said he will decide today whether to change starting times in his district after tallying the results of questionnaires sent home to parents.

He said parents had been asked whether they favored changing starting times during December, January and February, for the whole year, not at all or changing the school calendar so that youngsters go to school less in the winter and more in the summer.

In Fairfax, Supt. Reginald Hammond said he was "not enthusiastic" about Daylight Savings Time but that his board had decided "it would make more upheaval" if starting times were changed. "We're going to continue the way we are unless something happens to make us change our minds," he said.

Other districts, such as Ross and Sausalito, which already have 9 a.m. starting times, indicated there have been no problems and changes are not contemplated.

BOLINAS-STINSON — Changed starting times yesterday from 8:30 a.m. to 9 a.m.

DIXIE — The district board is due to discuss the matter tonight, but is not expected to take action.

FAIRFAX — No change.

KENTFIELD — A decision is to be made today.

LAGUNITAS — Questionnaires were sent to parents today asking their opinions on changing starting times.

LARKSPUR — Changed starting time today from 8:45 a.m. to 9:15 a.m.

NICASIO — No change because classes don't start until 9 a.m. and children are driven in cars to school.

REED — A decision is to be made today.

ROSS — No change contemplated because of 9 a.m. starting times and because there is no busing.

SAN ANSELMO — Starting times will be discussed by district board tomorrow.

SAUSALITO — No changes because starting time is now 9 a.m. with some pupils not coming until 10 a.m.

SHORELINE — No change contemplated.

TAMALPAIS HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT — No change contemplated.

PETALUMA — Starting times for junior and senior high school classes changed to 8:45 through February.

School Switch

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) — School districts in this southwestern Ohio area have decided to open their doors an hour later to counteract the switch to daylight savings time and winter darkness.

OBITUARIES

Michael de Rutte Rites Set

A Mass of the Resurrection for Michael Peter de Rutte of Lagunitas, will be offered at 10 a.m. Friday at St. Cecelia's Church, Lagunitas.

De Rutte, 19, of 35 La Cuesta Road, died yesterday while visiting friends in Sacramento.

He was born in Vallejo, and moved to Lagunitas as an infant. He attended Lagunitas School, Sir Francis Drake High School and Tomales High School. He also attended Santa Rosa Junior College and worked at Samuel P. Taylor State Park.

DeRutte was a member of the San Geronimo Rancheros 4-H Club, sentinel for the Future Farmers of America, Tomales High School Chapter. He had won many future farmer and 4-H awards.

He is survived by his parents, Peter and Bonnie De Rutte; six sisters, Mary, Daphne, Mary-Kate, Cecelia, Jean and Roseanne de Rutte; three brothers, Stanley, Rob-Roy and Sean de Rutte, all of Lagunitas.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo. Burial will be in the Olema Cemetery, Olema.

Memorial gifts to Birthright of Marin or spiritual bouquets would be preferred by the family.

CAESAR FAGNANI

Mass of the Resurrection for Caesar Fagnani, longtime San Rafael resident, will be at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at Mission Chapel San Rafael.

He died Monday in a San Francisco hospital after a short illness. He was 87.

Fagnani was born in Oleggio, Northern Italy and came to the United States and Marin in 1903 when he was 17. He worked at McNear's brickyard for five years and then went to work for the Northwestern Pacific Railroad as engine-wiper in its Sausalito yard. He was promoted to fireman on the railroad, running a wood and coal burner from San Rafael to San Quentin Point. He had several jobs with the railroad until he was appointed railway express agent in Mill Valley, a position he held for 47 years until he retired when he was 69.

He married his wife, Ramilda, who survives him, 61 years ago and they made their home at 610 Third Street since hen.

He is also survived by a son, Carlo Fagnani of Sonora, Sonora County; three daughters, Beatrice Gooch of Fairfield, Catherine Broadway of Montague, Siskiyou County, and Rita Burger of San Rafael; 10 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

MRS. JAMISON

Private funeral for Margaret Jamison, of San Francisco, former resident of Corte Madera and sister of William Carnaghan of Novato, was held yesterday in San Francisco.

She died Sunday at her home in San Francisco of a heart attack. She was 60.

Mrs. Jamison was born and reared in San Francisco. She and her husband, the late Warren Jamison, a veteran of World War II, moved to Corte Madera in 1945 and lived there for 20 years. After his death, she moved back to San Francisco.

She is also survived by a sister, Georgina Brown of South San Francisco.

Burial was in the Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

MICHAEL J. TELESMANIC

Requiem Mass for Michael Joseph Telesmanic of San Francisco, father of John Matthew Telesmanic of Petaluma, will be offered at 9 a.m. tomorrow at Most Holy Redeemer Church in San Francisco.

Telesmanic, 82, died Monday in a San Francisco hospital after a long illness.

He was born in Austria and had lived in this country for more than 70 years. He operated his own drayage company for many years and later worked for the City of San Francisco public works department.

He is also survived by another son, Joseph Michael Telesmanic of San Jose; a brother, John Telesmanic of Yugoslavia, seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

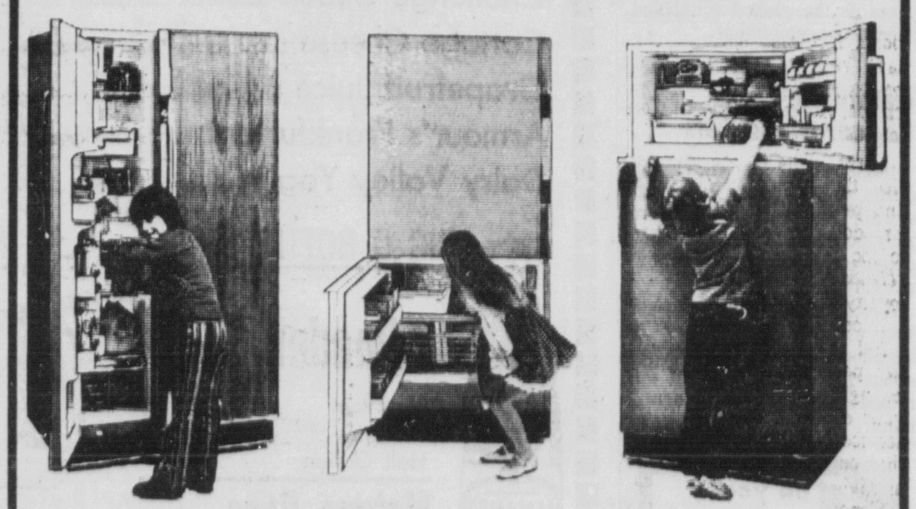
Where do you want the freezer in your new Amana refrigerator...


on the side? on the bottom? on the top?
Amana gives you a choice
If you want your zero degree freezer on the side, there's the Amana Side-by-Side. Or you can have it on the top or the bottom. They're all Free-O-Frost in both the refrigerator and freezer.
And every Amana has two independent temperature controls, one for the freezer, one for the refrigerator. There's a "refrigerator-within-a-refrigerator" that keeps meat fresh up to twice as long as an ordinary meat keeper. And a high-humidity compartment that keeps vegetables fresh up to three weeks.
Come and look at the choices Amana has for you. Then choose the one you want from gold, avocado, coppertone or white.

Parent Club Playground Plan Backed

A plan by parents of youngsters at Fairfax Central School to build a playground with telephone poles was endorsed by school trustees last night.

The Fairfax School District board approved plans by the Central Parents club to construct the playground, including a sandbox and climbing apparatus, with pieces of utility poles, according to the district administration.

The playground, to be built by volunteers, will be erected in several months.

Trustees last night also learned that enrollment last week was 935 pupils, down six from the previous week.

The board granted a leave of abscence to White Hill teacher Marge Burns, and said it is seeking a new secretary for the school.

The board next meets Jan. 22.

Stock Mart Visit Set For Eight

Eight junior high school economics students from San Rafael will visit the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange next Wednesday, paying for the trip with money they made by cooking and selling cupcakes.

The eight, all boys, are eighth graders at Vallecito School in Dixie School District. The economics class, unusual for junior high schools, is offered as an elective. Jan Adams is the teacher.

The class has spent five weeks in study of the stock market and five weeks in study of banking. Wanting to see for themselves how both stock market and banking work, the boys made cupcakes and sold them to fellow students to raise money for the trip.

They will travel by Golden Gate Transit, leaving the school at 9 a.m. and hiking to the bus stop on Highway 101. In San Francisco they will visit not only the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange, but also Dean Witter and Co., stock brokerage firm, and one of the major banks.

Court Rules Loyalty Oath Illegal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled today that an Indiana law requiring a loyalty oath before a political party can get a place on the state election ballot violates constitutional guarantees of free speech and press.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr. said in the majority opinion that for the purpose of getting on a ballot, a group's advocacy of violent overthrow of the government as an abstract doctrine need not necessarily be considered advocating illegal actions.

The court said the constitutional freedoms apply to state laws regarding access to the ballot, joining the party of one's choice, casting an effective ballot and running for office.

Three Indiana political parties, the Communist, American Independent and Peace and Freedom, were denied access to the 1972 ballot because they refused to subscribe to the 1945 loyalty oath qualifications.

In other action, the court:

Hel that a group of dissatisfied passengers in Georgia had no right to sue Amtrak to prevent discontinuance of train service. It said in a 7-1 decision that only the attorney general and labor unions had that right.

Upheld, 6 to 3, a federal lawbarring addicts with two prior felony convictions from rehabilitative treatment under the 1966 narcotic law rather than imprisonment.

In the Indiana case, the majority opinion said the constitutional principles "do not permit a state to forbid or proscribe advocacy of the use of force or of law violation except where such advocacy is directed to incite or produce such action."

The Indiana state election board rejected the 1972 ballot petitions of all three minor parties on the ground they had not conformed with the loyalty oath. All three of the groups appealed to a federal district court, which held that part of the oath was unconstitutional.

The district court directed the election board to accept on the ballot "any or all" of the three parties whose party officials signed the revised loyalty oath. The Peace and Freedom Party and the Independent Party did so, but officials of the Communist Party refused and were not permitted on the 1972 ballot.

Nixon Seeks Conference To Study Energy Crisis

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

President Nixon has sent personal messages to the heads of major European governments, Canada and Japan inviting them to a Feb. 11 meeting in Washington to discuss possible solutions to solve the energy crisis, the Western White House announced today.

The President also has sent personal memos to the heads of Arab and Asian oil-producing countries informing them of the conference and suggesting that the oil-producing and consuming nations meet together at a later date.

"There will be no increase or decrease in the price of crude oil until April 1," Iran Finance Minister Jamshid Amouzegar told newsmen.

Amouzegar made the statement following a five-hour meeting of ministers from the 12 member states of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), which together supply 85 per cent of world oil imports.

The ministers, who began meeting Monday, debated the possibility of curbing crude oil costs by 6 per cent and holding talks with the big Western oil consuming nations on price fixing.

Amouzegar said after Tuesday's session that Western governments should cut fuel sales taxes and limit oil company earnings to 50 U.S. cents a barrel (42 gallons) to protect the average consumer. The OPEC had been discussing the possibility of cutting petroleum prices by 6 per cent although industry sources expressed doubt the consumer would benefit by the reductions

The countries Nixon invited to attend the Washington conference also included West Germany, Great Britain, Italy, the Netherlands and Norway.

Also invited was the secretary general for the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, a spokesman at the Western White House said.

Director For Program Sought

The Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission is looking for a teen-ager, college student or housewife to serve as director of an after-school recreation program in the Belvedere City Council chambers, according to commission secretary Shirley Backen.

The council Monday approved the commission's plans for the program which will begin in about a month and will feature games, from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. on weekdays.

The director's position will pay $80 per month. Interested applicants can contact Mrs. Backen of 27 Acacia Avenue in Belvedere.

Wornum Becomes Board Chairman

Supervisor Michael Wornum was elected unanimously as chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday, as the board held its annual reorganization meeting. He succeeds Arnold M. Baptiste in the chair.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere was elected unanimously as vice chairman.

Wornum, of Mill Valley, represents the Third District; Roumiguiere, of San Rafael, the First District.

The session also was marked by reshuffling of the board's delegates to several regional bodies. Wornum stepped down as Golden Gate Bridge District director after five years, to be replaced by Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr.

"What I wanted to do has become a reality" in terms of seeing the bridge district go into the transit business with buses and ferryboats, Wornum explained.

Wornum retained several of his other hats, including chairmanship of the North Central Coast Regional Commission and membership on the executive board of the Association of Bay Area Governments. He automatically will succeed Baptiste on the Bay Area Council.

Arrigoni offered to let someone else take his seat on the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, but found no takers. He is scheduled to become chairman of that board. He did resign his post as principal delegate to the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission, swapping the alternate's job with Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini.

Giacomini also accepted appointment to the North Bay Regional Criminal Justice Planning Commission, held for three years by Baptiste, and Wornum's seat on the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Wornum, who will be 48 next month, is midway in his second term as supervisor, but is unofficially — so far — seeking the Democratic nomination for the seat now held by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. An architect and city planning consultant, Wornum earlier served as Mill Valley City Councilman.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

VOTES — Instructed County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney and elections officer Peter C. Meyer to assist Sausalito officials in straightening out voter registrations of Gate Five and Gate Six residents who live outside the city but are considered Sausalito voters because they get mail inside the city limits. Mayor Robin Sweeny predicted that unless the situation is clarified, there will be up to 100 challenges in the city's March council election, with close races hanging in the balance.

HOLIDAY — Agreed to either skip the board meeting scheduled for Feb. 12 — Lincoln's Birthday — or to meet on Feb. 11 if needed.

HOSPITAL — Refused the Marin Hospital District directors' request that the board delegate representatives to meet with hospital representatives on the controversy over Short-Doyle Medi-Cal funding for mental treatment. County Administrator John F. Barrows was instructed to meet with the hospital administration over the issue of which agency should guarantee payment on discrepancies found in financial audits.

WELFARE —Approved staff recommendations to create a $50,000 revolving fund within the human services and health department, to provide emergency loans for welfare recipients whose monthly checks are late since the federal Social Security Administration computer took over the check-writing task Jan. 1. Assistant County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella reported eight persons already have asked for $200 emergency loans, and up to 200 more requests may come in. The state will repay the loans if the recipients fail to repay them after regular welfare payments resume.

APPOINTMENTS — Approved appointment of Robert Jones as chairman and Lilly Whittle, Mick Cummins, Walter Johnson, Herb Belben Jr., Gretchen Gray, Fredrick Schroeder and Willard Hall as members of the advisory board to County Service Area 18, responsible for working on the Santa Venetia open space program. Nominated Allene Anderson of San Rafael for appointment by Gov. Ronald Reagan to the Napa State Hospital Advisory Board for the Mentally Retarded.

INSURANCE — Took no action on a report from the county administrator's office that earthquake insurance for county buildings would cost about $125,000 per year. The rate quoted included a 5 per cent deductible clause for the Civic Center, meaning the county would pay for the first $1 million worth of damage.

LEASE — Approved a five-year lease with the Kentfield Fire District for continued use of a portion of the fire station as a sheriff's substation. The monthly rental is $120.

OVERTIME — Approved $63,000 in overtime pay for sheriff's deputies during the remainder of this fiscal year. About $30,000 is for overtime caused by "sensitive trials" of San Quentin Prison inmates and will be paid by the state.

CONFLICT — Heard a report from Maloney on the state's new conflict-of-interest/financial disclosure law. Supervisors delayed action on a local conflict of interest ordinance until a listing of employees to fall under the regulation is complete.

APPEAL — Upheld the county environmental hearing officer's decision that no environmental impact report is necessary to remodel a warehouse at 24 Knoll Road in Strawberry into a veterinary hospital. The decision had been appealed by Dr. John E. Jansheski, a dentist with offices near the site who did not appear yesterday.

Prison Reports First '74 Stabbing Victim

Despite stringent security measures, San Quentin Prison yesterday had its first stabbing of the new year.

Inmate George L. Aguilar, 26, was in serious condition in the prison hospital today. He was stabbed several times in the back and neck, according to prison information officer William D. Nyberg.

A "known member" of the Mexican Mafia did the stabbing, and it was seen by a guard in the B section segregation unit who was escorting a group of men to the showers at 11 a.m., Nyberg reported. The stabber used a prison made blade.

Nyberg would not identify the attacker, but said his name and the evidence would be turned over to Marin County Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales for possible prosecution.

Aguilar had been in the segregation section since last Oct. 31, when he was transferred from another state prison after having trouble there. He was sentenced in Fresno County in July 1968 to a 10-year-to-life term for assaulting a police officer, robbery and auto theft. Aguilar was not a member of any inmate group, Nyberg said.

Candidate Available For Phone Talks

Tiburon City Council candidate John S. Mueller said today that he will be available to talk to voters by phone at his home every Monday and Friday from 9 a.m. until noon.

In addition to holding these phone hours, Mueller said that he will go to the homes of residents to discuss issues whenever three or more gather to ask him questions.

The Sweet Talk Doesn't Pay Off

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — When a man pushed a paper sack toward teller Linda K. Tsunehara at a bank drive-in window, she thought she was getting a present because the bag contained two candy bars.

But then she looked up and saw a revolver pointed at her.

But Linda wasn't buying his sweet talk. She fell to the floor and the man ran away, leaving the candy.

Capitol Records Lays Off 106

JACKSONVILLE, Ill. (UPI) — The Jacksonville plant of Capitol Records Co. has laid off 106 of its 570 employees because there are not enough materials available.

"Records and tapes are made from petro-based materials and there is a nationwide shortage of these now," said George Zeigler, personnel director at the plant.

Agricultural Report Touches Off Flap

The Marin County Supervisors' agricultural advisory committee yesterday took another swing at the still incomplete agricultural viability study being prepared by consultants — and the committee got its wrist slapped. But it came away with $2,500 and orders to prepare its own report to add to the consultants' survey.

"There's nothing to hang your hat on" in the report by consultants Baxter, McDonald and Smart of San Francisco, agriculture committee member Robert E. Parks complained. He had also criticized the report on Nov. 6.

"Apparently something's biting you," Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste told the Tomales sheep rancher. "I'd hoped the attitude of the committee would be one of going ahead" to find ways to keep agriculture an active part of Marin living, he said.

Parks presented a letter from William W. Wood Jr., University of California agricultural economist, that severely criticized the $10,000 viability study, citing "apparent lack of expertise" by the consultants and claiming that they made their survey fit "pre-conceived ideas as to what should be done with undeveloped portions of Marin."

Wood's letter "is a glaring example of looking behind," Baptiste declared. He and other supervisors also asked why the letter, dated Nov. 19, had not been given to the board earlier. Parks apologized for the delay.

County Admin. John F. Barrows apologetically presented another 11th hour development — a synopsis of a final, fifth chapter to the consultants' report. It deals with implementation of the earlier four chapters, which said that agriculture is important and should be helped to continue in Marin.

The board ordered copies of the tentative draft of the final chapter made available to the agricultural advisers, and asked for the committee's reactions by Feb. 5.

The consultants' synopsis recommends that the county ban any subdivision of agricultural lands that would result in parcels too small for practical farming, make arrangements for low-interest loans to help farmers meet water cleanliness rules, and strengthen the county farm adviser's staff.

Parks gave the supervisors a list of seven tasks his committee wants to tackle, some of which disagreed with the consultants' priorities. The supervisors approved the list, adding an eighth task — to list practical ways the supervisors can help farmers — in time for county budget discussions in June.

During nearly an hour of debating the agriculture survey's pros and cons, supervisors made Parks promise that his committee would not duplicate research in the consultants' reports.

Supervisors Robert A. Roumiguiere moved that the board allot $2,500 for the advisory committee to hire a research assistant to help prepare the committee's follow-up report before June. The expenditure was approved.

Dismissal Asked In Penry Case

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A motion to dismiss drug sale charges against Richard Allen Penry of Petaluma will be heard in Sonoma County Superior Court at 1:30 p.m. Jan. 31.

Penry, 24, a Congressional Medal of Honor winner was arrested in September and charged with selling cocaine to an undercover agent.

The motion to dismiss was made Monday by defense lawyer Robert Mackey on grounds that no probable cause was shown at a preliminary hearing in Petaluma Municipal Court to decide whether to hold Penry for trial in superior court.

A similar motion was made for Penry's codefendant, David Brian Lane of Santa Rosa.

The dismissal hearing will be before Judge Kenneth M. Eymann.

Shortage Of Oil Said Contrived

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The oil shortage is "as phony as a $9 bill" and was contrived by the oil industry, according to Jesse Calhoun, president of the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association (MEBA).

He charged yesterday that the oil industry staged the crisis to gain an increased oil depletion allowance, removal of price controls on natural gas, softer environmental restrictions, better terms on offshore drilling, better tax credits on foreign operations, and the trans-Alaska oil pipeline.

"The oil companies programmed this shortage starting back in 1967 when they slowed down refinery construction in the United Stats and built more refineries and storage facilities overseas," Calhoun told a news conference.

Indonesian Ban On Luxury Cars

JAKARTA (UPI) — The Indonesian government banned the import of luxury cars yesterday and said it would eventually close the country's nightclubs, steambaths and massage parlors.

The order was announced after a cabinet meeting and followed a recent appeal by President Suharto for Indonesians to live more austerely.

The order defined luxury cars as vehicles which cost more than those assembled within the country, such as Toyota compacts and Jeeps.

Power Problem Aboard Mariner

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The Mariner 10 space explorer, with more than half its journey to Venus completed, developed a power problem yesterday.

The spacecraft automatically switched from its main power system to a backup unit, the Jet Propulsion Laboratory said. Engineers did not know what caused the failure.

Mariner 10 was launched Nov. 3 on a three month voyage to Venus.

CHORUS TO PERFORM "ALICE"

Ferry Terminal Conditions Asked

Meeting for the second time in as many nights, the Corte Madera Town Council last night outlined 18 conditions it thinks should be met before the Larkspur Ferry Terminal is approved.

Conditions sought by the council center on the Golden Gate Bridge District's plan to restore a 188-acre marsh on the Muzzi property in Corte Madera. The bridge district has promised to restore the marsh to offset the terminal's environmental damage.

Councilmen worked on the conditions three hours and received comment and help from two dozen persons in the audience.

After an hour and a half of discussion Monday night, the council decided to comment officially on the terminal because of its impact on the town.

They asked that filled lands be dedicated permanently to marsh land, bay land, open space or parks and that no commercial uses be permitted. No land acquired by the bridge district should be returned to private ownership the council said.

Filling should meet requirements set by experts, according to the council. An advisory group should oversee filling and restoration and watch to see that terminal operation is not harmful to tidal or marshland areas, councilmen said.

The council asked that future filling or development of rapid transit systems on or around the marsh conform to the proposed Corte Madera General Plan. Specifically, councilmen requested that the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way not be used for rapid transit.

They also want the bridge district to retain existing bicycle and pedestrian paths to provide public access to the marsh.

After initial filling, no dredging or other spoils should be dumped on the marsh, the council recommended.

Adequate water, sewer, flood control and air and water quality control measures should be assured before the terminal is built, councilmen said.

And if marsh plants do not grow on the restored marsh area, the council wants to require the bridge district to plant marsh vegetation.

The council's conditions will be taken to the Bay Conservation and Development Commission this afternoon.

BCDC will meet Jan. 17 in Menlo Park to consider a permit for the ferry terminal. It delayed the granting of a permit until next week so that the council would have time to comment.

Most other agencies commented on the terminal last year but Corte Madera declined comment until three new councilmen were elected last month.

Leeb Chosen Council Head

Bruce Leeb is president of Las Gallinas Valley Presidents Council.

Delay Is Given In Hughes Case

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Billionaire Howard Hughes has been given a two-week delay in his arraignment on criminal charges resulting from his takeover of Airwest Airlines in 1969.

U.S. District Judge Roger Foley of Las Vegas yesterday postponed the arraignment from Friday to Jan. 25 and moved the case from Las Vegas to Reno.

Foley, at the same time, disqualified himself without explanation. Court observers said he took the action because his brother, a lawyer, had represented Hughes in the past.

In denying the request by Fred Nannizzi for a Fotomat film outlet at 2241 Fourth Street, commissioners said that traffic congestion accompanying the project was "too overwhelming" to allow the development, according to a planning department spokesman.

Nannizzi had proposed building the outlet on a strip of land 153 feet long and varying in width from 17 feet to three feet, between the east and westbound lanes of Fourth Street near the San Anselmo border.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

FUNCTION — Said commissioners John Starkweather, Alan Kay and Albert Boro will meet with city manager assistant Raymond Meador to review commission functions.

DOUGAN — Denied a bid by owner Victor Gavallos for multiple residential development of 302 Belle Avenue. Commissioner James Dougan supported Gavallos in a 5-1 vote.

MULTIPLE — Approved multiple residential use of 513-517 B Street, where a 10-unit apartment is planned.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. Jan. 15 in city hall.

San Rafael, air quality yesterday:
Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, significant air pollution.
Smoke particles, significant air pollution.

Other areas:
San Francisco, significant air pollution.
San Jose, severe air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources but the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

FORECASTS

San Francisco Bay Area: Mostly fair through Thursday; high Thursday in mid 50s to low 60s; low tonight in upper 20s and 30s with local frost; light winds.

Sierra Nevada: Fair tonight and Thursday; slightly warmer Thursday afternoon.

Napa and Sonoma valleys: Fair through Thursday but with patchy morning fog; continued cold tonight with frost; low tonight and high Thursday at Santa Rosa 26 and 60; light winds.

Board Awards Contract For New School

A million-dollar contract for a new elementary school was awarded last night by the Cotati-Rohnert Park School board.

The facility, La Fiesta Elementary School, will be built with about 25 classrooms in the Holiday Park section of the adjoining cities.

Assistant Supt. Robert Plikuhn said construction will begin as soon as grading and soil testing is completed. Grading will begin as soon as weather permits, he said.

Gardener's $200,000 Estate Touches Off Search For Heirs

The death of a reclusive gardener whose modest Strawberry home and grounds contain hundreds of valuable trees has touched off a search for heirs to his $200,000 estate.

When Leon Gagne, 79, died of a heart attack in December, he left no will, so the county public administrator's office has spent almost a month looking for relatives.

"We're fairly certain we're going to find first cousins in France," the home of Gagne's father, said Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, Marin public administrator and coroner.

Gagne, a landscape gardener whose father got him started in the profession, was "totally devoted" to more than 400 rare bonsai trees, Cooke said.

A friend of the old gardener for 25 years, Kenneth Davies of Corte Madera, said Gagne was "married to his devotion to creating exquisite trees. It must have taken every minute of his time."

A survivor of the 1906 San Francisco earthquake, Gagne left not only trees but several photo albums with pictures of old San Francisco and thousands of feet of film showing gardening showpieces in Alaska, Hawaii and other exotic places.

The inside of Gagne's home at 50 Rancho Drive is "so austere that it's totally out of keeping with the outside," said Cooke.

The entire estate, including trees, home, land and cash, totals about $200,000, Cooke said. The trees themselves may be worth $60,000 or $80,000 and include one 10-foot specimen which would fetch at least $4,000, he said.

Cooke said the estate will be sold at public auction and the proceeds divided among any heirs that can be found.

Driver Hurt In Collision

Snow Frost Freitas, of 94 Estrella Street was reported in satisfactory condition today at Memorial Hospital in Santa Rosa with broken ribs and bruises.

The California Highway Patrol said her car was northbound at 4:20 p.m. yesterday when she apparently made a left turn into the path of a southbound car driven by David P. Caphriner, 25, of 3710 Bodega Avenue, Petaluma.

Mrs. Freitas was cited for failure to yield right-of-way. The patrol said both cars were badly damaged.

SOUND ECONOMY

First Start With A Basic Dressing

Mixing your own salad dressings is one of the easiest ways to provide flavor variety in basic tossed salads and to have the right dressing for special salads. Creating dressing varieties at home is also sound economy.

From the basic French dressing given, seven (or more) dressings can easily be made. It's a question of varying the spices and herbs, reducing or increasing the sugar and adding catchup, sour cream or any other ingredient that will make the dressing right for a particular salad.

BASIC FRENCH DRESSING

- 1 cup oil
- ⅓ to ½ cup vinegar (lemon juice may be substituted for all or part)
- 1 to 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ½ teaspoon paprika
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 clove garlic

Measure oil, vinegar, sugar, salt, paprika, dry mustard and garlic into a bottle or jar. Cover tightly and shake well. Chill several hours. Remove garlic. Shake thoroughly before serving. Makes 1⅓ to 1½ cups.

Zesty Dressing: Follow recipe for basic French dressing, adding two tablespoons catchup, one tablespoon lemon juice and one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

Mystery Dressing: Mix ingredients for zesty dressing in small bowl. Add one unbeaten egg white. Beat with rotary beater until thoroughly blended. Store in covered jar in refrigerator. (Dressing thickens slightly on standing.) Mix well before serving. Makes about 1½ cups. Note: Dressing keeps well.

Spicy Dressing: Heat ⅓ to ½ cup vinegar. Add one tablespoon pickling spices (tied in cheesecloth, if desired). Let stand until vinegar is cool. Remove spices.

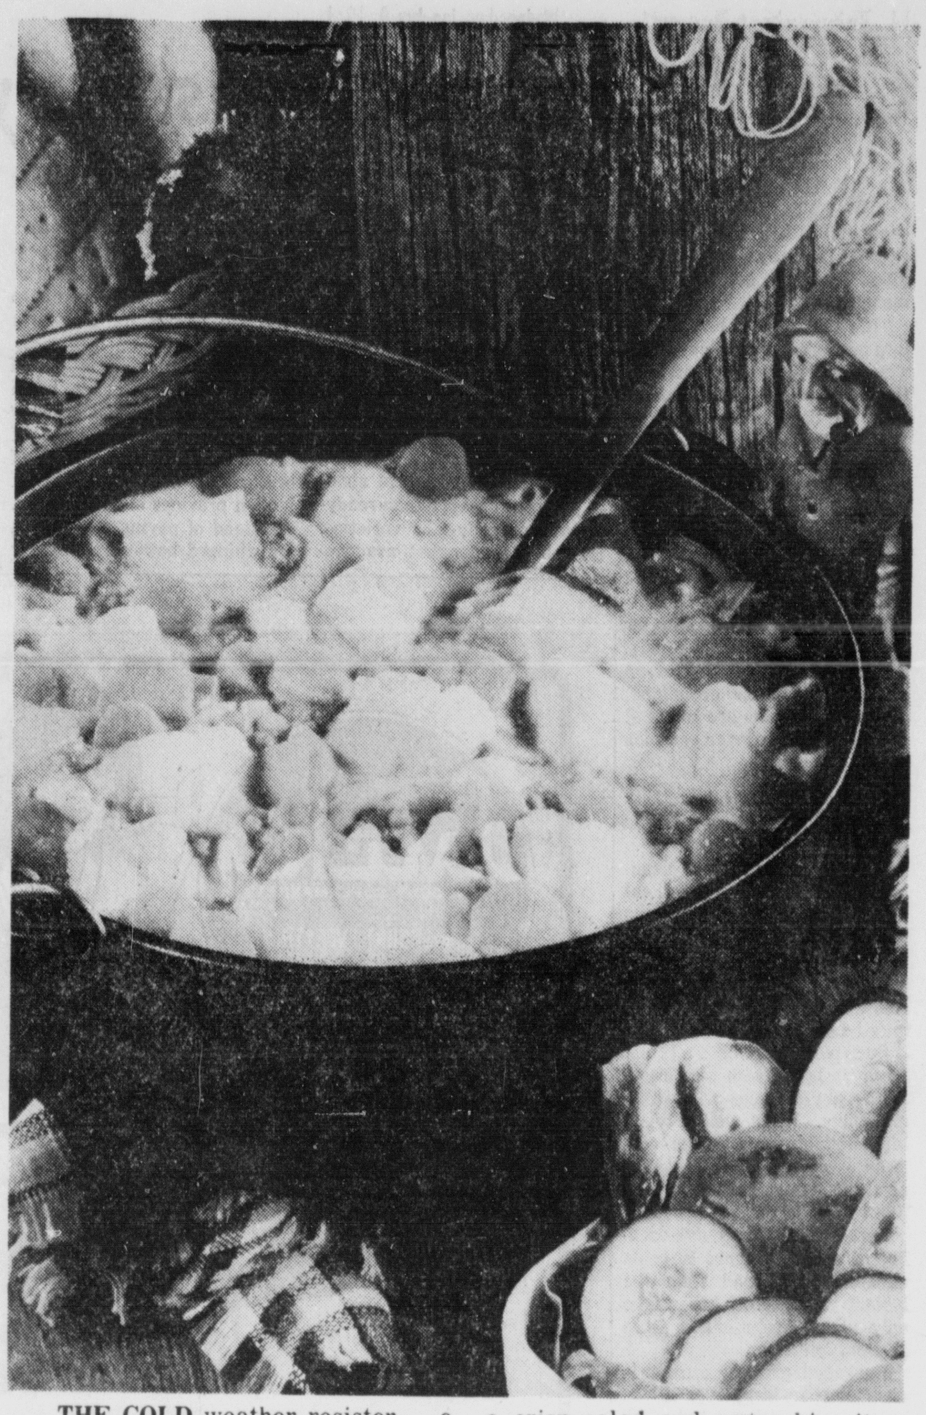
(Follow recipe for basic french dresing, using this vinegar.

Lemon Herb Dressing: Follow recipe for basic French dressing, using lemon juice for three quarters the vinegar, reducing range of sugar one to two tablespoons and substituting half teaspoon salad herbs for dry mustard.

Creamy Dressing: Follow recipe for the basic dressing, increasing sugar to one-quarter cup, omitting dry mustard and garlic, and adding one-half cup dairy sour cream and one-quarter cup catchup. Makes 2 cups.

Vinaigrette Dressing: Follow recipe for the basic dressing, omitting paprika, dry mustard and garlic, and adding one hard cooked egg (chopped), one tablespoon chopped pimiento, one tablespoon chopped chives and one tablespoon chopped green pepper. Makes 1⅔ cups.

Diet French Dressing: Follow recipe for basic dressing, decreasing vinegar to one-quarter cup, adding two tablespoons water and decreasing sugar and salt to 1 teaspoon each.



THE COLD weather resister — a hot cauldron of dinner bell fish soup-stew. Here it is served with a crisp salad and water biscuits and slabs of French bread.

Upside-Down Cakes Typical American Fare For Dessert

Upside-down cakes are typically American. Although their precise origin is not known, they were probably first prepared by an ingenious cook over 100 years ago. It was discovered that cakes could be made in a skillet when a butter and sugar syrup was placed in the pan before the batter.

Covered with a tight-fitting lid, the cake would rise, and when turned upside-down on a platter, the sweet glaze formed an icing. Fruits were later added to the glaze.

Today we do most of our baking in the oven, but upside-down cakes are still popular. This recipe is a modern adaptation of two old favorites combining gingerbread and peaches in an upside-down cake.

GINGERBREAD UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE

- ½ cup (1 stick) margarine
- ½ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- 1 can (16-ounce) peach slices, well drained
- 6 maraschino cherries
- 1¼ cups unsifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon ground ginger
- ¼ teaspoon ground cloves
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- ½ cup light molasses
- ½ cup hot water

Melt one-fourth cup margarine. Pour into an ungreased 8x8-inch cake pan. Evenly sprinkle brown sugar over melted margarine. Arrange peach slices and maraschino cherries on mixture. Set aside.

Combine flour, baking powder, salt, baking soda, ginger and cloves.

In a small mixer bowl cream together remaining one-fourth cup margarine and sugar. Beat in egg. Blend in molasses. Mix in flour mixture alternately with hot water. Pour batter into prepared pan.

Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes, or until done. Immediately invert onto serving plate. Serve warm or cold. Makes nine servings.

Fish Can Prove Blessing With Continuing Food Price Hikes

It's time to ring the dinner bell, and many are wondering what to serve. Feeding a family with tasty, nourishing food when prices continue to spiral is a challenge.

One fact to remember when planning your menus is that a little fish goes a long way. That isn't all that fishery products do, however; they are valuable nutritionally with high-quality protein and other essential nutrients, and the little fat in fish is polyunsaturated. Fish and shellfish require little preparation and cooking time and are great as the main entree or when combined with other foods in casseroles, chowders, soups, and stews.

The National Marine Fisheries Service is so excited about the possibilities of fishery products for hearty, satisfying, low-cost entrees, that they have developed a new booklet, "A Little Fish Goes A Long Way."

One of the recipes is dinner bell fish soup-stew. This hearty soup-stew requires only one pound of fish fillets cut into bite-size pieces and makes eight cups of chowder, or four to six servings.

The fish is combined with macaroni, carrots, onion, a can of condensed split pea with ham soup, milk, and seasonings. Hearty, flavorful, satisfying — this fish soup-stew can be ready to serve in about 30 minutes. Try it for lunch, brunch, or a Sunday night supper entree.

DINNER BELL FISH SOUP-STEW

- 1 pound fish fillets, fresh or frozen
- 2 cups water
- 1 cup elbow macaroni
- 1 cup sliced carrots
- 1½ cups chopped onion
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash of cloves
- Dash pepper
- 1 can (11½ ounce) condensed split pea with ham soup
- 2 cups milk

Thaw frozen fish; cut into one-inch pieces. Combine water, macaroni, carrots, onion, salt, cloves, and pepper in large saucepan or Dutch oven; bring to a boil. Cover and cook slowly about 15 minutes or until carrots and macaroni are both tender. Stir in soup and milk; heat and stir until well mixed. Add fish pieces. Cover and cook about 10 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Makes about eight cups chowder.

Use Beef Broth For Classic Cooking

A good beef broth is the liquid base for many classic dishes. Beef shanks and any saved beef bones are good for this purpose. Roast the beef and bones first to develop a rich brown color.

Carrots, celery, bay and garlic are the traditional flavorings to simmer in the broth. After two hours cooking time, strain the broth and refrigerate. Use within four days, or freeze.

Recipe Files

Keep two recipe files, one for recipes you have clipped, tried and found good; one for recipes you plan to try. A cluttered recipe file is discouraging to any cook!

Peach Treat

Fill canned peach havles with ready-to-use mincemeat and place in a shallow baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven until hot — about 20 minutes. Serve warm with vanilla ice cream.

Cut Food Bill Costs By Hands-Off Policy

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI) — Grocery shopping with a friend can be expensive, says an annual guide to eating better for less money.

"It's too easy to be tempted into purchases you might otherwise ignore, if your friend buys the items first," writes JoAnne Alter in the January issue of Family Circle magazine.

And we all know how children nag for candy and cereals boxed with toys.

Psychology and common sense are behind many of Ms. Alter's suggestions for food budgeting. For instance:

Follow a hands-off policy for anything you don't plan to buy. She quotes Nancy Weaver, a New Mexico home economist, as saying the odds are 19 out of 20 you'll buy whatever you pick up to examine.

PAY CASH. You're less likely to buy unneeded items than you would if paying by check.

Non-food items such as cleaning and paper products can eat up 20 to 25 per cent of your supermarket dollar. Before you buy them, compare prices for similar items at drug and discount stores, whose products may be cheaper.

Buy plain cereals and mix them at home with any sweetening you like, plus dried fruits and nuts. When you buy in large quantities transfer contents of open boxes or bags to airtight containers to keep them fresh to the last spoonful.

Remember that quick-cooking cereals are about 50 cents cheaper per pound than the instant varieties. And they take only about five minutes more preparation time.

Packaged produce usually is cheaper than loose even if you occasionally find one bad piece in a lot.

Pre-mised fruits generally cost more than combinations you can make at home, especially if you take advantage of seasonal fresh products to mix with canned, dried and frozen ones.

LARGE BAGS of frozen vegetables can save as much as 40 per cent over nine and 10-ounce packages.

Home-baked cakes are about 75 per cent cheaper than ready-to-eat or ready-mix varieties. Homemade pancakes are one-twentieth the price of pour and bake ones, and less than one-quarter the price of dry mixes.

Buy spices in the least expensive packaging — cardboard or metal. Transfer the contents to reusable bottles for long-term storage.

Buy boullion cubes, instead of canned beef or chicken broth for cooking stews and braising meats. A 22-cent package of cubes will make 120 ounces of broth, but a 22-cent can of bullion provides only 10 ounces.

Instead of paying a premium for whipped butter, make your own. Beat softened butter with an electric mixer at medium speed until it's fluffy.

Sometimes it pays to shop late. Many stores reduce prices on perishables such as meat, ripe fruit and baked goods just before closing time at the end of a week, rather than hold over food that may spoil and be unsaleable. You can sometimes save as much as 50 per cent on melons, bananas, bread and cakes, while meat may be reduced 10 to 20 per cent.

READ LABELS for net weight. One well-known cereal manufacturer packs four different flavors of oatmeal in four identical boxes that usually are sold at the same prices, Ms. Alter wrote, but their contents vary from nine ounces in one box, to 10, 12 and 13 in others.

You can save 10 to 20 cents on every chicken you buy if you choose whole ones and cut them up yourself.

Canned, condensed soups generally are a better buy than heat-and-serve ones, because the extra ingredient in the latter is water.

Lunch meats are not really protein bargains, even though they're boneless. The government permits processors of bologna, salami, hot dogs and similar items to add 30 per cent fat and 10 per cent water to the meats they contain.

Mrs. Alter said liverwurst is the least expensive in terms of protein content, followed by frankfurters, salami, bologna and pork sausage. She added that you can save about 40 per cent of their cost by buying in bulk and slicing the meats at home.

Grapefruit Is A Bonus Market Buy

Grapefruit is a bonus fruit — you can enjoy the nutritious inside "meat" and then, as a bonus, you can use the shell to make an ordinary dish into a spectacular one.

But first, start with high quality grapefruit. Here are some tips on choosing grapefruit from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service.

Thin-skinned fruits have more juice than coarse-skinned ones. If the grapefruit is pointed at the stem end, it is likely to be thick skinned. Rough, ridged, or wrinkled skin can also be an indication of thick skin, pulpiness, and lack of juice.

Grapefruit often has skin defects — such as scars, thorn scratches or discoloration — which usually do not affect the eating quality.

Remember grapefruit is picked "tree ripe" and is always ready to eat when you buy it.

Avoid fruit with cuts or skin punctures, soft spots on the surface or soft discolored areas around the stem end. These are signs of decay.

TANGY GRAPEFRUIT SALAD

3 grapefruit
1 package frozen French style green beans, cooked
½ cup diced American cheese
½ cup diced red onion
French dressing or mayonnaise

Cut grapefruit into halves; cut around sections. Put sections in a bowl. With scissors, snip out white membranes and reserve shells. Drain beans and gently toss with grapefruit sections, cheese and onion. Spoon into shells; chill. Serve with French dressing or mayonnaise. Makes six servings.

FRUITED CRATERS

3 grapefruit
2 medium size bananas
1 10-oz. package frozen raspberries, thawed
1 3¼ oz. package vanilla pudding mix
2½ cups milk
1½ teaspoons brandy extract
¼ cup toasted sliced almonds

Halve and section grapefruit; remove white membranes from shells, saving shells. Peel and slice bananas. Combine with grapefruit sections and add drained raspberries. Heap into shells and chill. Prepare pudding according to package directions, using 2½ cups milk and brandy extract. Cool; pour over fruit. Sprinkle with toasted almonds. Makes six servings.

Party Planner Is Next A.M. Series Lecturer

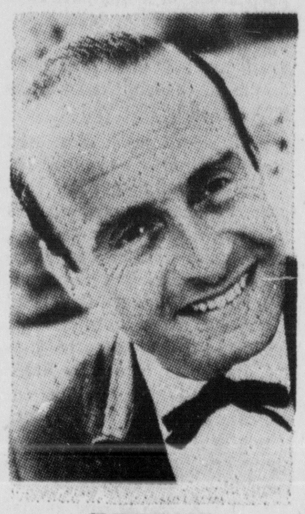
Clive David, who masterminds parties that cost upward of $50,000 and who counts some of the world's most famous people among his clients, will speak on "A Party for All Seasons" in the A.M. lecture series Jan. 18.

His program on big and small parties will be the third in the A.M. season of six at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building at 10:30 a.m.

British born, the 38-year-old David recently presented the "Ballo in Maschera" at the Palazzo Rezzonico in Venice, pooling his talents with Cecil Beaton and Earl Blackwell for the festivities, a benefit for artisans who had lost so much in the floods there.

David becomes involved in every detail of a party he plans, from concept to cleanup, and limits himself to three big events per year. His tips will include planning the small home entertainment to the large ball.

"There's a whole new era now with increasing leisure time. And there will be more and more parties at home, in the backyard, on the terrace, on boats. The small parties are just as much of a challenge as the big ones," David says.



CLIVE DAVID
party architect

David studied at the Royal College of Art in London and worked as a designer for Chippendale's. When his work became well known, Gimbel brothers invited him to the United States, and he moved into public relations and fund-raising.

"Fund-raising is America's fourth largest business," according to David. "It is dying for lack of imagination. So many parties are dull and uncreative. Who wants to pay $50 to $100 for cold roast beef?"

Some of David's efforts have been a business party for 1,000 guests in a limestone cave near Kansas City, a red, white and blue party for the premiere of "George M" in New York, a Viennese "Petit Bal" for the Leukemia Society in Boston, a birthday party for the late President John F. Kennedy in Madison Square Garden, a party honoring Queen Elizabeth and Prince Phillip of Great Britain on their official visit to the Bahamas and a Cavalcade of Style in Los Angeles for the County-USC Medical Center.

David will speak on how to give a party with that magical extra that makes it an exciting event.

Tickets for the A.M. program are available from the Marin Memorial Box Office, Civic Center, San Rafael.

A coffee hour at 9:30 a.m. will precede the talk.

Women's College Revolution Is On

By CHRIS KENRICK
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

A quiet revolution is currently under way on women's college campuses throughout the United States.

From Wellesley president Barbara Newell's assertion that "coeducation has failed" to special women's research projects at Mills College in Oakland, U.S. female institutions are renewing a strong, self-conscious commitment to the issue of educating women.

Between 1960 and 1972, faced with shrinking applicant pools as well as with a forceful trend toward coeducation, one half of the nation's 298 women's colleges either opened their doors to men or went out of business.

But now, supported by heightened feminist awareness among students as well as by recent studies showing that a high proportion of successful women are graduates of single-sex institutions, the few remaining independent female bastions are enjoying a revival of purpose.

"At a time when a lot of institutional identity crisis is going on, there's an enormous advantage in having a specific focus and commitment," notes Mount Holyoke president David B. Truman.

"THE PROBLEMS of young women are fundamentally different from those of young men in this society; and they must be a specialized concern in education, especially higher education, if the waste of dysfunctional stereotypes are to be reduced."

Indeed, many heads of all-female institutions share the conviction of a Carnegie Commission report issued this past fall —that for years to come the women's college will retain a key role in achieving equality for women in higher education as a whole.

"The current trend toward coeducation has increased rather than lessened male domination of American higher education," Wellesley's Dr. Newell has commented. "In spite of affirmative action guidelines, most educational institutions have but token women faculty members along with their token black faculty.

"It is naive to believe that any movement for educational equity for women can come out of such colleges and universities. This leadership will have to be sustained by colleges like Wellesley."

BUT DESPITE a renewed raison d'etre, women's colleges everywhere face major challenges in maintaining financial resources and academic standing to survive on top. Decisions made in the last five years by Princeton, Yale, Dartmouth, Williams, and Trinity Colleges to open their doors to women have created new competition for such places as Smith, Mount Holyoke, Wellesley, and Mills — traditionally drawing card schools for the nation's top female high school graduates.

Of the original Seven Sisters, Vassar became coeducational in 1969 and Barnard, Bryn Mawr, and Radcliffe have evolved close associations with Columbia, Haverford, and Harvard respectively. Only Mount Holyoke, Smith and Wellesley remain as relatively "pure" women's institutions. All three of these schools have considered — and rejected — coeducation within the last two years.

But admissions directors at the female holdout campuses are fairly optimistic.

"To be effective as a women's college we must maintain our place in academic leadership," says Wellesley admissions director Mary Ellen Ames. "That means running harder than ever before, but I think we can do it."

"Of course I'm apprehensive about the future," reports Mount Holyoke admissions director Reggie Ludwig. "I'm not smug about anything. But I think we're holding our own."

Admissions officers report that their biggest application drops and student transfers occurred around 1969 and 1970 — at the height of the coeducational trend. "Then it was the big thing to transfer to Yale," re-

Tiburon Women Are Home After Tour Of Holy Land

By MOLLY MARIN

Two women have returned to their Tiburon homes after a 15-day tour of the Holy Land. Mrs. Gustave Snelling and Mrs. Homer Hixon were on the National Federation of Music Clubs Good Will Tour under the auspices of U.S. Ambassador to Israel Kenneth B. Keating.

Their travels took them to Cyprus, Jerusalem and Greece. Greece.

On Christmas eve they were in Bethlehem and Jersualem. Some members attended Mass at the Church of The Nativity, the traditional birthplace of Christ.

MR. AND MRS. Thomas V. Miles have returned from a wedding trip to Europe and Squaw Valley and are living in Novato.

The couple was married Dec. 8 at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley. The bride is the former Bonnie Joy Lowrie, daughter of Bud R. Lowrie of San Rafael and Christie E. Lowrie of Santa Rosa. The bridegroom's parents are Orville Miles of Bend, Ore., and Mrs. John P. Edge of Klamath Falls, Ore.

The bride is an artist, and the bridegroom is employed at Marin Yacht Sales in San Rafael.

DR. AND MRS. Marshall Rothstein of Mill Valley have just said farewell to a houseful of holiday guests. Mrs. Rothstein's father, Jean Igelman, and uncle, Albert Igelman, were visiting from Paris. Dr. Rothstein's parents, the William Rothsteins, came from New York to spend the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rothstein were honored with a surprise New Year's Eve party for 50 friends they have made on their frequent visits to Marin. The occasion was their 50th wedding anniversary.

The party at their children's home included a French dinner cooked by native Parisian Mrs. Rothstein, a newsreel of the important events of 1923 and presentation of a composite of photographs of events in their lives together.

MR. AND MRS. Walter Freitas of San Rafael entertained over the weekend at the Pebble Beach home for golfers and guests attending the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Championship.

MRS. VINCENT J. McGarry was installed yesterday as vice president of the San Francisco Auxiliary of the Children's Hospital at Stanford.

Janet McGarry, who lives in Greenbrae, will also be chairman of the auxiliary's annual Jewel Ball.

THE GOLDEN anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Riggs of Santa Rosa will be celebrated tonight at a large dinner party at the Flamingo Hotel in Santa Rosa.

Mr. and Mrs. Riggs are the parents of Mrs. William Broderick of Mill Valley, who attended with her husband and their daughters, Linda, Bonnie, and Jill.

The anniversary pair were married Jan. 9, 1924, in Pomona. They lived in Southern California, Oregon and Montana before moving to Santa Rosa last year. Riggs was employed as an insurance salesman early in his career and later owned and operated restaurants in Montana. Mrs. Riggs is a registered nurse. He is a World War I veteran. Both have been active in Masonic organizations. He belongs to the Elks Club, the Veterans of World War I and the American Legion and Mrs. Riggs is a member of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Since moving to Santa Rosa they have become active in the Methodist Church and belong to a church group, "Le Gusta Amigos."

They enjoy travel and since Riggs' retirement have visited Australia, New Zealand, Japan, the South Pacific, Alaska and Mexico.

LAURA STOCKING

Laura Lee Stocking To Marry

Laura Lee Stocking's engagement to Gregory E. Turner has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. (Mike) Stocking of San Rafael.

Laura, who is the sister of Michael Stocking and the granddaughter of Mrs. Clayton F. Stocking of San Rafael, is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and attends the College of Marin.

Gregory is the son of Mrs. Al Mangini of San Rafael and the late Horace Lee Turner. He is the brother of Bill Turner of Anchorage, Alaska, and Rich Turner, Mrs. Gary Cappel and Mrs. Jim Olson, all of Boise, Idaho. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eslinger of Sonoma are his grandparents.

Gregory is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and is employed by Larry Brink Motors in Mill Valley.

Shortages Will Boost Women's Wear Costs

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Feminine apparel will cost around 10 per cent more this spring than it did one year ago because the fashion industry has its own crisis of shortages.

There is a dearth of the natural fibers—wool, silk and cotton—and shortages developing in the man-made fibers too, says a leading source in the industry. And, the price is going up for all those petrochemicals used in the manufacture of the synthetics.

"Better hang on to your polyesters," Vince Monte-Sano advised women. Monte-Sano is president of the New York Couture Business Council, a trade group representing a big chunk of the garmen industry.

Monte-Sano, making the estimate of a 10 per cent increase, said that there might be some increase due to labor costs but most contracts have been signed "with about two and one-half years to go."

SHORTAGES IN the natural fibers grew when producers cut back with the sweep-in of the synthetics, he said. Then as prices rose on the synthetics, manufacturers went looking for the naturals again.

"But the American ability to produce is there," he said. "I have faith the pendulum will swing."

Monte-Sano was one of the speakers at the opening Monday of "National Press Week", the 62nd semi-annual event the business council sponsors to show visiting reporters their new collections.

"Despite shortages, Seventh Avenue (heart of New York's garment industry) is resilient," he said. "I think the industry knows where it's going in style now."

Where it's going is to a softened look, more and more trouser costumes for day and evening and no need to be alarmed about the ups and downs of hemlines. They're pretty stabilized as just covering the knee.

ANOTHER SPEAKER, Jerry Silverman, gave the editors some comparative statistics on the U.S. market as compared with the French. Silverman is chairman of the Fashion Capital of the World, a promotion group representing both manufacturers and unions in the New York market.

"We have 8,000 manufacturers in New York City" said Silverman.

"We have 200,000 persons in the apparel industry here ... the largest industry in the city and

Musical Version Of 'Beanstalk' To Be Presented

A musical adaptation of "Jack and the Beanstalk" will be presented Saturday at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. in Olney Hall at the College of Marin.

Proceeds will benefit the San Anselmo Cooperative Nursery School and be used to purchase equipment.

The classic children's tale will be presented by the Sunshine Players, a company of local professional actors.

Tickets are available at the nursery school, 24 Myrtle Lane in San Anselmo, and by writing to 103 Woodland Road, Fairfax.

New Hair Dryer Very Versatile

A new hand-held hair dryer from Remington has more power than any other from the same maker. It dries and styles more effectively, more efficiently and faster, says the manufacturer. The air flow speeds through all hair types and thicknesses — long, blunt cut, layered.

A number of attachments come with the dryer. These include three clip-in-place grooms — a brush with four rows of bristles, a wide-toothed comb, and a narrow-toothed comb. The unit can be used by men, women and children, the manufacturer says.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Alaskans Seeking A Mountain Of Crocker Coupons For Gym

DEAR HELEN:

I have heard that your readers have helped put several Betty Crocker coupon collections over the top. Do you have space for one more request — a rather unusual one?

Here in Galena, Alaska, a town of 450 people, we have a regional high school that serves many of the villages in the surrounding area as well. Our only gym facilities in this part of Alaska are located at a nearby Air Force base.

Although the base has been kind enough to allow us limited use of the gym for our students, our growing enrollment has created a problem. The gym is small, and our activities cannot infringe on those of the airmen.

Federal and state funds are not presently available, so our athletic association has looked into various areas of fund raising, for the $500,000 project.

We have found that 20 million Betty Crocker coupons will cover costs. So far we and the students have collected about 8,000! And we must have the remaining before August, 1974!

We know we have set ourselves a very difficult task, but with the help of your millions of readers, we just might win for our young people what is taken for granted in other areas of the United States — a physical education program.

Could you ask people to save and send their Betty Crocker Coupons to: Galena Sports Association, Box 64, Galena, Alaska, 99741? Thank you for helping — Russell Sweetsir, Public Relations Director

DEAR RUSS:

Twenty million coupons before August, 1974! You need all the help you can get! May our readers flood you with Betty Crocker coupons. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

There's much talk of interracial adoptions lately, and we're urged to adopt handicapped, hard-to-place children. But why is it always a white family who does the adopting?

There are plenty of affluent blacks these days. Shouldn't they be allowed to take a handicapped child of a different race, if a white family is allowed to raise a so-called colored child?

Until this happens, I'd say our agencies are still much more prejudiced than they imply. — THINKER

DEAR THINKER:

I think you should check the facts before you make blanket statements. Black families have adopted interracially — and we may hear from a few when your letter is printed.

Hope so. . . — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Seems to me the energy crisis plus the ecology movement has caught us between a rock and a hard place:

To save gas, we can burn coal or wood in fireplaces — but we produce more smog and complaints.

Industry can conserve likewise by using coal — and the smokestacks belch out black fumes.

We can't get enough gasoline for our cars, but at the same time we're required to use smog control devices which cut down efficiency by some five to ten miles per gallon.

We could solve the energy problem — at least in good part — if we'd convert to atomic energy plants, but Ralph and his friends cry "Danger!"

Likewise we could get much more oil and gas out of the ground and produce more hydro-electric power if ecologists and conservationists weren't such avid protectionists.

Whichever way we turn, we're hurting one part of our lives to help another. Meanwhile, the stockmarket sinks, recession draws closer — and I'm — FREEZING

DEAR FREEZING:

On the other hand, for the first time since World War II, the American people are rallying in a common cause — we've become aware of emergencies that we can lick if we work together, and most of us are cooperating without undue howls.

Isn't it worth a little hardship, if our mutual problems bring us closer together? — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? A fun idea? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

COLLEGE

calls Smith admissions director Mary Reutner.

"BUT NOW, high school women are questioning their motives. They're not just coming to Smith because it's a status college, but very consciously because it's a women's college."

Mrs. Reutner cites a recent survey in which Smith students voted by a clear margin to remain a women's college. This contrasts to a 1969 poll in which most students expressed a desire for coeducation.

"Sure we're losing some students to Princeton and Yale," she said. "But plenty of bright young women continue to choose Smith."

WELLESLEY, WHICH has a 99-year history of female presidents, boasts a female faculty ratio of over 50 per cent. At Mount Holyoke and Smith the figures are slightly under that.

These compare disproportionately with national figures. Women now account for 23.1 per cent of assistant professors, 15.8 per cent of associate professors, and 9.4 per cent of full professors in the United States, and are paid an average of 17 per cent less than men, according to this year's federal statistics.

Foes frequently accuse women's colleges of maintaining an artificially separate and therefore useless atmosphere. It is unrealistic to separate women students at the college level, the reasoning goes, because sooner or later they are going to have to face a mixed society.

Those at women's colleges disagree. Dr. Alice Ilchman, who left a post on the Berkeley faculty to become a dean at Wellesley this fall, believes that a separate atmosphere can be useful and even crucial for many students.

"WHAT UPSETS me about many young women in our society is a certain sense of postponement in making a lot of important decision about their lives until they meet the men these decisions will be shared with," she said recently.

Distinctive problems continue to disturb the nation's female institutions. Some students still complain of feeling "isolated" in women's enclaves, and weekend mass exits to male campuses are by no means a thing of the past.

Women's college administrators continue to be concerned with keeping top students in the face of coeducation alternatives. And several professors express fear that any waning of the national feminist movement would witness the downfall of the female institution.

But enthusiasm for the special purposes of women's colleges is widespread on these campuses, and it remains to be seen what their future role will be on the American educational scene.

Golf Chairman

Mrs. Robert Pritchard of Upper Lucas Valley has been elected chairman of the Marin Country Club Nine Holers Golfers, not a Lucas Valley golf group as stated in a headline in Monday's Independent-Journal.

A FAVORITE look in spring dresses being shown at Press Week in New York this week is the wrapped one. A section of the bodice is cut to wrap over the other and ends in a self-fabric sash or belt.

(UPI Telephoto)

state. New York manufacturers of women's and children's wear) do $10 billion in retail annually.

"The French have 5,000 sewers (sic) for combined couture and pret-a-porter."

IN A WELCOME innovation for the "press week" of shows, the council gave a panorama of what's ahead by groups—coats and suits, popular prices dressed ($20 to $50 retail), blouses and accessories, sportswear, better dressed ($50 on up and up), and children's dresses and coats.

In previous years, the stress has been on individual collections.

Leader in the coat field is the all-purpose wrap, called the "weatherless," shown in poplins, both neutral and patterned, and treated cottons, usually shown in bright plaids. The neutrals ranged from white through the beige family. Favorite style: the casual trench, belted.

In dresses, all price ranges, the favorite look is the wrapped one, one section of the bodice cut to wrap over the other, and the works at the top ending in a self-fabric sash or belt.

Meeting Is Scheduled On New Voter Program

The Parent-Teacher-Student Association of Tamalpais High School will have an open meeting on the "New Voter Program" at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday in the Student Center at the high school in Mill Valley.

Designed to assist those who are now eligible to vote at the age of 18, the New Voter Program conducts training classes for social studies teachers, which gives them the opportunity to meet local government officials and to learn first hand about community affairs. This knowledge is brought back to the classroom in a New Voter course, and students are encouraged to select projects which will allow them to become familiar with local government.

Such a course is now available at Terra Linda High School, and P-T-S-A leaders have planned the program Tuesday to inform students, parents and community members about the voter education course, with the hope that such a course could be included in the Tamalpais High School curriculum in the fall semester.

Those participating in the panel discussion will be Elizabeth Brouse, government teacher at Tamalpais High School; Peter Meyers, Marin County Elections Officer, president, New Voter Program; Dr. Jared B. Sharon, assistant dean, College of Marin, vice president, New Voter Program; Mrs. Lotte Schiller, trustee, Tamalpais High School district, and Janet Kahl, government teacher, Terra Linda High School; and two students from Terra Linda High School, presently enrolled in the New Voter class.

Little Girls' Body A Cell Factory

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Every minute, three billion cells in a little girl's body are being replaced by new ones," says an ad prepared by the Advertising Council for placement in magazines for girls and young women.

The ad for a campaign aimed at improving the nation's nutrition and health, continues: "The material for each new cell comes from nutrients in the food she eats. What these nutrients do once they reach her body, and what they do with each other will make her different from every other little girl."

Check Before Buying Bulk Beef, Food Plan

Check first before you decide to buy bulk beef or subscribe to a food plan, warns the California Department of Consumer Affairs and the Department of Food and Agriculture.

Buying a large quantity may not mean it's a bargain, according to Dorothy Walt, consumer information officer.

The consumer department suggests these steps before purchasing bulk meat or food, or signing up for a food plan.

1. Ask about the quality of the products and make sure the products are not inferior substitutes.

2. Ask for an itemized list of specific cuts of meat or amounts of each product purchased. In bulk meat sales, often few steaks but large amounts of ground meat are given.

3. Compare costs with retail prices, and check and consider the cost of freezers, locker storage, cutting and packaging.

4. Read all labels, advertising and contracts. Resist high pressure sales and "bargains" that are "your last chance" to buy.

New Toothbrush Probably Needed

Dental researchers report that most toothbrushes in most bathrooms are infrequently used or are unusable. They recommend that teeth be treated to at least one good brushing a day, using the method recommended by the dentist, and that toothbrushes be replaced about once every two months.

New methods of toothbrushing involve action that could be injurious to teeth and gums if a medium or hard-bristled brush were to be used. Therefore, most dentists now recommend the use of a soft-bristled toothbrush instead.

Capitol To Stay Open For Awhile

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The legislature's Rules Committee has reversed itself and decided to keep the 104-year-old state Capitol open to the public until at least April 1 despite a potential earthquake threat.

The committee voted yesterday to grant citizens complete access to the golden-domed structure, including now-closed chamber galleries, until all state offices have been evacuated from the "hazardous" west wing of the Capitol.

Last year the committee ordered the Capitol's giant oak doors closed Jan. 1 after studies showed the west wing could collapse in an earthquake. Due to moving delays, however, the historic structure will not be empty until at least April 1.

In a related action, it was proposed that a White House-style executive office building could be constructed near the planned governor's mansion east of Sacramento in Carmichael.

The proposal would eliminate the need for a new Capitol because legislators could move into the governor's current offices, said Assemblyman John L. Burton, committee chairman.

Burton said the new plan was advanced by unnamed "prominent citizens." He added that he soon will ask the full legislature, in the form of a resolution, whether the idea warranted a thorough study.

Already there are two proposals before the Legislature to provide lawmakers with extra space now that the Capitol's west wing has been branded an earthquake hazard.

One proposal is to erect a new legislative building. The other is to reconstruct and expand the Capitol for use by both legislators and the governor. A decision on the rival plans is expected this year.

Reversing previous actions, the committee also voted yesterday to erect large signs warning the public that the Capitol could tumble down in an earthquake instead of requiring visitors to sign liability waivers.

Truffaut Film Voted Best Of '73

The circle, representing critics from 26 New York-based magazines and papers, voted "American Graffitti" as runner-up to "Day for Night", and "State of Siege" as the third best picture of the year.

Marlon Brando was chosen as the year's best actor for his role in "Last Tango in Paris." Joanne Woodward was voted as best actress for her role in "Summer Wishes, Winter Dreams."

The best supporting actor award went to Robert De Niro for playing a small time gangster in "Mean Streets." Valentina Cortesa was named best supporting actress for "Day For Night," the comedy about making a movie, which also won the best director award for Truffaut.

"American Graffiti," the nostalgic romance of youth in the 1960s, was cited as the best screenplay.

"State of Siege" came in second for two other categories, for Costa-Gravas as director and for its screenplay.

Emblematic Paintings Dubbed 'Mandala Series' By Artist

By ADA GARFINKEL

Electra Lamblin has designated her bright emblematic paintings as the "Mandala Series" in her exhibit with Linda Pedersen at the Genesis Gallery in Mill Valley.

Each "Mandala" (mandalas are paintings within a circular form) rests on a four-foot square format. Some are on canvas supports, others on board and this varies the surface. One is very much aware of the pervasive Mayan and Aztec influences both in color and symbolism.

Strangely enough, however, there is no impression of static immobility. Miss Lamblin develops an active sense of motion and vibrancy through linear rhythms and rapid color changes. She also builds volume, contour, and recessive space, all of which develop a mobility not usually found in formalized painting.

"Mandala VI" employs a basic flower form. Its huge petals are seen in multiple layers, each exposing the edge of the preceding one. Rapidly alternating brilliant yellows, oranges, blues, and violets indicate the presence of changing light.

Reddish trumpet-shaped flowers form a circular arch on a black background in "Mandala VII", while green vines move into a diamond shape within the circle. Tension becomes a palpable force as the points press against the circle and the framing edges of the canvas.

Stylized wing shapes in graduated diminishing sizes, become smaller and smaller as one's eye is drawn inwardly to focus upon the central core of "Mandala IV," and the guardian snakes surrounding it.

There great sensitivity to color and brushwork in "Mandala VIII," and spontaneity in personal development of design. One can say that this is truly the artist's own.

Liquified to pouring consistency and colored in gem-like ruby, amber, amythest, and jade, the mixture is carefully, yet freely flowed on to a sparkling white canvas.

Partly opaque and partly translucent, the mutating shapes of these blobs and swirls on the large expanses of white suggest the life process of cellular growth and structure.

"Funky Walnuts" shows two views of a young man reading. His chair, footstool, lamp, and pillow are all walnuts — in the round and on the half-shell.

"Big Tree on Sycamore Street" masses frontal view of house, tree, picket fence, and distant hills in tonal gradations of dots.

This exhibit may be seen through Jan. 31 daily from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday. The gallery is located on the second floor of 2 Miller Avenue.

To State Board

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan Monday named Dr. Willie B. Phillips of Los Angeles to the state board of Optometry to replace Dr. Marvin R. Poston of Danville, who resigned. Phillips' term expired June 1, 1975.

Petitioners Seeking Unicameral System

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A drive has been launched to give California voters a chance to decide next November whether the state should have a one-house legislature rather than the current two-house body.

A newly formed group called "One for All" yesterday announced a signature-gathering campaign to place an initiative establishing a unicameral legislature on the Nov. 7 general election ballot.

The group is led by Berkeley Municipal Court Judge Lewis Sherman, a former Republican state senator, who told a news conference a single-house legislature would be more efficient, more responsible and would produce an "incredible savings in cost."

He said specific savings could amount to $15 million to $20 million a year over the longrun.

Under the group's proposal, the current two-house, 120-member legislature would be changed into a single body with 99 members known as "senators." The senators would be elected for staggered, four-year terms.

Supporters must gather 525,000 voter signatures by May 27 to place the measure on the ballot.

The initiative effort parallels a drive in the legislature to have a similar proposal placed directly on the ballot without need of a signature campaign.

The legislative proposal is headed by Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo, who is carrying one constitutional amendment to revamp the legislature into a single house (SCA32) and another to put responsibility for legislative reapportionment into the hands of a public commission (SCA1).

The initiative would similarly take away from the legislature the task of reapportionment.

Volkswagen Has Sales Increase

WOLFSBURG, Germany (UPI) — Sales of vehicles made by the Volkswagen company rose by 6 per cent during 1973 to reach a total of 2,300,000, the firm reported today.

Sales of the classic "beetle" remained relatively stable, at about 1,480,000, the firm said. Most of the increase resulted from the sale of the new "Passat" model, of which about 1,200 are being turned out daily, the firm added.

Volkswagen's most important foreign market continued to be the United States, although sales dropped there by about 3 per cent, to approximately 470,000 cars for the year, the firm said.

Bruce Carradine Packing For A Whack At Movies

By PAUL LIBERATORE

Boxes congest the floors of his raw redwood chalet, perched on a hillside in Tamalpais Valley. He bounds around the rooms, shifting things here and there, answering the telephone, banishing an enthusiastic puppy outdoors, before settling down to discuss his destination: Hollywood. And himself: Bruce Carradine, former office machine salesman turned full-time actor.

The movie capital is not exactly foreign soil to him. He was born there. His father is internationally respected film star John Carradine. He is, no doubt, tired of hearing this, but he is Kung Fu's brother.

Actually, he is the older brother of David Carradine, who has become somewhat of a cult figure through his portrayal of Caine, a peace-loving Shaolin priest who systematically shreds bad guys with karate chops each week on ABC television's successful "Kung Fu" series.

Bruce Carradine, playing a forthright sheriff, will make his TV debut on an episode of that show to be aired at 9 p.m. tomorrow on ABC.

He was uncomfortable giving his first interview yesterday. He feels he is unworthy. Besides, he says, interviews are generally boring.

"They're all the same. The guy has a rocky childhood, gets kicked out of school, you know. Actually I was a straight A student at San Jose and San Francisco State and in grad school at UCLA."

He became a high school teacher in Lodi, Calif. ("It has the largest tire mold manufacturinng company in the world," he offered), but grew bored with teaching after two years and embarked on a desultory trip through Europe.

He returned to the Bay Area to land a job hawking office machines. "Oh, God, I hated it," he howled. "I don't know how I stayed with it as long as I did."

During his eight years in Marin, Carradine, who bears a resemblance to his well-known brother and father, kept active in theater work, appearing with the Marin Shakespeare Festival, the Interplayers, a San Francisco drama group, and in productions at the old Playhouse Theater in San Francisco, now defunct.

The Kung Fu episode in which he plays "a moderate role" was filmed last month. It was an experience that turned out to be, well, boring. "It takes 10 hours to shoot seven minutes used in the actual show. A 48-minute segment takes about a week, that's seven minutes a day. The only groovy thing about it is watching it when it's done."

David Carradine also finds being a TV star a drag. "We are doing a scene in a jail and David is in a cell in the background and he keeps falling asleep," Carradine said, dropping his head to his chest in illustration. "Before every take they had to wake him up."

Carradine had sad news for Kung Fu fanatics. "I don't think David is going to do the show again after this season."

Bruce also played a role in a film by David, titled "Around," and did still photography for a second movie, "Country Mile." Both are to be released this year.

Recent articles about David characterize him as in a terminal marijuana haze, spaced out, aloof, evasive, yet extremely talented, creative and productive. But is he really that far out? "Yeah, I think he is," his brother answered.

"I don't agree with him on a lot of things," Carradine said of his brother, "but we dig each other."

Conversely, Bruce clings to stability in his habits. He describes himself as a religious person, "a deist," who doesn't drink, smoke or take drugs.

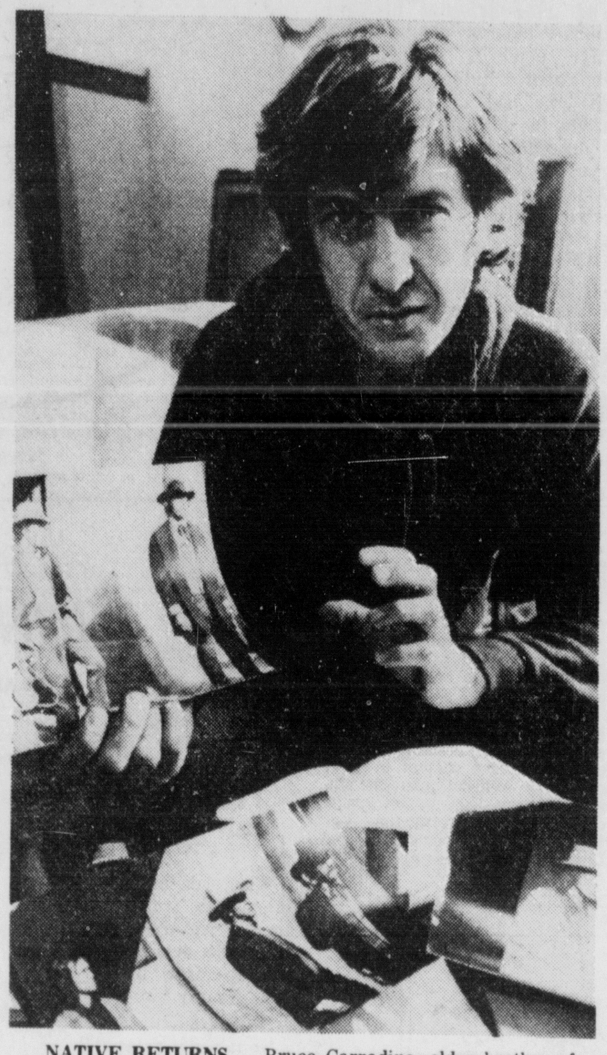
He once suffered a bout with alcohol, but kicked it one night while reading the Bible. It was a rebirth for him, he explained. "A voice told me to throw out the booze. I had about $50 in liquor but I poured it down the sink as if I was moved by some force unknown."

Carradine began long-distance running, a high school passion, jogging daily from his hilltop home to Fort Baker and back to build discipline. He entered the Bay to Breakers race in San Francisco three years ago, finishing 160th out of 3,000 entrants, and soundly thrashed a younger runner who challenged him.

There are two other Carradine boys, Keith, 23, and Robert, 19, both budding actors. David is 37 and Bruce is the oldest, withholding his age because "anyone over 30 is considered over the hill in Hollywood."

He has an agent but no immediate acting prospects, but aspires to a career in movies.

Towards the conclusion of the interview he toyed with a nail clipper. Bored again. "Good fortune," he offered with a wave from his front door. The wish seemed as much for himself as anyone.



NATIVE RETURNS — Bruce Carradine, older brother of the television star, ponders his return to his native Hollywood as he chats in his Tamalpais Valley home. The former school teacher will make a TV debut as a forthright sheriff in the "Kung Fu" series tomorrow.

Income Tax For Transit Said Illegal

The Marin County Transit District board was told yesterday that a proposed local income tax to finance transit would require an amendment to the state Constitution and therefore a statewide ballot measure.

"It's the opinion of the staff that a statewide ballot measure to authorize levying an income tax in Marin County would not be successful," Ray W. Foreaker Jr., district general manager, told the board.

The local income tax was proposed last month by director Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. as a method of increasing revenues to the financially troubled transit district.

Foreaker said other possibilities still being considered are a gas tax of 1 cent per gallon, which would raise $1 million annually; a countywide sales tax, which would raise $1.2 million annually; a 20-cent increase in the property tax rate, which would raise $2 million annually; and various vehicle registration fees which would raise anywhere from $1.4 million to $2 million annually.

The Marin County Transit District board also:

NEW MEMBER — Seated Robert E. Burton, a Mill Valley city councilman, as one of the two "city representatives" on the board. Burton was appointed to the transit board by the Council of Mayors and Councilmen.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Robert J. Flahive, a Corte Madera town councilman, and asked the Council of Mayors and Councilmen to appoint another representative. Flahive, who said he could not serve because of business pressures, was to have been seated yesterday.

RAILROAD — Agreed to ask county supervisors, all five of whom serve on the transit board, to finance the cost of an appraisal of the old Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way on the west side of Highway 101 from Corte Madera to Sausalito.

WHISTLESTOP — Heard a report from County Administrator John E. Barrow that, because of rationing of gasoline to the county, it may have to stop supplying Whistlestop Wheels vehicles with fuel. Whistle stop Wheels supplies transportation to the handicapped and elderly under contract with the transit board.

Recycling Service Is Ordered

The San Anselmo Garbage Disposal Co. must provide recycling service to customers as a condition of renewing its contract with the city, San Anselmo city councilmen decided last night.

Representatives of the firm, seeking a renewal of the garbage contract which expired in October, agreed to provide the service and said details will be worked out by Jan. 22 for council consideration, according to Mayor Lewis W. (Skip) Stewart.

Stewart said it is uncertain, however, whether the firm will make special recycling pickups or collect items for recycling on regular pickup days.

Also mentioned was the possibility of discounting collection charges up to 20 per cent for customers who recycle, Stewart said.

The San Anselmo City Council also:

WORKSHOP — Set a meeting with planning commissioners at 8 p.m. Tuesday to discuss the city's general plan.

UTILITIES — Approved an ordinance, proposed by Kenneth L. Anderson, requiring undergrounding of utilities for all new construction other than single-family homes.

DEDICATION — Said the city will hold dedication ceremonies for the C. Frederick Faude Park at 2 p.m. Feb. 10 on the park site.

ROBSON HOUSE — Said the upper floor of Robson House will be upgraded, including installation of fire escapes.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to Tuesday.

Quentin Six Denied Change Of Venue

Marin Superior Court Judge Henry J. Broderick yesterday denied a request by the San Quentin Six to have their trial moved to another county.

Broderick ruled that "the passage of time has removed . . .the necessity for a change of venue."

The six inmates were indicted on murder and conspiracy charges in connection with a day of violence at the prison in August 1971. Black militant George Jackson, two other inmates and three guards died in the melee.

Attorneys for the inmates, pointing to a wave of publicity about the case following the events at the prison, first asked a change of venue in March 1972.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson postponed the matter and it was brought up again before Judge Broderick last month.

"The surge of initial publicity. . . has long since ebbed from the news" in the 29 months since August 1971, Broderick said in his ruling.

Noting that 40 per cent of the inmates tried in Marin are acquitted, Broderick continued, "while Marin County citizens may prefer that the prison be located elsewhere, this does not affect the quality of justice" afforded by them.

The San Quentin Six are due to return to Broderick's court Friday to argue more motions, including one to unshackle the inmates during the trial.

Energy Savings

DAVIS (UPI) — The University of California at Davis has reduced its electricity use by 14.2 per cent during the first trial month, officials said today.

Housing Goals

A motion to dismiss the indictments because the grand jury which handed them down was not representative of minorities in Marin is being considered by visiting Superior Court Judge Vernon Stoll of Nevada County.

Directors of the Marin County Housing Authority will discuss objectives for the coming year at 7 p.m. today at authority offices, 47 Paul Drive, San Rafael, according to Executive Director Wallace K. Shepherd.

Maginis Loses Driving Right

Ross Town Councilman Alan Preston Maginis, 50, has lost his drivers license for 90 days as a result of a guilty plea to a drunken driving charge in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Robert A. Smallman also sentenced Maginis to 15 days in jail, but suspended the sentence and placed him on probation for two years.

Maginis, a three-year veteran of the council, also was fined $250 and ordered to attend the court's school for drunken drivers. He lives at 3 Crest Road.

Another Round On Development Tonight

The Tiburon Planning Commission will hold a meeting at 8 p.m. today at city hall to hear residents' opinions of the adopted Tiburon downtown plan and development plans submitted to the city by Sequoia Pacific of Santa Ana.

Tiburon Board Hears Sewage Plant Costs

A preliminary report to the Tiburon Sanitary District indicates it could cost more to improve the level of sewage treatment at its Tiburon plant than to pump the untreated wastes to a Point San Quentin treatment plant.

The board has been debating for months whether it should improve its waste treatment or join other sanitary districts in Southern Marin in a combined disposal system at San Quentin.

The report, reviewed Monday, was the result of a study by district consultant John Carollo Engineers of Walnut Creek.

This report (and another from the Southern Marin Subregional Sewerage Agency which recommends that all Southern Marin Districts build a joint facility) will be reviewed again by the Tiburon board at a special meeting Jan. 15 at Belvedere City Hall. The sanitary district has invited representatives of every taxing agency on the Tiburon Peninsula to attend the session.

Carollo said that if Tiburon builds new sewage treatment facilities on its own, it would double the district's present tax rate of 66 cents per $100 assessed valuation, according to James Murray, board president.

If Tiburon joined in the Southern Marin system, peninsula taxes would be about 20 cents more than the current rate, Murray said.

Two firms which hope to sell their treatment processes at the Tiburon plant were present.

Biokinetics, Inc., said it could install its improved treatment system for $125,000 per year, plus the power costs and one workman to maintain it.

Zimpro Corp. said its system would cost the district an initial investment of $1.75 million.

ART REVIEW

Emblematic Paintings Dubbed 'Mandala Series' By Artist

By ADA GARFINKEL

Electra Lamblin has designated her bright emblematic paintings as the "Mandala Series" in her exhibit with Linda Pedersen at the Genesis Gallery in Mill Valley.

Each "Mandala" (mandalas are paintings within a circular form) rests on a four-foot square format. Some are on canvas supports, others on board and this varies the surface. One is very much aware of the pervasive Mayan and Aztec influences both in color and symbolism.

Strangely enough, however, there is no impression of static immobility. Miss Lamblin develops an active sense of motion and vibrancy through linear rhythms and rapid color changes. She also builds volume, contour, and recessive space, all of which develop a mobility not usually found in formalized painting.

"Mandala VI" employs a basic flower form. Its huge petals are seen in multiple layers, each exposing the edge of the preceding one. Rapidly alternating brilliant yellows, oranges, blues, and violets indicate the presence of changing light.

Reddish trumpet-shaped flowers form a circular arch on a black background in "Mandala VII", while green vines move into a diamond shape within the circle. Tension becomes a palpable force as the points press against the circle and the framing edges of the canvas.

Stylized wing shapes in graduated diminishing sizes, become smaller and smaller as one's eye is drawn inwardly to focus upon the central core of "Mandala IV." and the guardian snakes surrounding it.

There great sensitivity to color and brushwork in "Mandala VIII," and spontaneity in personal development of design. One can say that this is truly the artist's own.

Liquified to pouring consistency and colored in gem-like ruby, amber, amythest, and jade, the mixture is carefully, yet freely flowed on to a sparkling white canvas.

Partly opaque and partly translucent, the mutating shapes of these blobs and swirls on the large expanses of white suggest the life process of cellular growth and structure.

This conjecture is borne out by titles such as "Genesis," "Catharsis," and swooshing "Transit," and "Anaphase."

"Funky Walnuts" shows two views of a young man reading. His chair, footstool, lamp, and pillow are all walnuts — in the round and on the half-shell.

"Big Tree on Sycamore Street" masses frontal view of house, tree, picket fence, and distant hills in tonal gradations of dots.

This exhibit may be seen through Jan. 31 daily from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday. The gallery is located on the second floor of 2 Miller Avenue.

To State Board

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan Monday named Dr. Willie B. Phillips of Los Angeles to the state board of Optometry to replace Dr. Marvin R. Poston of Danville, who resigned. Phillips' term expired June 1, 1975.

Capitol To Stay Open For Awhile

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The legislature's Rules Committee has reversed itself and decided to keep the 104-year-old state Capitol open to the public until at least April 1 despite a potential earthquake threat.

The committee voted yesterday to grant citizens complete access to the golden-domed structure, including now-closed chamber galleries, until all state offices have been evacuated from the "hazardous" west wing of the Capitol.

Last year the committee ordered the Capitol's giant oak doors closed Jan. 1 after studies showed the west wing could collapse in an earthquake. Due to moving delays, however, the historic structure will not be empty until at least April 1.

In a related action, it was proposed that a White House-style executive office building could be constructed near the planned governor's mansion east of Sacramento in Carmichael.

The proposal would eliminate the need for a new Capitol because legislators could move into the governor's current offices, said Assemblyman John L. Burton, committee chairman.

Burton said the new plan was advanced by unnamed "prominent citizens." He added that he soon will ask the full legislature, in the form of a resolution, whether the idea warranted a thorough study.

Already there are two proposals before the Legislature to provide lawmakers with extra space now that the Capitol's west wing has been branded an earthquake hazard.

One proposal is to erect a new legislative building. The other is to reconstruct and expand the Capitol for use by both legislators and the governor. A decision on the rival plans is expected this year.

Reversing previous actions, the committee also voted yesterday to erect large signs warning the public that the Capitol could tumble down in an earthquake instead of requiring visitors to sign liability waivers.

Petitioners Seeking Unicameral System

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A drive has been launched to give California voters a chance to decide next November whether the state should have a one-house legislature rather than the current two-house body.

A newly formed group called "One for All" yesterday announced a signature-gathering campaign to place an initiative establishing a unicameral legislature on the Nov. 7 general election ballot.

The group is led by Berkeley Municipal Court Judge Lewis Sherman, a former Republican state senator, who told a news conference a single-house legislature would be more efficient, more responsible and would produce an "incredible savings in cost."

He said specific savings could amount to $15 million to $20 million a year over the longrun.

Under the group's proposal, the current two-house, 120-member legislature would be changed into a single body with 99 members known as "senators." The senators would be elected for staggered, four-year terms.

Supporters must gather 525,000 voter signatures by May 27 to place the measure on the ballot.

The initiative effort parallels a drive in the legislature to have a similar proposal placed directly on the ballot without need of a signature campaign.

The legislative proposal is headed by Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo, who is carrying one constitutional amendment to revamp the legislature into a single house (SCA32) and another to put responsibility for legislative reapportionment into the hands of a public commission (SCA1).

Truffaut Film Voted Best Of '73

The circle, representing critics from 26 New York-based magazines and papers, voted "American Graffitti" as runner-up to "Day for Night", and "State of Siege" as the third best picture of the year.

Marlon Brando was chosen as the year's best actor for his role in "Last Tango in Paris." Joanne Woodward was voted as best actress for her role in "Summer Wishes, Winter Dreams."

The best supporting actor award went to Robert De Niro for playing a small time gangster in "Mean Streets." Valentina Cortesa was named best supporting actress for "Day For Night," the comedy about making a movie, which also won the best director award for Truffaut.

"American Graffiti," the nostalgic romance of youth in the 1960s, was cited as the best screenplay.

"State of Siege" came in second for two other categories, for Costa-Gravas as director and for its screenplay.

Volkswagen Has Sales Increase

WOLFSBURG, Germany (UPI) — Sales of vehicles made by the Volkswagen company rose by 6 per cent during 1973 to reach a total of 2,300,000, the firm reported today.

Sales of the classic "beetle" remained relatively stable, at about 1,480,000, the firm said. Most of the increase resulted from the sale of the new "Passat" model, of which about 1,200 are being turned out daily, the firm added.

Volkswagen's most important foreign market continued to be the United States, although sales dropped there by about 3 per cent, to approximately 470,000 cars for the year, the firm said.

Bruce Carradine Packing For A Whack At Movies

By PAUL LIBERATORE

Boxes congest the floors of his raw redwood chalet, perched on a hillside in Tamalpais Valley. He bounds around the rooms, shifting things here and there, answering the telephone, banishing an enthusiastic puppy outdoors, before settling down to discuss his destination: Hollywood. And himself: Bruce Carradine, former office machine salesman turned full-time actor.

The movie capital is not exactly foreign soil to him. He was born there. His father is internationally respected film star John Carradine. He is, no doubt, tired of hearing this, but he is Kung Fu's brother.

Actually, he is the older brother of David Carradine, who has become somewhat of a cult figure through his portrayal of Caine, a peace-loving Shaolin priest who systematically shreds bad guys with karate chops each week on ABC television's successful "Kung Fu" series.

Bruce Carradine, playing a forthright sheriff, will make his TV debut on an episode of that show to be aired at 9 p.m. tomorrow on ABC.

He was uncomfortable giving his first interview yesterday. He feels he is unworthy. Besides, he says, interviews are generally boring.

"They're all the same. The guy has a rocky childhood, gets kicked out of school, you know. Actually I was a straight A student at San Jose and San Francisco State and in grad school at UCLA."

He became a high school teacher in Lodi, Calif. ("It has the largest tire mold manufacturinng company in the world," he offered), but grew bored with teaching after two years and embarked on a desultory trip through Europe.

He returned to the Bay Area to land a job hawking office machines. "Oh, God, I hated it," he howled. "I don't know how I stayed with it as long as I did."

During his eight years in Marin, Carradine, who bears a resemblance to his well-known brother and father, kept active in theater work, appearing with the Marin Shakespeare Festival, the Interplayers, a San Francisco drama group, and in productions at the old Playhouse Theater in San Francisco, now defunct.

The Kung Fu episode in which he plays "a moderate role" was filmed last month. It was an experience that turned out to be, well, boring. "It takes 10 hours to shoot seven minutes used in the actual show. A 48-minute segment takes about a week, that's seven minutes a day. The only groovy thing about it is watching it when it's done."

David Carradine also finds being a TV star a drag. "We are doing a scene in a jail and David is in a cell in the background and he keeps falling asleep," Carradine said, dropping his head to his chest in illustration. "Before every take they had to wake him up."

Carradine had sad news for Kung Fu fanatics. "I don't think David is going to do the show again after this season."

Bruce also played a role in a film by David, titled "Around," and did still photography for a second movie, "Country Mile." Both are to be released this year.

Recent articles about David characterize him as in a terminal marijuana haze, spaced out, aloof, evasive, yet extremely talented, creative and productive. But is he really that far out? "Yeah, I think he is," his brother answered.

"I don't agree with him on a lot of things," Carradine said of his brother, "but we dig each other."

Conversely, Bruce clings to stability in his habits. He describes himself as a religious person, "a deist," who doesn't drink, smoke or take drugs.

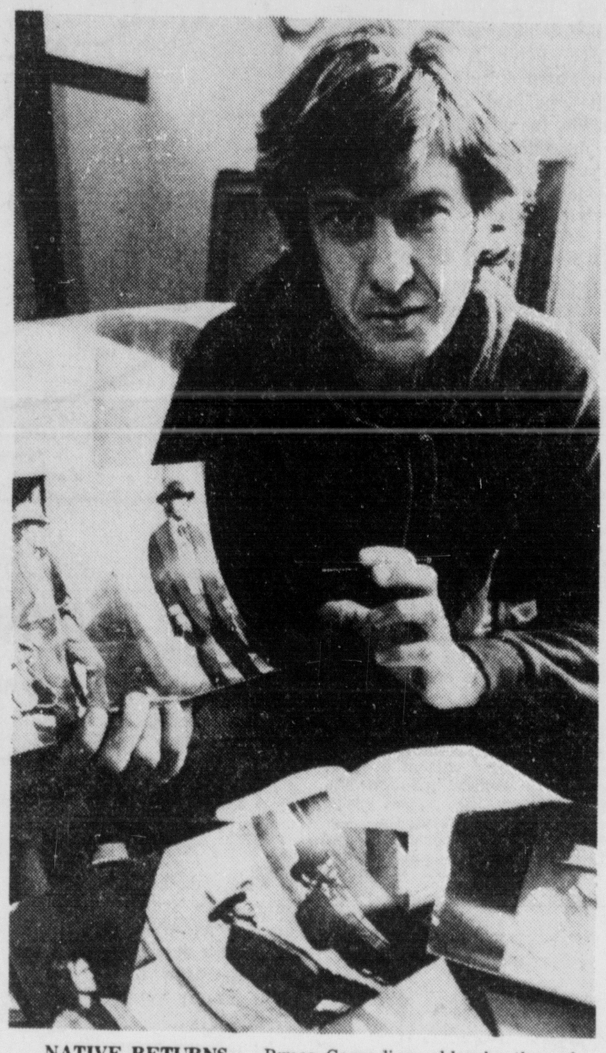
He once suffered a bout with alcohol, but kicked it one night while reading the Bible. It was a rebirth for him, he explained. "A voice told me to throw out the booze. I had about $50 in liquor but I poured it down the sink as if I was moved by some force unknown."

Carradine began long-distance running, a high school passion, jogging daily from his hilltop home to Fort Baker and back to build discipline. He entered the Bay to Breakers race in San Francisco three years ago, finishing 160th out of 3,000 entrants, and soundly thrashed a younger runner who challenged him.

There are two other Carradine boys, Keith, 23, and Robert, 19, both budding actors. David is 37 and Bruce is the oldest, withholding his age because "anyone over 30 is considered over the hill in Hollywood."

He has an agent but no immediate acting prospects, but aspires to a career in movies.

Towards the conclusion of the interview he toyed with a nail clipper. Bored again. "Good fortune," he offered with a wave from his front door. The wish seemed as much for himself as anyone.



NATIVE RETURNS — Bruce Carradine, older brother of the television star, ponders his return to his native Hollywood as he chats in his Tamalpais Valley home. The former school teacher will make a TV debut as a forthright sheriff in the "Kung Fu" series tomorrow.

Income Tax For Transit Said Illegal

The Marin County Transit District board was told yesterday that a proposed local income tax to finance transit would require an amendment to the state Constitution and therefore a statewide ballot measure.

"It's the opinion of the staff that a statewide ballot measure to authorize levying an income tax in Marin County would not be successful," Ray W. Foreaker Jr., district general manager, told the board.

The local income tax was proposed last month by director Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. as a method of increasing revenues to the financially troubled transit district.

Foreaker said other possibilities still being considered are a gas tax of 1 cent per gallon, which would raise $1 million annually; a countywide sales tax, which would raise $1.2 million annually; a 20-cent increase in the property tax rate, which would raise $2 million annually; and various vehicle registration fees which would raise anywhere from $1.4 million to $2 million annually.

The Marin County Transit District board also:

NEW MEMBER — Seated Robert E. Burton, a Mill Valley city councilman, as one of the two "city representatives" on the board. Burton was appointed to the transit board by the Council of Mayors and Councilmen.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Robert J. Flahive, a Corte Madera town councilman, and asked the Council of Mayors and Councilmen to appoint another representative. Flahive, who said he could not serve because of business pressures, was to have been seated yesterday.

RAILROAD — Agreed to ask county supervisors, all five of whom serve on the transit board, to finance the cost of an appraisal of the old Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way on the west side of Highway 101 from Corte Madera to Sausalito.

WHISTLESTOP — Heard a report from County Administrator John E. Barrow that, because of rationing of gasoline to the county, it may have to stop supplying Whistlestop Wheels vehicles with fuel. Whistle stop Wheels supplies transportation to the handicapped and elderly under contract with the transit board.

Recycling Service Is Ordered

The San Anselmo Garbage Disposal Co. must provide recycling service to customers as a condition of renewing its contract with the city, San Anselmo city councilmen decided last night.

Representatives of the firm, seeking a renewal of the garbage contract which expired in October, agreed to provide the service and said details will be worked out by Jan. 22 for council consideration, according to Mayor Lewis W. (Skip) Stewart.

Stewart said it is uncertain, however, whether the firm will make special recycling pickups or collect items for recycling on regular pickup days.

Also mentioned was the possibility of discounting collection charges up to 20 per cent for customers who recycle, Stewart said.

The San Anselmo City Council also:

WORKSHOP — Set a meeting with planning commissioners at 8 p.m. Tuesday to discuss the city's general plan.

UTILITIES — Approved an ordinance, proposed by Kenneth L. Anderson, requiring undergrounding of utilities for all new construction other than single-family homes.

DEDICATION — Said the city will hold dedication ceremonies for the C. Frederick Faude Park at 2 p.m. Feb. 10 on the park site.

ROBSON HOUSE — Said the upper floor of Robson House will be upgraded, including installation of fire escapes.

Planning A Trip

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau is planning a trip to Europe next month to talk about improved trade arrangements, and hopes to visit Brussels and Vienna.

Quentin Six Denied Change Of Venue

Marin Superior Court Judge Henry J. Broderick yesterday denied a request by the San Quentin Six to have their trial moved to another county.

Broderick ruled that "the passage of time has removed . . .the necessity for a change of venue."

The six inmates were indicted on murder and conspiracy charges in connection with a day of violence at the prison in August 1971. Black militant George Jackson, two other inmates and three guards died in the melee.

Attorneys for the inmates, pointing to a wave of publicity about the case following the events at the prison, first asked a change of venue in March 1972.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson postponed the matter and it was brought up again before Judge Broderick last month.

"The surge of initial publicity. . . has long since ebbed from the news" in the 29 months since August 1971, Broderick said in his ruling.

Noting that 40 per cent of the inmates tried in Marin are acquitted, Broderick continued, "while Marin County citizens may prefer that the prison be located elsewhere, this does not affect the quality of justice" afforded by them.

The San Quentin Six are due to return to Broderick's court Friday to argue more motions, including one to unshackle the inmates during the trial.

Energy Savings

DAVIS (UPI) — The University of California at Davis has reduced its electricity use by 14.2 per cent during the first trial month, officials said today.

A motion to dismiss the indictments because the grand jury which handed them down was not representative of minorities in Marin is being considered by visiting Superior Court Judge Vernon Stoll of Nevada County.

Housing Goals

Directors of the Marin County Housing Authority will discuss objectives for the coming year at 7 p.m. today at authority offices, 47 Paul Drive, San Rafael, according to Executive Director Wallace K. Shepherd.

Maginis Loses Driving Right

Ross Town Councilman Alan Preston Maginis, 50, has lost his drivers license for 90 days as a result of a guilty plea to a drunken driving charge in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Robert A. Smallman also sentenced Maginis to 15 days in jail, but suspended the sentence and placed him on probation for two years.

Maginis, a three-year veteran of the council, also was fined $250 and ordered to attend the court's school for drunken drivers. He lives at 3 Crest Road.

Another Round On Development Tonight

The Tiburon Planning Commission will hold a meeting at 8 p.m. today at city hall to hear residents' opinions of the adopted Tiburon downtown plan and development plans submitted to the city by Sequoia Pacific of Santa Ana.

Tiburon Board Hears Sewage Plant Costs

A preliminary report to the Tiburon Sanitary District indicates it could cost more to improve the level of sewage treatment at its Tiburon plant than to pump the untreated wastes to a Point San Quentin treatment plant.

The board has been debating for months whether it should improve its waste treatment or join other sanitary districts in Southern Marin in a combined disposal system at San Quentin.

The report, reviewed Monday, was the result of a study by district consultant John Carollo Engineers of Walnut Creek.

This report (and another from the Southern Marin Subregional Sewerage Agency which recommends that all Southern Marin Districts build a joint facility) will be reviewed again by the Tiburon board at a special meeting Jan. 15 at Belvedere City Hall. The sanitary district has invited representatives of every taxing agency on the Tiburon Peninsula to attend the session.

Carollo said that if Tiburon builds new sewage treatment facilities on its own, it would double the district's present tax rate of 66 cents per $100 assessed valuation, according to James Murray, board president.

If Tiburon joined in the Southern Marin system, peninsula taxes would be about 20 cents more than the current rate, Murray said.

Two firms which hope to sell their treatment processes at the Tiburon plant were present.

Biokinetics, Inc., said it could install its improved treatment system for $125,000 per year, plus the power costs and one workman to maintain it.

Zimpro Corp. said its system would cost the district an initial investment of $1.75 million.

JONATHAN LIVINGSTON EAGLE

It was such a lovely clear day that this seagull (maybe a cousin of the high-flying literary hero) decided to pose atop the American flag aboard the Golden Gate ferry and take a run to San Francisco from Sausalito. Perhaps he even felt like an eagle for a time.

Senate Kills Landlord Rental Bill

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill that would have made landlords justify failure to return rental deposits has been killed by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, objected that the measure would lead to "harassment" of landlords. Noting that he used to be a landlord, he declared that "nine out of 10 times the landlord gets shafted by the tenant."

The bill, SB 1214 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, was killed 7-4 on straight party lines, with Republicans opposing it and Democrats supporting it. Strong pressure against the bill came from the California Real Estate Association and California Apartment Association.

Dugald Gillies, lobbyist for the real estate association, objected to putting the burden of proof on landlords when they withhold all or part of a rental deposit to make repairs. The burden should remain on tenants, he said.

Behr argued in vain that his bill was aimed at "clear cases of bad faith where a landlord has ripped off a tenant." The vast majority of landlords "are reasonably ethical," Behr said when he introduced the bill last May.

Rohnert Park Finally Receives Its Bicycle

The City of Rohnert Park finally got its bicycle Monday night.

Although the city council agreed some weeks ago to buy a bike to save on fuel, a free woman's bike had been offered by Charlene Cantwell. But no one from city hall picked the bike up, according to Councilman Arthur N. Roberts.

So on Monday night Roberts brought it to the council meeting and rode it into the council chambers.

"I wanted to make sure the city manager has his free bike," Roberts quipped. City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan had indicated at an earlier meeting that he had no intention of riding the new city vehicle.

According to City Clerk Kathryn P. Logue, it is a used American model equipped with a wire basket.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

SCHOOLS — Went on record as favoring a unified school district for Cotati and Rohnert Park.

FEES — Approved an ordinance increasing fees for new construction from $350 to $390 for a typical three-bedroom home.

YARD — Authorized $11,500 in changes in construction at the city's corporation yard, bringing the total cost of the project to $139,000, including $5,500 for storm drainage work required by the county.

POPULATION — Heard a report from Callinan that state officials now estimate the city's population at 11,500, a 32 per cent increase over a year ago.

ATTORNEYS — Commended City Atty. Richard Maxwell for his work since 1962 as it was his last meeting. The new attorney, John Flitner, begins work next Tuesday.

WALL — Heard a staff report on the failure of a retaining wall on Southwest Boulevard. Consulting engineer Milton Hudis said he did not know the reason for the collapse. He volunteered to pay half the estimated $5,700 needed to repair the wall.

TENNIS COURTS — Agreed to spend $55,000 in unused revenue sharing money to construct tennis courts. Courts for daytime use are estimated to cost about $10,000 each.

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed Dr. George Henley to the parks and recreation commission and appointed three citizens to serve on county general plan committees: Robert Ryan, open space, conservation and recreation; Victor Avila, transportation, and Leslie Symonds, housing.

Bike Sales Up

COLOGNE, Germany (UPI) — Bicycle sales rose 61 per cent in November when West Germans first became aware of the threatened Arab oil squeeze, the Cologne University Institute for Merchandising Research reported today.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

Trumps Must Be Executed To Avoid Ruffing By Foes

When you are declarer, you often draw trumps to prevent an opponent from ruffing. When you are a defender, you should likewise draw trumps to prevent dummy from ruffing.

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	2 ◇	Double	All Pass

Opening lead — ◇ 5

WORTH OVERCALL

The South hand is worth an overcall of two diamonds only if you are in cahoots with your opponents. Give South the jack of diamonds in exchange for one of his small spades, and his bid is reasonable.

West's double was commendable, and his opening lead was well chosen. East put up the jack of diamonds, and South won with the queen. Declarer now led a low club, and East won with the ten.

CLEAR TO EAST

It should have been clear to East that South was preparing to ruff clubs in dummy. The defense was to lead trumps as early as possible.

Instead, however, East foolishly led out the king and ace of hearts. South ruffed the second heart, cashed the ace of clubs, and ruffed a club in dummy. He ruffed another heart in his hand, ruffed his last club in dummy, and then ruffed dummy's last heart.

TRIFLING PENALTY

By this time South had won two trumps in dummy and four in his own hand. The ace of clubs was a seventh trick. South was still down one, but the penalty of 200 points was trifling compared to what might have been.

Suppose East wins the second trick with the ten of clubs and leads another trump. West has two natural trump tricks and takes both of them.

HEAVY PENALTY

This removes the trumps from the dummy and limits South to three trump tricks and the ace of clubs. South is down four, for a penalty of 1,100 points. This would teach South greater caution with his overcalls.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - K 6
♥ - Q 10 7 6
♦ - A 10 5
♣ - Q J 8 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two no-trump.

This bid promises 13 to 15 points, and in this case you have only 12 points. Nevertheless, you should count something extra for the two tens and for the king in partner's bid suit. This is worth more than many 13-point hands.

Data Sought For Federal Fund Share

The Novato Unified School District is undertaking a survey of students with parents employed by the federal government. Supt. James G. Bunker estimated the report will bring an additional $110,000 in federal funds to the district.

Bunker estimated enrollment of federal pupils will be about 200 higher than the fall figure, with enrollment dropped with the cutback at Hamilton Air Force Base.

The district receives federal funds for students connected with federal bases and, if enrollment is up, the funds will increase.

Survey cards were distributed to students today and Bunker urged parents or guardians to fill them out and have them returned to the schools tomorrow.

The cards must be returned promptly because the last survey for the 1973-74 school year must be submitted to the U.S. Office of Education by next week, he said.

Novato After Curbs On Overnight Parking

The Novato City Council introduced an ordinance last night to curb overnight parking of "oversized vehicles" on residential streets. (Another Novato City Council story, page 1.)

About 25 persons, mainly owners of campers and recreational vehicles, protested the dimensions the council considers oversized — that is, any vehicle more than 84 inches wide or 20feet long.

The regulation would prohibit such vehicles from parking on residential streets for longer than 30 minutes between 2 a.m. and 6 a.m.

Police Chief John C. Coleman said the police department has been getting complaints about large vehicles parking on streets, and City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said it is a community problem.

Mayor Fred F. Ruegg said the proposed dimensions "have gone too far" and he was opposed to them. The ordinance will be before the council for adoption next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Novato Community House.

The Novato city council also introduced an ordinance approving a master plan by Alfred Belluci for a commercial center on 2.17 acres at the southeast corner of Orange and Railroad avenues.

YMCA To Hold Series Of Trips

The Marin Young Men's Christian Association will hold a series of weekend trips, hikes, recreational activities and overnight campouts this month and next for youths aged 7 to 11.

On Saturday, the group plans a trip to Fort Point in the Presidio.

Other events are: an overnight camping trip to Kirby Cove Jan. 25 and 26; a hike to Cataract Gulch, Feb. 9 and a trip to Point Reyes Ridge and Limanteur State Beach, Feb. 23.

All activities start at 9 a.m. at the YMCA, 241 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

ALMANAC

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Wednesday, Jan. 9, the ninth day of 1974 with 356 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning star is Mercury. The evening stars are Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

Richard Nixon, 37th president of the United States, was born Jan. 9, 1913.

On this day in history:

In 1793, the first successful balloon flight in the United States was made by Jean Blanchard over Philadelphia.

In 1861, Mississippi seceded from the Union.

In 1945, American troops invaded the Philippine Island of Luzon and went on to liberate Manila.

In 1968, Surveyor 7 made a soft landing on the moon to complete a seven-year program which eventually led to a manned lunar landing.

A thought for the day: French novelist Alexander Dumas said, "All human wisdom is summed up in two words. . .wait and hope."

Wayne Accepts Challenge To Answer Students

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — The college humor magazine Harvard Lampoon says John Wayne has accepted a challenge to answer questions from students at the campus, which the Lampoon said was "the most intellectual, the most traditionally radical, in short, the most hostile territory on earth."

The Lampoon dared Wayne to "have it out, head on, with the young whelps here who would call the supposedly unbeatable John Wayne the biggest fraud in history" in an open letter Dec. 6.

The magazine said yesterday Wayne has accepted and announced a number of activities, including a ceremonial saloon slug-fest. It also said his arrival would be marked "by a spontaneous stampede of mammals of some as-yet-undetermined species, and a running gun battle between cowboys, Indians, and syndicate triggermen, all in their native dress."

Zeppo Recovering

HOUSTON (UPI) — Zeppo Marx, 73, who underwent surgery Dec. 28 for an abdominal aneurysm, a weakened blood vessel, was reported yesterday nearing a full recovery. A spokesman at St. Luke's Hospital said he should be discharged within a few days.

Reno Train Wins Fans For Amtrak

RENO (UPI) — Reno's tourist economy received a transfusion of 540 Californians yesterday evening—all of them convinced the Reno Fun Train is the only way to go.

"I'm for the train," Betsy O'Brien, San Francisco, said. "You see so much more on the train and it's very relaxing."

Her sentiments were echoed all around the AMTRAK depot here. No one even minded the 20 degree weather, although several passengers were surprised to find themsleves suddenly sitting down on the icy pavement.

The most common reason why they took the train: "It's a fun train. I took it for fun," Miss O'Brien said.

She was one of more than 200 retired employees of the city of San Francisco who came as a group.

But many of the passengers took their first ride on the train from San Francisco to Reno because of the gasoline shortage.

"I have two cars sitting at home with full tanks of gas," Norman Stoddard, Walnut Creek, said. He said he and his wife Miriam have visited their sons in Reno many times, but always made the trip by car.

And the train won them over: "There's no other way to go," Mrs. Stoddard said. "It was beautiful, but I didn't get to do any backseat driving."

He agreed saying he spent most of the time in the train's bar—a luxury automobiles cannot offer.

Ferrigno Nelder of San Francisco, said she also took the train because of the gasoline shortage, "but now you couldn't get me into flying or onto a bus again. It was great."

All passengers interviewed said the trip was almost without a hitch—good food, no problems and an almost forgotten spirit of camaraderie, all of which should provide a much needed boost for the trouble-plagued AMTRAK.

Even though AMTRAK officials said the train left San Francisco behind schedule, it arrived 10 minutes early at 5:20 p.m.

Sharp Drop In Measles Is Reported

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The number of reported measles cases declined sharply last year in California as a result of state efforts to promote immunization, according to the Department of Health.

Statewide figures on infections disease totals for 1973, made public yesterday by the department, showed that 848 persons were treated for common measles during the year, compared to 3,329 in 1972.

It was the most dramatic change of the year among diseases which require reporting by health authorities.

Rubella, the form of measles which can cause birth defencts and death to unborn infants, dropped from 5,087 reported cases in 1972 to 2,538 last year.

"We're now bearing the fruits of immunization," said Dr. James Chin, head of the state's infectious disease unit.

Other disease totals released by the department showed "significant" increases in reported syphilis cases and a doubling of serum hepatitis. Syphilis rose from 12,366 cases in 1972 to 13,525 cases last year. Hepatitis struck nearly 3,000 persons in 1973, compared to about 1,700 the previous year.

Chin said his staff was trying to determine exactly what caused the increase in syphilis. He said he suspected it might be due to intensified efforts at early detection.

Gonorrhea remained "nearly stable" during the period, Chin said, with 95,785 cases reported last year and 99,584 cases treated in 1972. The difference, Chin added, "doesn't amount to a hill of beans."

Additional disease totals: Whooping Cough, 199 cases last year, up from 180 in 1972; Mumps 5,920 cases, down from 7,342; Valley Fever, 415 cases, the same as 1972; Salmonellosis, 2,242 cases, up from 2,097, and tuberculosis, 3,696 cases, down from 3,816.

The state figures also showed a doubling in the reported instances of food poisoning, from 425 cases in 1972 to 963 last year. But Chin said so many outbreaks of food poisoning go unreported that the figures have little meaning.

If you have a savings account, you should read every word on this page.

Never before has it been so difficult to maintain your standard of living

With shortages causing more inflation, and the outlook so uncertain, you must be sure to get the most for your money:
1. By getting the highest assured return, and
2. By reducing expenses.
Now, at Fidelity Savings, you can do both. Here's how:

1. Highest assured return. Interest rates are up everywhere. Since, directly or indirectly, you are paying them, you should also be getting them. But rates are not up equally everywhere. Fidelity Savings is paying the highest rates in its history. But make no mistake: commercial banks are not allowed to pay as much and most do not pay as much as they could: 4½% on passbook accounts, for example, while Fidelity passbook accounts pay 5¼% (16⅔% more) to 5¾% (27.7% more). And, of course, accounts at Fidelity Savings are insured by an agency of the Federal Government.

2. Reducing expenses. For the first time, Fidelity Savings is offering to all its savers an exclusive list of free money-saving opportunities that can help you cut unnecessary expenses. These are not frills: they are things you are paying for now; things you want and need, but could pay less for. Through Fidelity's Golden Opportunity Club, you can enjoy these money-savings benefits:
First: A package of financial services that costs you a bundle at commercial banks is FREE at Fidelity Savings.
Second: A money-saving coupon book that will save you money every time you do the things you like to do: travel, eat out (or take prepared food home), go to the movies or the theater.
Here are the details:
First the valuable financial services.

Free Bank Checking Account. If you add up the service charges you pay every month on our checking account, this could save you plenty!

Free Safe Deposit Box. This would cost you $7 or $8 at a bank. It's free to G. O. Club Members.

Free American Express Travelers Cheques. The safe way to carry cash while traveling. G. O. Club Members get theirs free of charge at any of our offices.

Discount Auto Purchase Plan. G. O. Club Members present their membership card at participating dealers and receive substantial savings on autos, trucks, and recreational vehicles. (One member recently saved over $750 on the purchase of a sedan.)

Discount Rent-A-Car Plan. If you don't want to buy a car, rent one. As a Golden Opportunity Club Member you are entitled to a 20% discount at America's "No. 1" rent-a-car company. (It's a cheaper way to G.O.!)

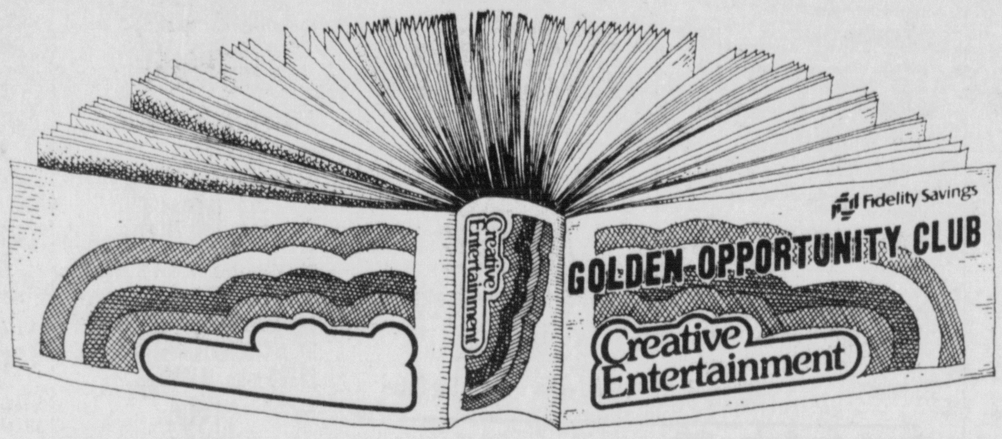
Free Note Collection Service. Payments collected and deposited to your account free of charge.



And now a way to cut expenses while your money works

This is more than another gimmick for savers, but it's such an incredible deal that you must actually thumb through this monstrously thick book of passes yourself to believe it. There is something there for everyone in your family. Enjoy eating out and saving... gourmet restaurants to fast food. Save on theater tickets, sporting events, travel, vacations, concerts, A.C.T., Broadway shows, museums, and movies. You'll have a Golden Opportunity to save money while you and your family enjoy sports like skiing, scuba diving, bowling, archery, riding, sailing, plus special tickets to spectator sports... and more. If someone in your family wants to learn a sport, there are honest, substantial, savings in instruction courses, too. Learn to sail, karate, become a certified diver, an accomplished equestrian, and more. And that's not all...

40 Convenient Locations

We now have more locations in our Northern California service area than any other S&L. Now, that doesn't make us the biggest, maybe just the most convenient. But, we know that it's the one nearest you that counts ... the others are for everybody else. If we're not near where you live, maybe we're near where you work.

Your money is as safe as money in the bank

That's because it's insured by the same kind of U. S. Governmental agency that insures banks. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation insures bank accounts, the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corporation insures Savings & Loan Accounts. It's as simple as that. As a matter of fact, no one has ever lost a penny in an insured savings and loan account! So, we can't take any special credit. No S&L should. Accounts are insured to $20,000 by the above named agency and that's that.

If you put it all together–

Some math whiz added it all up and came to the conclusion that if your family used up every single ticket and the weekly bonuses, you could save yourself over $2,000! Nobody in his right mind would do all that, but we worked it out just to impress you with all the possibilities.

All this didn't just happen

The G. O. Club isn't the first time we've gone all out for our savers. Even since we first started out in the Savings & Loan business we have made it a policy to try our best to give our depositors as much as we could in the way of service. We were the first in this area to offer depositors free checking accounts, check-a-month annuity plans, a travel service and more.

Over $690 million in assets

Another indicator of a growing group of people who trust us.

What you have to do to become a member

(or: Something for Something)

In order to qualify for all these nice things, we ask that you maintain a Fidelity Savings account with a minimum balance of $2,500. (or establish that amount as your savings goal and pledge regular monthly deposits). There are some clubs that require as much as $7,500 and others that only ask for $1,000. But, we don't think you'll find any savings club that gives you so much value.

This is the age of the consumer and savers are consumers, too. So, take a little time this week and do a little "shopping" for a savings institution. Visit the S&L's and banks near you and collect their literature. Ask a teller, or if you really want more information, ask the manager. Get tough. Compare. Get the most for your money. You may never use all the services available. However, consider what's in it for you and your family. All we ask is that you give Fidelity Savings and the Golden Opportunity Club a fair chance.

IF YOU WANT TO JOIN, THIS COUPON CAN TAKE AWAY THE BOTHER OF TRANSFERRING YOUR ACCOUNT. JUST COMPLETE AND BRING IT WITH YOUR PRESENT PASSBOOK OR CERTIFICATE TO THE NEAREST FIDELITY BRANCH.

Fidelity Savings: I'm interested in your Golden Opportunity Club. Please take action as checked below:

☐ I am interested in joining immediately. Please transfer funds from my account currently at_____, current balance is $_____

A Campaign Reform Plan Makes Ballot

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A political reform initiative to stop "efforts to buy and sell" statewide elections by limiting campaign funds and fining and jailing violators yesterday qualified for the June 4 ballot.

If the measure is approved by California voters it would limit gubernatorial candidates to $1.26 million during a general election and $980,000 during a primary.

Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., a Democratic gubernatorial contender and a supporter of the proposed initiative, told a news conference that 336,707 valid signatures had been gathered by proponents, or 11,205 more than it needed.

Brown said the spending limits would eliminate "outrageous efforts to buy and sell elections" and still provide for "adequate communications with the electorate."

The measure, supported by Common Cause and the People's Lobby, would strengthen a conflict of interest law passed by the last session of the legislature which now is being challenged in the State Supreme Court.

Under provisions of the proposed law, gubernatorial candidates would be limited to spending seven cents per voting age citizen during a primary election and nine cents per voter during a general election.

"A unique provision of this initiative also limits incumbents to spending 10 per cent less than challengers," Brown said. He said the provision will help equalize the advantage incumbents often have during elections.

The initiative would also outlaw anonymous cash contributions over $50 and candidates or committees which violated the provisions could be subject to fines and possible jail sentences.

Candidates running for lieutenant governor, attorney general, secretary of state, controller, treasurer and superintendent of public instruction would be limited to three cents per voter, or $420,000, in both primary and general elections.

Office Cleared Of Bugs — Real Ones

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The office of state House Majority Leader Robert J. Butera was de-bugged yesterday.

Two entomologists from the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources removed more than 200 tiny praying mantis that were spawned in a cocoon on the trunk of an office Christmas tree.

Soap Opera Will Debut On Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Another new network radio series will debut next March, bringing to three the number of daily network radio drama series that have hit the airwaves since mid-December.

Its executive producer, Byron Lewis, jokingly describes the coming show as "soap opera in the classic sense: trauma upon trauma upon trauma." But it'll be markedly different than any past or present trauma drama aired on a network.

Called "Sounds of the City," it's aimed at black listeners, performed by black actors and actresses and produced by a black-owned company, UniWorld Group, Inc., which Lewis heads.

"It's about a black family in a variety of situations that any black family would experience in a contemporary urban setting," says Lewis, 42, born in Newark, N.J., and raised in Queens, N.Y.

The 15-minute show, about the family of a black policeman in an unidentified large city in the North, will be broadcast by the Mutual Black Network, a subsidiary of the Mutual Broadcasting System in Washington, D.C.

An MBN spokesman says at least 25 of the network's 83 affiliates will carry the show when it starts in early March. It'll air five days a week and have a regular cast of seven performers.

It initially will run for 26 weeks, possibly longer, and is fully sponsored by the Quaker Oats Co., according to Lewis. The series will focus on experiences of the Calvin Taylor family, a clan that includes two teen-agers, an older daughter recently graduated from college and their aunt and uncle.

Klein Says TV Should Cut Hours

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Former White House Communications Director Herb Klein suggested today the television industry should cut back on its broadcasting hours to help save energy.

Klein also suggested that radio stations could reduce broadcast power and newspapers could cut back on editions to help save newsprint.

Klein, former communications director under President Nixon and now an executive with Metromedia Inc., said if the television industry cut broadcast hours, it would not only save the station's energy supply, but would encourage people to turn off the lights and go to bed — instead of staying up late watching television.

"The TV industry should curtail broadcast hours to help conserve energy," he said. Klein said the energy problem has contributed to the public's lack of confidence in government because many people believe the administration is manufacturing the crisis.

But Klein said, "the administration's handling of the energy crisis may be the key to solving the crisis in confidence" which the government is now facing. That would depend, he said, on whether the administration handles the problem successfully.

Don't Sneer About New Football League

While some persons might sneer about the chances of success for the World Football League, Steve Arnold of Corte Madera has all the confidence in the world. He's so confident he went out and organized a syndicate to raise half a million dollars to buy a WFL franchise.

Arnold, president of Pro Sports Inc., a business management firm for professional athletes, is one of the organizers of the WFL and says the league will be open for business in July of this year.

Sports observers across the nation laughed when plans were laid out for the upstart American Basketball Association and World Hockey Association but both are now going strong, continuing to rival the National Basketball Association and National Hockey League for player talent. The president and founder of those rebel leagues was Gary L. Davidson, the man who recently resigned his hockey post to take the job as president of the WFL. That in itself should strike some fear into the NFL establishment.

ARNOLD, IN ADDITION to his own business, is a special advisor to the World Hockey Association and American Basketball Association and to World Team Tennis. And he's still a member of the New York State Bar Association. As you can see, he moves around quite a bit.

Arnold said there are already eight teams "solidified," with "applications in from 16 others." He hasn't decided on a location for his franchise yet and for awhile was considering Tokyo. "It has great potential but is a year away," he said. He will probably choose between Indianapolis, Ind.; Louisville, Ky.; Memphis, Tenn., or Portland, Ore.

Although the Chicago Fire (now THAT'S an original name for a team) says it already has enough players for a full 40-man squad, the bulk of the players for the league will be coming out of a pair of drafts, the first one Jan. 21-22 for players already in professional football and the other one Feb. 5, for players in college.

"WE'RE TRYING NOT to be too extravagant in our offers," said Arnold, but added that everybody realized they wouldn't be able to get Joe Namath cheaply. And the league will be making a strong pitch to get Joe from the New York Jets. That would be one giant step toward putting the league on the football map.

Arnold looks at buying a professional sports franchise as an investment, the kind which grows very fast. "When the World Football League started just a matter of months ago franchises were going for $250,000 and now they're already at $500,000."

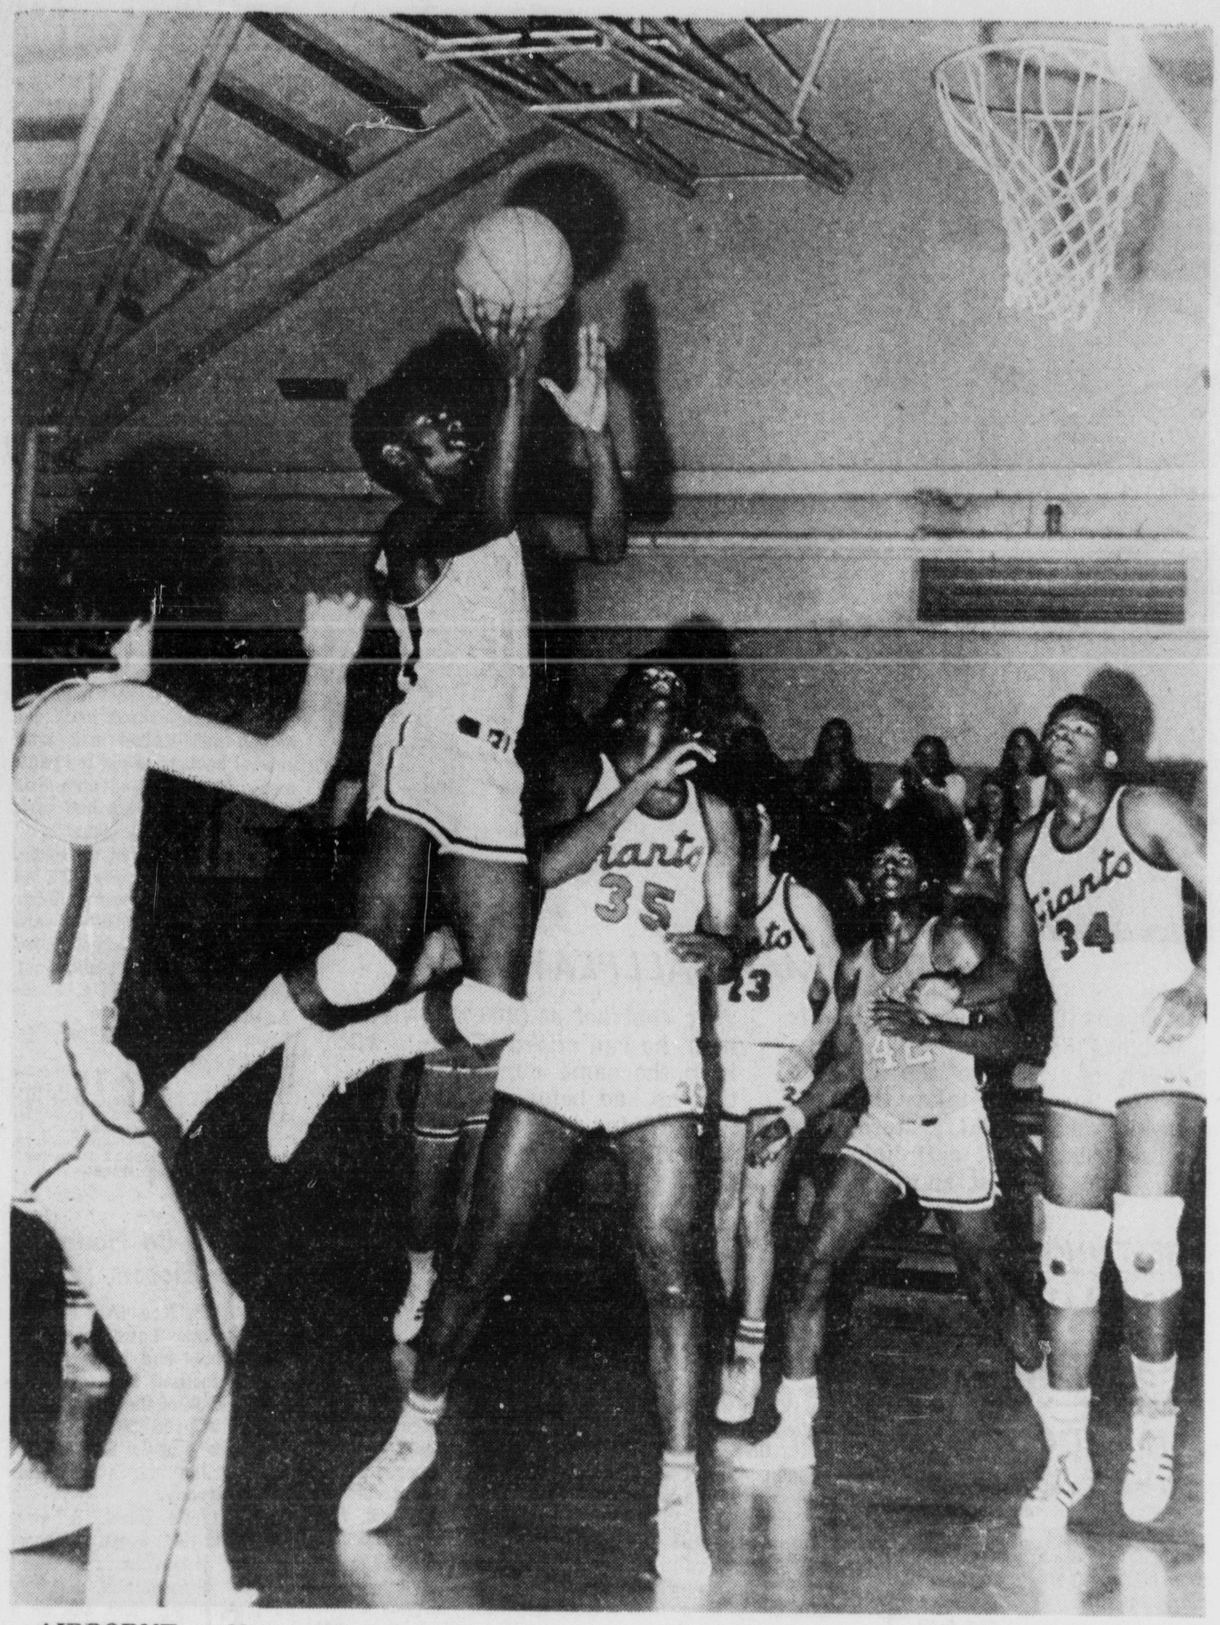
Said Arnold: "When the World Hockey Association started franchises went from $25,000 to $250,000 in a matter of months. It will cost Indianapolis and Phoenix $2 million to come in next year."

According to the prospectus put out by the WFL, it takes approximately $20 million to purchase an NFL franchise today, "if the buyer can find one for sale." That phrase is a good one, in that there is no expansion immediately planned for the NFL. The reason is simple: More teams in the league would mean less of a share of the millions of dollars of television money for each team. The present owners don't want to split that rich pie any more than the current 26 slices. That is why the World Football League feels the time is ripe to start a new league.

THE LEAGUE PLANS to play its games on Thursday nights to avoid head and head conflict with Sunday afternoon and Monday night NFL football. Fridays and Saturdays belong to high schools and colleges. If they come up with a juicy television contract, we'll have Monday and Thursday night TV football, one more reason for the wives of America to throw the husbands out on their ears.

There will also be a different set of rules for the WFL, designed to bring back more offense to the game. There will be a two-point option for running and passing for points after a touchdown; the ball will be returned to the line of scrimmage if a field goal attempt is missed from beyond the 20-yard line instead of the 40, thus enabling the receiving team to get a better field position and assuring the fans of a runback.

Those rule changes alone are a vote in favor of the upstart football league. It is nothing to sneer at.



AIRBORNE — Novato High School's Curtis Saine (31) floated down the lane for a basket past the menacing figures of Redwood's Randall Miller (35) and Darrell Elder (34) yesterday afternoon. Saine scored 16 points, but it wasn't enough to keep the Hornets from losing their Marin County Athletic League opener to the host Giants, 52-49. Also pictured are Novato's Tim Jordan (left) and Willie Barnes (42) and Redwood's John Hoffmire (23).

Warriors Whip Rockets

HOUSTON (AP) — The Golden State Warriors continued their hex over the hapless Houston Rockets last night, bombing them 104-92 in National Basketball Association play.

It was the sixth straight victory over the Rockets for the Warriors and the second in the last four days.

In the third period the Warriors, who have won only four times in the last 15 games with three of them coming over Houston, were cut down to a one-point lead.

But Rick Barry's 22 point total and Cazzie Russel's 20 kept the struggling Warriors in the game and they gradually pulled ahead.

"We were right in the game and took two or three bad shots and made two or three crucial turnovers," mourned Rocket coach Johnny Egan. "It was the same thing we did the last time we were in Seattle," when the Rockets blew it 91-90 after being ahead by 11 with four minutes left.

The last Rocket loss to Golden State was by the score of 108-106.

The win closed the Warriors to within three games of Los Angeles, as the Lakers lost to the Capital Bullets last night.

Tim Coleman scored 10 points and Jerry Lawton hauled down 11 rebounds and blocked nine shots yesterday to give San Rafael High School's freshman basketball team a 30-29 victory over visiting Redwood in a Marin County Athletic League opener.

Redwood Holds Off Novato Challenge To Win, 52-49

By LEW CODDINGTON

In what seemed like a reenactment of the UCLA-North Carolina State game of a month ago, Redwood High School held off the challenge of Novato for a 52-49 basketball victory yesterday afternoon.

Like UCLA's Bill Walton, Redwood center Darrell Elder sat down for a while with four personal fouls, but returned in time to lead his team's stretch drive.

The result of their efforts was a victory before about 600 Larkspur fans in the Marin County Athletic League opener for both teams.

Elder, a 6-foot-7 senior, scored 18 points and grabbed a team-high 12 rebounds despite a seven-minute absence late in the first half and early in the second.

Hennessy, a 6-foot senior, had a game-high 20 points. Eight of them came during a stretch when nobody else was hitting and the Giants skidded from a 16-13 lead to a 30-28 disadvantage.

Elder, who returned three minutes before Novato assumed that two-point lead, took command of the game to score six points as the Giants ran off a 12-2 burst to go ahead by eight with 5:51 left. The game was never closer than three points afterward.

Redwood coach Dick Hart lauded the play of Elder, Hennessy and 6-4 forward Randall Miller, who started in place of injured Steve Trobbe. Trobbe sprained an ankle Saturday night and is not expected back until next week, but Miller scored six points, all down the stretch, and grabbed nine rebounds.

Hart also credited his team's 1-2-2 or "jug" defense with denying the Hornets close shots. It was especially telling in the second quarter, when Novato made only one of its first 14 attempts. Redwood moved into a 22-15 lead after trailing at the quarter, 13-9.

Curtis Saine scored 16 points for Novato on various adroit moves under the basket, including six near the end to keep the score close. Willie Barnes tallied 14.

Novato	13	8	11	17	—49
Redwood	9	15	12	16	—52

Rules Loosened By NCAA

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Anthony Davis, USC's gifted junior halfback, may play professional baseball this spring and return to the Trojan collegiate football wars next fall.

That possibility was opened to Davis and other multi-sport standouts yesterday with action by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Delegates to the NCAA's annual meeting amended rules in a decision which had been building for years.

"It's been in the works for a long time," said Dave Daniels, editor of the NCAA News. "The rulemakers took input from the coaches and reviewed career cases."

Also approved were measures which would:

—Permit collegiate athletes to try out with pro teams and retain amateur standing in a sport should they fail to sign contracts.

—Allow student-athletes to compete in pro-am golf and tennis tournaments without losing NCAA status in the sport. Such athletes would have limits put on their prize money, however.

Other restrictions which were approved would prevent amateurs from selling aftershave lotion or other products and hiring agents to "market him."

If an athlete collects a professional's salary he must forfeit any college scholarship in whatever sport, the NCAA ruled.

Otherwise, he will be freed by other rule adoptions to officiate sports on any level except professional and to teach physical education and sports techniques.

NCAA football coaches also announced proposed rule changes, including elimination of the "messenger service" practice which allows a player to bring in a play from the bench.

The coach-dominated NCAA Football Rules Committee is expected to act next week in Phoenix on the proposal, which requires a substitute to remain in the game for one play.

"In our research we've found many serious injuries come in the kicking game," explained Notre Dame coach Ara Parsegian, whose teams used only above the waist blocking in spring practice.

"I think it's the best rule we've ever passed," USC coach John McKay said.

The coaches have found the dispute over bowl games and national championship more difficult to resolve.

Parsegian told newsmen he thought the bowl teams should be picked only after they complete their regular season schedules.

Rozelle's Warning Doesn't Stop Grant

HOUSTON (UPI) — The relationship between Bud Grant, the taciturn coach of the Minnesota Vikings, and pro football czar Pete Roselle is about as icy today as the frigid below zero weather back in Bloomington, Minn.

In a rare direct challenge to Rozelle's authority, Grant continued to criticize his team's super bowl training facilities even though an NFL official warned him that he might be fined by Rozelle for doing it.

After announcing he had been threatened with a fine for the first time in his career, Grant said, "Minnesota has the poorest facilities of any team in the league and it's still a lot better than this. Even the high school teams don't practice here.

While Grant was challenging Rozelle, the Miami Dolphins became sympathetic bystanders calmly preparing for the third straight super bowl appearance Sunday. Joe Robbie, the Dolphin president, even defended Grant.

"Bud Grant isn't a popoff guy," Robbie noted, "I have tremendous respect for him. If I walked into that dressing room and saw the two sparrows on the shower heads, I probably would have said the same thing."

Jim Kensil, the executive director of the NFL, phoned Jim Finks, the Vikings' general manager, and told him to tell Grant "there could be a fine" for Grant's remarks.

$15 MILLION

Finley Puts A's On Block

CHICAGO (AP) — Charles O. Finley has put the Oakland Athletics up for sale, the Chicago Tribune reported today.

The price, the newspaper said, is $15 million.

Finley told the Tribune in an interview that he finally has acquiesced to the urgings of his doctors.

"My doctor has told me to get out of all sports for physical reasons," Finley said.

He said he is open to bids from "responsible parties" to purchase the American League baseball club which he moved from Kansas City to Oakland in 1969. The team has given him two World Series championships in a row.

Finley told the Tribune he plans to sell his hockey team (the California Golden Seals of the National Hockey League) and his basketball team (the Memphis Tams of the American Basketball Association) for health reasons, too. He declined to put a price on either team.

He said the National Hockey League is "making arrangements" to purchase his California Golden Seals.

Finley said he has no particular persons in mind who might buy the A's, but that the Marjorie Everett-Vern Underwood syndicate, which is currently seeking to buy the San Diego Padres, is interested. He said he expects to speak with a representative of that group today.

Despite Finley's success with the Oakland team, it has caused him some headaches. The latest was the tiff with his manager, Dick Williams, who wanted to move to the Yankees even though his contract with Finley still had two years to run.

Fee Boost Looms For Outdoorsmen

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Department of Fish and Game has received authority from the Reagan administration to seek a substantial boost in the fees for hunting and fishing licenses, it was learned today.

Faced with a projected $5 million deficit, the department quietly has been mapping plans to raise the cost of hunting licenses to $10 each and sport fishing stamps by $1.

Top fish and game officials outlined the proposed increases to Gov. Ronald Reagan's cabinet yesterday. The administration approval was the first step in introducing legislation to initiate the increases by 1975.

Present fees and planned increases are:

Sport fishing inland stamp from $1 to $2 and trout stamp from $2 to $3. This would produce an estimated $2.9 million in new revenue.

Resident hunting license from $6 to $10. This would add $1.7 million in revenues.

Commercial fish tax from $1 to $3 per ton on most fish and from $40 to $80 per ton on salmon. This would add about $300,000.

Marin Academy Wins

A pin in one minute and 48 seconds by 191-pounder Gary Riggs was the highlight yesterday as the Marin Academy varsity wrestling team defeated the visiting San Rafael junior varsity, 18-12, to extend its perfect record to 5-0.

Marin's Pirinjian Honored

College of Marin center halfback Misak Pirinjian was selected second team All-American in the January issue of Soccer America, but the 19-year-old freshman has a loftier goal.

"I'm very happy to be selected to the second team," the San Rafael High School graduate explained yesterday, "but next year I'll try for the first team. That is my goal."

The 5-foot-9, 145-pounder led the Tars in scoring with 12 goals as Marin finished 2-3-3 in the CNC and 4-9-5 overall.

Bob Sitov, Pirinjian's coach at Marin, said, 'I was surprised at his selection, not because of his ability, but because of our team's record."

Sitov pointed out that three Northern Californians who made first team All-American honors were from champion teams — forward Tony Sales and back Mario Herrera of Chabot College in Hayward, Northern California champion, and goalie Rich Rutgers of West Valley in Campbell, Camino Norte Conference champ.

Vote Scheduled On Padre Sale

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National League was to try for a fourth time today to approve the sale of the San Diego Padres.

Club owners were scheduled to meet with representatives of a Los Angeles group headed by Marjorie Lindheimer Everett, former race track operator in Chicago, who reportedly have completed arrangements to buy the Padres from the current owner, C. Arnholt Smith.

Earlier, the league approved sale of the Padres to a Washington, D.C. grocery chain operator, Joseph Danzansky, who would have moved the franchise to Washington. But the approval hinged upon Danzansky meeting "certain conditions" within a deadline, and these conditions were not met.

MARIN 'CATS WIN

Mahoney Sets Scoring Record

By DAVE DEL GRANDE

Junior forward Mike Mahoney scored 33 points and grabbed 11 rebounds to guide Marin Catholic High School to an 84-60 whipping of San Marin last night before 500 enthusiastic fans in Greenbrae.

Led by Mahoney's 12 points, the Wildcats jumped to an 18-4 lead after seven minutes and thereafter never led by less than 14. Mahoney's 33 points broke the school record of 32 set by Jim Sullivan two years ago and tied by Mahoney last month.

The game was the Marin County Athletic League opener for both teams.

While Mahoney controlled the offense, Marin Catholic's aggressive combination man-to-man and zone defense stymied the Mustangs throughout the game. The Mustangs could hit just 30 per cent (23 of 78) of their shots while the Wildcats hit 41 per cent (31 of 76).

"We use both the good features of a zone and a man-to-man in our defense," commented Wildcat coach Dave Gonsalves. "We can usually get good position under the boards, plus it leaves us in good fast breaking position."

Marin Catholic also successfully used a zone press, causing many of San Marin's 18 turnovers. Many of the stolen passes coming as a result of the press ended up in 'Cat lay-ups.

Despite the loss, not to go unmentioned was the play of Mustang guard Bruce Smith. Smith was the only Mustang to hit with consistency, scoring 24 points. San Marin center Skip Starnes led all rebounders with 13.

Marin Catholic — Ahern 5-4-14, Mahoney 13-7-33, Knotts 0-3-3, G. Johnson 7-2-16, Webb 0-1-1, M. Johnson 2-3-7, Jones 4-2-10. Totals: 31-22-84.

THE GENTLEMAN BALLPLAYER

Even if he doesn't hit his weight, Ron Santo will add a touch of class to the Chicago White Sox if he takes the field looking as he did yesterday — with dress shirt, cuff links and tie. Since he just signed a two-year contract at $100,000 per annum, he can afford to. Santo will keep the same number — 10 — that he had before the crosstown Cubs traded him to the Sox this winter.

San Rafael Cagers Down Tam

Led by Byron Stewart's 20 points and 17 rebounds, San Rafael High School overcame the Marin County Athletic League opening basketball game jitters to beat Tamalpais yesterday, 49-42, on the losers' court.

Both teams got off to slow starts, with the Bulldogs outscoring Tam, 10-6, in the first quarter. San Rafael came out strong in the second half however, and built up a 12 point lead midway through the third period.

With Stewart sitting out the game for a few minutes with foul trouble, the Indians were able to cut the deficit to two points three times in the fourth quarter, but never took the lead. Stewart came back and helped San Rafael sink some crucial buckets to put the game away. Tam took advantage of nine Bulldog second half turnovers to stay in the game.

Tam's Mike Dinehart staged a scoring duel with Stewart, but fell short by two points, finishing with 18. Hollis Owens grabbed 11 rebounds and scored five points before fouling out, while San Rafael's Steve D'Ambra had 13 points.

Drake Quint Wins Opener, 61-47

By TOM THOMPSON

Putting the game away with striking suddenness in the fourth quarter, Drake High School opened defense of its Marin County Athletic League basketball championship last night with a 61-47 victory over host Terra Linda.

The Pirates ran away from the Trojans midway through the final period behind a nine-point free-throw scoring spree by Rick Herbert. Drake entered the quarter with a five point lead, but extended it to 10 at the five minute mark and broke the game open after that.

"Take away those few minutes in the fourth quarter and the game was pretty even," said first year Trojan coach Fred Arnold, who saw his league debut spoiled with a loss.

The Pirates looked several times throughout the game like they were ready to assert domination, but the stubborn hosts kept charging back. As about 900 fans watched, Drake jumped out to a 10-2 lead and held a 18-11 first quarter bulge. Terra Linda closed the margin to three at halftime and tied it up, 30-30, with 5:59 left in the third quarter.

Drake regained the lead for good, seconds later on a Dan Trimble freethrow and held on until the final rally.

"This is certainly better than last year," said winning coach Pete Hayward, referring to a Terra Linda upset over his team in 1973's league opener. "We hustled and made things happen, and that's what broke it open in the end. Terra Linda was scrappy, and they never gave up."

Slowdown Backfires For Casa Grande

By PAUL DWORIN

SANTA ROSA — Scoring just 12 points in the first half here last night, Casa Grande High School of Petaluma dropped its Sonoma County League basketball opener, 56-39, to Cardinal Newman.

The Gauchos, trying to keep the tempo down against the defending SCL champions, went to their passing game and took just 18 shots the entire first half. They made only four of them for a miserable 22 per cent.

Meanwhile, led by the inside muscle of Jerry Robinson and the outside shooting of Pat Fitzgerald, the Cardinals hit the nets for 44 per cent from the field to take a 31-12 halftime lead and virtually ice the game.

"I think the kids were nervous out there and it showed in the shooting," understated Casa Grande coach Dennis Casarotti. "We took the shots we wanted, but nothing would go in."

In the second half, the Gauchos settled down a bit and finally showed some shooting ability to outscore Cardinal Newman, 27-25, in the half. The surge was led by Larry Thomas and Tom Davini, who finished with 12 and 10 points.

Most of the damage done to Casa Grande came from the hands of Robinson and Fitzgerald, who combined for 37 points — just two less than the entire Gaucho team. Robinson was unstoppable, as the 6-foot-3 junior missed just one of 11 attempts from the field to score 23 points.

"Even if the score was bad, I'm really happy with the second half," Casarotti commented. "It'll be a different story next time we meet."

SONOMA CAGE

Vintage Holds Off Petaluma

Petaluma High School had its last chance at victory stolen away here last night, leaving the Trojans with a 45-44 North Bay League-opening basketball loss to Vintage.

Down by one point with 30 seconds left in the game, the Trojans called a timeout to set up the (hopefully) winning play. Those hopes were crushed, though, as Vintage's Burt Brace stole the inbounds pass.

In other high school court action last night, Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park dropped its Sonoma County League opener, 58-38, to host Healdsburg, Casa Grande of Petaluma also lost its SCL lid-lifter to Cardinal Newman of Santa Rosa, 56-39, and St. Vincent of Petaluma fell to visiting non-league foe St. Helena, 61-54.

Petaluma fell behind by five points in the first quarter, and that was the difference in the game as the Trojans outscored Vintage the rest of the way.

"We got behind early, but didn't panic," Trojan coach Mark Reischling related afterwards. "We controlled the tempo from the start and made them play our game. We played well."

The Trojans were paced by Dan Aldridge and Kriss Mungle, who scored 11 points each. Mungle's brother, Gary, added nine points before being carried off the court in the fourth quarter with a knee injury.

Rancho Cotate's loss was the result of horrible shooting. The Cougars hit a miserable 28 per cent from the field for the game and just 38 per cent from the line. Greg Simpkins led them with nine points.

St. Vincent was ahead by three points at the end of three quarters, but succumbed to a 24-point fourth period output by St. Helena. The Mustangs were led by Tom Lounibos' 16 points.

Seals Open Home Stand

OAKLAND (AP) — The California Golden Seals open a four-game home stand tonight at 8 o'clock in Oakland Coliseum Arena against the St. Louis Blues after a month of National Hockey League play in which they have won only one game, tied three and lost 10.

The Seals' last two defeats, Saturday and Sunday, were by the Blues and the Chicago Black Hawks whom they beat in the first two games of the season.

"The Seals just don't seem to want to hit. They just don't seem to like body contact," said Garry Unger, top scorer for St. Louis.

Following the Blues, California will host Vancouver on Friday, the New York Rangers Sunday and Toronto next Wednesday.

WRESTLING

Big Win For Tam In Opener

Jim Smith had a case of laryngitis this morning, but he wasn't complaining.

The first-year wrestling coach of Tamalpais High School had plenty to yell himself hoarse over yesterday as his Indians defeated visiting Terra Linda, 34-15, in a season-opening Marin County Athletic League wrestling match pitting two of last year's tri-champions.

In other matches yesterday, visiting San Marin whipped Novato, 45-24, and visiting Redwood (the other defending champion) thumped Drake, 42-18. San Rafael drew a bye.

Egide was the outstanding wrestler in the MCAL tournament last year. A superior decision, by 10 or more points, nets the winner's team four points instead of the usual three.

Tomorrow's schedule calls for Tamalpais at San Rafael, 5 p.m., and Novato at Terra Linda, 6:30 p.m.

Undefeated Tars Vs. Santa Rosa

College of Marin will seek its second victory of the young Camino Norte Conference basketball season tonight at 8 o'clock in the lair of the Santa Rosa Bear Cubs.

The undefeated Tars, 13-0 overall and ranked third in the state, opened their conference season Saturday with a 55-50 victory over Alameda College in Kentfield.

Santa Rosa, by contrast, is 2-9. The Bear Cubs lost their opener Saturday in Cupertino to De Anza College, 63-54 — not a bad showing, considering that De Anza is 11-3, stands seventh in the state and looms as Marin's chief rival for the conference title.

Marin handled Santa Rosa easily in both meetings last year, winning in Kentfield, 70-53, and in Santa Rosa, 85-60.

The Tars were cheered Saturday night by the strong showing of forward John Channell, who scored 11 points and grabbed 15 rebounds while playing the entire game. Channell bolsters a front line which already is getting steady excellence from Wil Garner, who has scored 20 or more points in 10 of the 13 games, and led Saturday night with 22.

Young Not Surprised By Honor

HOUSTON (UPI) — Charley Young's belief in himself has been vindicated.

Young, the brash tight end of the Philadelphia Eagles, yesterday was named the 1973 United Press International National Football conference Rookie of the year — an honor he's the first to admit he deserved.

He practically campaigned for the award. When he was asked about his chances during the season, he said, "sure I deserve it. Was there any question?"

Young received 20 votes from a nationwide panel of 39 sportswriters across the nation — three from each conference city. He easily beat out Chuck Foreman, the Minnesota Vikings' running back who received 10 votes.

Lawrence McCutcheon, the Los Angeles Rams' running back, and Wally Chambers, the Chicago Bears' defensive lineman, each received four votes.

Young was the sixth player selected in last season's draft but it had to be a blow to his ego that he was the second player picked by Philadelphia. The Eagles' first choice was offensive lineman Jerry Sizemore before they grabbed Young, who'd been a standout at Southern California in his collegiate days.

That made him the third leading pass receiver in the NFC.

Chicago Fire Signs Seymour

CHICAGO (UPI) — The newly organized Chicago Fire team of the fledgling World Football League yesterday announced the signing of its first player, wide receiver Jim Seymour.

Seymour, a college star at Notre Dame, was drafted by the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League but did not play for them. He was with the Chicago Bears from 1970 through 1972.

Fire owner Tom Origer said negotiations were underway with Joe Theisman and Virgil Carter to play quarterback.

Coin For Pele In His Farewell

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — A silver coin illustrating Pele's farewell to professional soccer at the end of the 1974 season will be put up for sale in Brazil and abroad, it was learned yesterday.

The coin's launching tentatively was scheduled for June during the World Cup games in West Germany

Hadl To Be Honored By Legislators

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — John Hadl, former Lawrence, Kan., High School and University of Kansas football star, and now quarterback of the Los Angeles Rams, will be honored at a joint session of the Kansas Legislature Jan. 14, a legislator said yesterday.

Rep. Lloyd Buzzi, R-Lawrence, said Hadl would be honored as a "distinguished Kansan" for his performance, not only on the football field, but as a citizen. Buzzi said Hadl has distinguished himself by his efforts on behalf of underprivileged children and other charitable causes.

Redwood J.V.s Win; Del Grande Nets 24

Dave Del Grande scored 24 points last night to lead Redwood High School's junior varsity basketball team to a 71-54 victory over Novato in a Marin County Athletic League opener.

In other MCAL games, Bob DeGraves dropped in 22 points as Terra Linda defeated Drake, 55-37, and Marin Catholic scored early and held on to top San Marin, 60-52, as Dennis Walsh scored 15 points and Tim Hurly 14.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Some Tips On Stormy Weather

Even though the thunderstorm season is over for the greater part of the country (July 15 to Oct. 15 is the worst period) it is worthwhile to set the record straight as to the possibility of a boat being struck by lightning.

First let me say that the chance of being killed by lightning while in a boat is very small. There is a far greater chance, statistically, that you will be killed by a car while crossing the street tomorrow.

But there is a danger nevertheless.

One authority on thunderstorms estimates that an average of 450 people are killed by lightning across North American every year, and that about 25 of these are most likely in boats at the time.

When you find yourself huddled in a sailboat, however, under a bare mast with a heavy thunder cloud just overhead, and the lightning is striking the water everywhere you look, it's hard to have much faith in the laws of chance.

If your mast was thoroughly grounded by a heavy wire into the water, a lightning bolt would do no damage to you.

To be safe, therefore, all aluminum or other metallic masts, and all metallic fittings at the ends of wooden masts, yards, booms, or spars on a sailing craft should be grounded. On powered craft a metal rod type of radio antenna provides excellent protection if properly grounded.

Otherwise the short mast should have a grounded metal tip, or, if there is no mast, the highest metal part of the boat should be grounded.

The grounding conductor should be no less than No. 8 copper wire. It should run as straight as possible to an unpainted grounding plate fastened to a wetted part of the hull.

The tremendous concern that many boaters have regarding thunderstorms and other weather conditions is reflected by the following questions.

Q. Wood is a non-conductor, so how can lightning striking a wooden mast hurt you?

A. Every wooden mast has some moisture in it, so it's a partial conductor of electricity. The lightning, when it passes through this semi-conductor, generates so much heat that the water, and other volatile components in the wood, are turned into vapor in a flash. This vapor creates so much pressure that it literally causes the wood to explode into dangerous fragments.

Q. Does it harm a fiber glass frame when it is driven hard over choppy water?

A. Yes. The damage just takes a lot longer to show up than it does on a wooden boat. A plastic boat will tolerate for years the kind of abuse that would break up a wooden boat in one season.

Q. What should you do if caught out in a storm while in a small boat?

A. Keep your engine or outboard going, and head into the wind and waves as slowly as possible. Wait it out rather than trying to rush for shore. If your power plant quits, and the winds are violent, get everybody to lie down in the boat. Keep the center of gravity as low as possible.

The same holds true for a big boat. Don't try to run for shelter if it means going downwind. If you should get turned broadside to the waves (broached) you're dead. Keep headed into the wind and waves and wait it out. You should have a sea anchor just in case the engine quits or you run out of fuel. Even a plastic pail on the end of 75 feet of rope will keep the bows pointed into the waves.

Q. What's a drogue?

A. It's another word for a sea-anchor, a device which acts as a drag to keep the bows headed into the wind and waves.

Q. What's the most important precaution in traveling in bad weather and rough water?

A. Anyone who ventures on deck should have a life line. He should be securely attached to the boat by a length of strong rope around his waist or to a proper harness. In rough water a man overboard is a very serious problem because of the additional danger in turning the boat or backing it up to try to fish him out.

Q. A violent thunderstorm hit our sailing dinghy on the lake, and all my father did was to make us lie on the floor. We got soaked. Wasn't there something else we could have done?

A. I'd say your father is a smart man. If he'd done anything else, you might not be here to write me your letter.

NHL ROUNDUP

Quick Blitz Is Answer For Kings

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Kings scored three times within a 1:58 span of the first period at the Nassau Coliseum enroute to their 3-1 triumph and recalled fond memories for coach Bob Pulford.

"It was just like a game here last year when we got three goals on the first three shifts and won 3-2," said Pulford. "I was very happy with the way we played. It was a heck of a hockey game."

"We were terrible," said Arbour. "We were just sleep walking. We just weren't ready for them."

Butch Goring opened the Kings' scoring at 11:32 by beating goalie Gerry Desjardins on a breakaway after Bob Nevin set up the play by stealing the puck from Denis Potvin. Juha Widing made it 2-0 at 12:28 when he scored directly off a faceoff deep in Islander ice and Frank St. Marseille's 20-foot wrist shot off Desjardins' shoulder closed out the Kings' scoring.

Lorne Henning of the Islanders ruined Kings' goalie Rogatien Vachon's shutout bid at 8:33 of the second period when he deflected Billy Harris' centering pass on a power play.

In the only other National Hockey League game, rookie goalie John Davidson stopped 36 shots in leading St. Louis to a 3-1 victory over Vancouver before the usual packed house of 15,570 fans.

Davidson kept the Blues ahead with several remarkable stops even though the hosts outshot the visitors 17-9 in the first period and 37-25 altogether.

Forward Lou Angotti scored what turned out to be the winner at 14:15 of the second stanza to shove the Blues out in front 2-1. Pierre Plante added the clincher with 38 seconds to go in the contest into an empty net.

WHA's 1st Scoreless Contest

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Gerry Cheevers, all-star goaltender for the Cleveland Crusaders, says Cam Newton of the Chicago Cougars "put my advise to work against me" in their battle to the World Hockey Association's first scoreless tie last night.

Cheevers stopped 39 Chicago shots during the hour of regulation play and 10 minutes of sudden death overtime. Newton turned back 27 Cleveland attempts.

"It was a scrambling game with fortunate breaks at each end," Cheevers said. "You know we've got sort of a goaltenders union so the goalies on the various teams in the league do talk together quite a bit.

"I remember telling Newton he really didn't have to come out of the net to cut down the angle on shots in the Chicago rink and he really put my advice to work against me.

"Newton is a good goaltender and I think Chicago's performance tonight showed that they will be fighting us for a playoff berth all the way."

Newton, fighting to better a 3.65 goals against average, said, "I know I've been criticized for coming out of the net but I feel I've matured. I didn't come out and challenge the shooters any more, especially in our small rink.

"I sure appreciate Cheevers' kind words. He really showed me something tonight—he's so cool and he never lets the tempo of the game affect him."

The game was the first time two WHA teams have played 70 minutes without a score. Last season, the league's first, Cleveland played the New England Whalers to a scoreless tie in regulation time, but John French beat Cheevers in the sudden death period for a 1-0 New England victory.

In other WHA games, Los Angeles beat Winnipeg 4-1, Toronto edged New England 3-2 and Houston ripped Edmonton 6-2.

Prothro— Wide Open Football

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Youth, trades and wide open football can be expected from the San Diego Chargers next seaston with Tommy Prothro as head coach.

"I've never believed in ball control," he told a news conference after being given a long-term contract yesterday to coach the club. "If I have a choice, I favor the big play. Time of possession doesn't mean much to me."

Harland Svare, who coached the club for a year and a half before resigning under fan pressure, made more than 20 trades during the period to establish a team in the image of Vince Lombardi's old Green Bay Packers.

Svare remains as general manager, but whatever conflict might result was quelled by Chargers' owner Eugene Klein, who said Prothro has "complete authority over everything that happens on the football field," including trades and the draft.

Prothro obtained the likes of Larry McCutcheon, Jack Youngblood, Isaiah Robertson and Jim Beurtleson in the draft and Fred Dryer in a trade.

"The present coach of the Rams (Chuck Knox) is doing a super job," Klein said, "but the club was built two years before by Prothro."

The new coach said he did not know much about the present Chargers and when asked about untouchables replied, "Me, Mr. Klein and Mr. Svare. I'd trade my mother if I thought I were getting the better of the deal."

Prothro was fired after two years with the Rams but feels he learned a great deal.

He said he and Svare had interviewed a great many prospects and Prothro best met the criteria.

He did not want a college coach because it would put the rebuilding program a year or two behind while he learned the pro game. And he did not want an assistant pro coach because of the "Peter Principle—Can an outstanding No. 2 go to No. 1 and stand the pressure?"

Both Klein and Prothro agreed that the rebuilding would not be accomplished overnight, but Klein has a man he thinks "can lead us out of the wilderness."

NBA ROUNDUP

Stars Show Why They Were Picked

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Dave DeBusschere, Bob McAdoo, Rick Barry, Phil Chenier and Sidney Wicks all showed again last night why they were chosen for next week's National Basketball Association All-Star game.

DeBusschere, hitting on 14 of 26 field goal attempts, finished with 31 points in leading New York to a 108-80 triumph over the Bulls for the Knicks' first win in Chicago in nearly two years. New York's victory ended a four game losing streak to the Bulls and was only their third win over Chicago in the last 11 games between the two teams. New York's last win in Chicago was 102-99 in overtime Feb. 17, 1972.

The Knicks led by nine points at the end of the first period and by 26 at the half as DeBusschere connected on seven of 10 field goal tries and netted 15 points in the first quarter and 19 before the intermission.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Buffalo downed Atlanta 100-96, Golden State beat Houston 104-92, Capital edged Los Angeles 94-92, and Portland whipped Kansas City-Omaha 129-110.

McAdoo's 32 points and 20 rebounds sparked Buffalo past Atlanta as the Braves moved a half game ahead of the Hawks for the Eastern Conference's wild card playoff berth. Garfield Heard contributed 14 points and 22 rebounds for Buffalo while Lou Hudson, another all-star selection, topped the Hawks with 41 points.

Chenier scored 11 of his game-high 27 points in the final four minutes to help Capital beat Los Angeles. Chenier hit six of his seven field goal attempts in the final quarter to bring the Bullets back from a seven-point deficit. His free throw with 25 seconds remaining gave Capital a 91-88 lead, and two free throws by Elvin Hayes and one by Mike Riordan offset a pair of layups by Jim Price.

Barry scored 22 points for Golden State in its win over Houston as the Rockets moved to within three games of the Lakers in the Pacific Division. Calvin Murphy led the Rockets with 23 points.

Wicks, in addition to scoring 27 points, also collected 11 rebounds and had eight assists for Portland in its romp over Kansas City-Omaha. Wicks' teammate Geoff Petrie, another all-star selectee, chipped in with 27 points and a career-high 12 assists.

Monterey's Can-Am Race Called Off

MONTEREY, Calif. (UPI) — The Laguna Seca 1974 Can-Am sports car race scheduled for next Oct. 12-13 was called off yesterday.

The Sports Car Racing Association of the Monterey Peninsula, which sponsors the Laguna Seca events, said it was asking the Sports Car Club of America to take the race off its calendar.

In place of the Canadian-American Challenge Cup on the October date, the local sponsors want to move their Formula 5,000 race, now scheduled for May 4-5, to the fall weekend.

Bub Hugill, general manager of Laguna Seca, said the Can-Am is being cancelled because a sponsor was lost and because of uncertainties about whether Porsche would participate.

Hugill said top drivers would be on hand for the Formula 5,000 event and that another race was being planned for the spring.

Jenny Turrall Sets World Swim Mark

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

SYDNEY, Australia — Thirteen-year-old Jenny Turrall smashed her own world 1,500 meters freestyle record by 1.7 seconds at the North Sydney Olympic Pool early today.

Swimming well out on her own after the first 400 meters Jenny recorded 16:48.2. It was the second world record this tiny Sydney girl has set in the New South Wales Championships and her third world record in a month.

The record came as a shock to herself and her coach, Forbes Carlile. Originally, she wasn't to swim in the event but because of her outstanding form it was decided she would attempt it.

Basketball

LOS ANGELES — Bill Walton's back injury, the result of a crash landing on the hard Tartan playing surface in Pullman, Wash., Monday night, has been diagnosed as a slight muscle bruise. He should be ready for UCLA's Pacific Eight contests here Friday and Saturday against California and Stanford.

MILWAUKEE — The Milwaukee Bucks, in an effort to bolster their injury-riddled roster, yesterday signed veteran guard Dick Garrett, who has waived Dec. 22 after playing 25 games with the New York Knickerbockers.

Baseball

SANTO DOMINGO, D.R. — Houston Astros outfielder Cesar Cedeno, who goes on trial Monday, testified in a preliminary hearing yesterday that his woman companion was accidentally shot when she grabbed his pistol in the fatal shooting the dawn of Dec. 11 of Altagracia de la Cruz, 19.

Speedskating

THE HAGUE — Dutch speedskating ace Ard Schenk has decided to end his skating career now because he had not received the money he was promised in a pro contract, Dutch newspaper De Telegraaf reported today.

Boxing

DEER LAKE, Pa. — Muhammad Ali, in heavy training for his Jan. 28 rematch with Joe Frazier in New York, said yesterday, "I haven't time for jokes."

"All the talking, all the gimmicks don't count when you lose. I'm just up here to work. No clowning this time at all," said Ali, who is down to 212 pounds.

PHILADELPHIA — Trainer Eddie Futch said yesterday that former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Frazier has completed his conditioning program and has begun "Phase Two" of training for his Jan. 28 rematch with Muhammad Ali. He said the plan now is that he will box five rounds a day, five days a week.

Bowling

ARCADIA, Calif. — Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill., will be out to follow up his 300 game in last week's Professional Bowlers' Association event today in the opening rounds of the $70,000 Don Carter Classic, the second stop on PBA tour.

Football

BOULDER, Colo. — Washington State University coach Jim Sweeney, another candidate for the football coach's job at Colorado, took himself out of consideration yesterday, but athletic director and former coach Eddie Crowder says he still thinks he can hire someone by the end of the week.

Banovec, Fonteno Lead Cage Teams

Bob Banovec and Joe Fonteno were last night's high scorers with 12 points each as they led their teams to victory in San Rafael Recreation Department adult basketball league games at Davidson Junior High School.

Banovec's Fourth and D Copy Center team defeated McPhail's, 43-26, while Fonteno's Suburban Auto aggregation turned back The Seasons, 46-29. The San Rafael Saints were awarded a forfeit victory over First American Title in the other scheduled game.

Time To Dust Off An Old Resolution

Independent-Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
34 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 9, 1974 EDITORIAL PAGE

For a reason that will become obvious, you haven't read about it in the news columns recently; but the Indiana State Legislature adopted a resolution which declares:

"INDIANA NEEDS NO guardian and intends to have none. We Hoosiers — like the people of our sister states — were fooled for quite a spell with the magician's trick that a dollar taxed out of our pockets and sent to Washington will be bigger when it comes back to us. We have taken a good look at said dollar. We find that it lost weight in its journey to Washington and back. The political brokerage of the bureaucrats has been deducted. we have decided that there is no such thing as 'federal' aid. We know that there is no wealth to tax that is not already within the boundaries of the 48 states.

"So we propose henceforward to tax ourselves and take care of ourselves. We are fed up with subsidies, doles and paternalism. We are no one's stepchild. We have grown up. We serve notice that we will resist Washington, D.C., adopting us.

"Be it resolved by the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, the Senate concurring: That we respectfully petition and urge Indiana's congressmen and senators to vote to fetch our county court house and city halls back from Pennsylvania Avenue. We want government to come home. Resolved, further, that we call upon the legislatures of our sister states and on good citizens everywhere who believe in the basic principles of Lincoln and Jefferson to join with us, and we with them to restore the American Republic and our 48 states to the foundations built by our fathers."

THE CLUE to why you have not read about the Indiana resolution in recent news columns is in those mentions of "the 48 states." The resolution was adopted in January, 1947.

Harry Truman was in the White House. "Federal aid" consisted of an assortment of programs left over from Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal. Federal expenditures that year were just over $39 billion, and there was a $754 federal budget surplus.

Since then the government in Washington has vastly expanded its Big Brother role. The variety of handouts and subsidies from Uncle Sam has grown far greater than in Truman's day. This year's federal spending will total about $269 billion, and there is expected to be a deficit of at least $12 billion.

WE SUSPECT that even Hoosiers, who were so forthright in exposing the federal con game in 1947, have since become addicted to the "handout" narcotic. It's so easy. And there is always the excuse, "If we don't take it, someone else will" (which, incidentally, is the identical excuse used by many young thieves).

Maybe it's time — actually, far past time — for all 50 states (not just 48) to dust off that old resolution and readopt it.

"Reminder or resolution?"

Congressmen's Home Soundings Won't Change Nixon Stance

WASHINGTON — Members of Congress are going to start straggling back from their districts next week, and you will find the ones who thought Mr. Nixon was a great patriot when they departed will report when they return that their constituents would be outraged by presidential resignation or impeachment proceedings. The ones who left thinking he should be thrown out are going to come back thinking he should be thrown out.

And that is going to leave the question right where it was then, and where the hard responsibility must lie. That is in the House Judiciary Committee, which eventually has to vote on whether formal impeachment proceedings will ensue.

No amount of wishful thinking by the president's loyal supporters is going to puff away the mass of evidence against him. But neither is any volume of high-powered commentary in the media going to convince Mr. Nixon that he should resign voluntarily.

Nothing is.

THE DREAMERS who imagine that a delegation of Republican congressmen will one day call at the White House and entreat the president to step down for the sake of his party and their election chances this fall are just that, dreamers. Not for imagining the visit, but for imagining that Mr. Nixon might respond to it.

There is no evidence in his long political career that the Republican Party or the Republican percentage in Congress ever mattered one iota to him — except as fields where he could sow IOUs to blossom later, when he needed them most for his presidential ambitions. This was emphatically reproven in his 1972 campaign, when his celebrated CREEP organization soaked up every dollar in sight for the exclusive purpose of re-electing a man whose re-election was all but certain, and shrugged at the fate of other, deserving Republicans who desperately needed campaign money.

Nor is there any backing at all for the idea that he might be stricken by belated conscience and concern for the country's near future, and step aside in favor of Gerald Ford. The only response to that one is to chuckle, humorlessly.

REPEATEDLY, DESPITE this background, new rumors pass from one end of Pennsylvania Avenue to the other, that the president's mood is darker and it is only a matter of time before he formulates a way to get out with the appearance of innocence. Or anywhow, without being thrown out.

Obviously, it is too late for that. It is impossible now for him to depart without the worldwide assumption that he is pleading guilty by doing so.

Yet there is one aspect of the whole long scandal that keeps open the remote chance of his leaving, under the pretext of illness or otherwise. That is the depressing fact, for him, that the disclosures are nowhere near ended. There is much more to come.

The group that seems to appreciate this nearly as much as the president himself is his loyalists — not the ones who allege his virginity, and run expensive newspaper ads with quotations like:

"A small group of radicals and radical-liberals have whipped up a nationwide hysteria to the point that good citizens favor impeaching the president even before it has been proved that he has actually violated any law."

Anyone who underwrites that view is far out of touch, both with what has been going on and with the definition of impeachment — which is the process of proving or disproving an official's guilt.

The loyalists I speak of are more sophisticated than that. They are the ones who say mentally, let's get on with impeachment if we must, if only to prove that the president is innocent. But let's set a deadline by which the House must act, and if no impeachment has been approved by then, let's put it all behind us.

THAT WOULD RULE OUT the slow but necessary uncovering of further evidence, step by step, in orderly procedure. If the greatest outrage of all should come to light the day after the deadline, it would be moot. That would serve Mr. Nixon well, but not the country.

The House committee should — must — proceed ruthlessly but carefully to drag out every remaining crumb of evidence. if at some point in that process the Republican members thereof should go to the White House and tell the president just what he would have to face in formal impeachment proceedings, perhaps then Mr. Nixon would quit "voluntarily" for the good of party and country. But not until then.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND: Brave Solzhenitsyn

WASHINGTON — Without any doubt, the bravest living man in the world today is Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn. He is in a class with Joan of Arc and Martin Luther and is far more fearless than the German generals who dared to try to assassinate Adolf Hitler.

In his explosive expose of the Soviet police-state terror, which has already taken the lives of at least 14 million of its citizens, Mr. Solzhenitsyn is saying to the Kremlin, and to the Russian people (when foreign broadcasts bring his message to them): Give Russia liberty or it will die.

Mr. Solzhenitsyn is, of course, insane — in the view of the Soviet regime. Any Russian citizen who criticizes the leadership thereby shows himself to be insane. What dire punishment awaits Solzhenitsyn remains to be seen. He may be silenced by death or exile to one of the Siberian prison camps he so vividly describes.

But his voice will never be silenced from here on. He has written it down in 260,000 words — his own experiences in the detention camps with all their terror and brutality plus tales of 227 other inmates of the Soviet prison system.

This is Alexander Solzhenitsyn's bold and spine-stiffening bequest to his fellow Russians — a gift of courage with which to say to their oppressors: Liberty shall prevail.

His monumental work, "The Gulag Archipelago," is a powerful weapon —a time-bomb planted, not just under a few Soviet leaders but under the whole Soviet police state. It will go on ticking and ticking and ticking. It will never stop until it has served its purpose.

ALEXANDER SOLZHENITSYN
Drawing by Karl W. Stuecklen

IT IS NOW EVIDENT why the Kremlin hoped that Solzhenitsyn would go to Sweden last year to accept the Nobel literary prize. They wanted to get him out of Russia voluntarily and then keep him out on the ground that as an exile his forthcoming expose could be more easily smeared. They knew what was coming because the KGB had obtained the one copy of his manuscript he had entrusted to a Russian friend by so brutalizing her that she committed suicide.

The Kremlin has good reason to be worried. "Gulag," which is a Russian abbreviation for the "administration of the collective-labor prison system," is a direct, explicit and total challenge to the very life of Soviet communism.

Solzhenitsyn shows that massive police-state repression was present at the birth of the 1917 Russian Revolution and was practiced, advocated, encouraged and justified by Lenin himself.

THE KREMLIN SEEKS to dismiss Stalin's massive liquidations as departures from normal Soviet communism — all in the past.

Solzhenitsyn documents the fact that such police-state repression began before Stalin and continued long after his death, with only a little abatement in recent years. He proves that repression is not a departure from Soviet communism but is vital to its very existence.

This is why "The Gulag Archipelago" cuts so deep into the bone and marrow of the Soviet regime. The Kremlin can't accept the truth that Lenin exhorted his colleagues to employ merciless terror, and maintain the myth that Stalinism was an excrescence that never belonged to Soviet communism. It can't accept the truth that lawless repression is the natural accompaniment of communism and retain the working loyalty of its people.

THE KREMLIN IS IN a considerable dilemma. It can't be sure that the thrust and substance of "The Gulag Archipelago" will not be widely circulated in the Russian underground press. It can attack the book but it won't dare specify what it is attacking. That would reveal too much.

It can silence Solzhenitsyn by death, which in itself would be a revealing admission. But it can't silence Solzhenitsyn's message. Like Martin Luther, he has nailed his truths on the door of the Kremlin. Like Joan of Arc, he will never recant.

Prison Psychiatrist Explains His Protest

I would like to clarify my position and correct any possible misunderstanding of your Dec. 29 article on my firing at San Quentin.

My principal purpose in permitting my firing and pending appeal to become public is to focus public attention on the fact that healthy and constructive changes in the prison system are far more possible than the top state and Department of Correction officials are willing to admit.

I am now putting my professional career on the line. Eyebrows are always raised at a firing, and I could very easily have made an unobtrusive resignation. Instead, I am deliberately taking this course in the hopes of getting the public involved, because the issues raised go far beyond narrow and personal ones.

My refusal to accept the exclusive adjustment center assignment and the abrupt unassignment from my groups, the latter without even an opportunity to communicate with the men, was an act of protest and of common sense, rather than of fear . . .

A program of therapy through a porthole, in an atmosphere of distruct and danger, with other inmates listening in, is the antithesis of every therapeutic principle, and would only earn the inmates' contempt and desire to retaliate against what they would feel was confirmation of their belief that the establishment is callous and stupid.

We need more light and less heat. We need a radical middle, fighting for these things against the radical fringes of both the right and the left, who are nearly destroying the hopes of humanity . . .

Testing For ESP May Harm Young Children

It might be interesting for parents who have children in some of Marin's nursery and day care centers to know that their children might be tested for E.S.P. powers.

While some view E.S.P. as harmless, my research and counseling experience has shown it to be occultic and dangerous. The reason it is dangerous is that it exposes one to the world of demonic spirits. Certainly this is a controversial opinion, but when our children's happiness is at stake, we need to be careful who influences them.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Those Busy Lilliputians Tie Us Down With Laws

By RUS WALTON

More do's and don'ts to prescribe and proscribe our daily living. Some 1,126 of those laws took effect on New Year's Day. The others slid in during the year.

Some of those statutes are important, even necessary. The imposition of the death penalty for 11 specified capital crimes. The conflict of interest law to protect the people from unscrupulous politicians. The new Cline law that permits single heads of households to use the married taxpayers' income tax table.

In the main, most of those 1,218 laws are just more straws on the citizen's back. If that government is best that governs least, we are sinking deeper and deeper in the pickle barrel.

In the past five years we have had 7,728 new state laws thrust upon us: 1,218 in 1973; 1,442 in '72; 1,821 in '71; 1,628 in '70, and 1,619 in 1969.

GEORGE MURPHY, the state legislature's legal eagle, says he has no idea how many state laws there are. "I wouldn't even want to guess."

We pay Mr. Murphy and his legal counsel staff of 128 about $2.4 million a year to help the politicians lay those laws on us. Murphy and his staff research, write, analyze and counsel on the bills the legislators deliver year after year. Fortunately, only about 25 per cent of those hatch.

Murphy contends there is not much relationship between the number of laws enacted each year and the cumulative total of laws on the books.

"A large percentage of the new laws amend existing laws. You could have 15-20 laws come along —all in one session — all amending the same section of the law."

We have 26 codes — Business and Profession, Civil Procedure, Evidence, Fish and Game, Penal, Probate, Vehicle, Water, Welfare and on and on. Each code has its chapters and sections and divisions . . and cats and kittens and cats . . . The more laws there are the more the lawmakers think we need.

HERB ELLINGWOOD, the governor's assistant for legal affairs, has the state laws stacked on his office shelves. All told they come to 119 bound volumes of West's Annotated Codes. They take up about 30 running feet of Herb's bookcases. And those are just the California laws.

Pile on top of them the thousands of local ordinances and the some 35 million federal laws and regulations!

The citizen is in much the same fix as Jonathan Swift's "Gulliver," the fella who fell asleep on the beach and awoke to find that the Lilliputians had bound him down, top to bottom, stem to stern.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Frustrated Parents Ignore Fact That It Pays To Organize

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Parents often express frustration at their inability to influence the kind of education given their children in the public schools. Although parents provide both money and pupils, educators make the decisions.

The reason is fairly simple: the educators are organized; the parents are not.

Through their two powerful unions, the National Education Association and American Federation of Teachers, educators call the shots on everything from who can teach to what courses shall be offered and how they shall be taught.

THE ONLY LARGE PARENT organization — potentially more powerful than NEA and AFT combined — is the Parent-Teacher Association. But its name indicates the dichotomy that afflicts it. Though the "Parent" portion includes most of its membership, "Teacher" wields more influence.

The bylaws of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers (like those of most state bodies of the national PTA) include this:

"The organization shall cooperate with schools to support the improvement of education in ways that will not interfere with the administration of the schools and shall not seek to control their policies."

This usually is given a narrow interpretation which precludes any stand by PTA counter to what educators are promoting. In "The Truth About PTA," a 1966 publication designed to answer charges by PTA critics, the national organization admitted: "PTAs and PTA members are far more likely to be afflicted with timidity than with temerity."

THE TEACHER UNIONS, of course, do not suffer from timidity. And they feel no obligation for the kind of cooperation with parents that might interfere with their own aims. Everything having to do with the schools becomes an "educational issue," and the unions insist that only educators are competent to decide educational issues. Ergo, there is no area of decision left for parents.

Between them, NEA and AFT enroll, and speak for, those in education all the way from college students preparing for teaching careers to state and federal bureaucrats. NEA does it through its more than 30 subsidiary and affiliated organizations; AFT simply organizes a new local to fit whatever group it wants to absorb.

Local organizations for parents who want to argue their cases without PTA's self-imposed avoidance of controversy appear frequently — and disappear with equal frequency. Nearly all of them suffer from being not only local but also very limited in scope. They exist to attack or defend specific issues or programs, and their life-span is customarily short.

One national organization that continues to speak for both parents and teachers opposed to wasteful and often harmful experimentation in the schools is the Council for Basic Education, 725 — 15th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005. But CBE is not activist. It does research, publishes books and monographs, explores successful and unsuccessful education programs, and remains a constant voice for sanity in the schools. But it is neither constituted nor intended to fight the battles that parents are constantly losing in school districts and legislatures.

IN 1971, an organization was formed in Los Angeles County which gave early promise of providing frustrated parents an opportunity to make their wants felt. This is Friends of Education, P. O. Box 336, Tujunga 91042.

Friends of Education calls itself a political action group. "We are a parents' lobby," said an early statement of purpose. "We define education as the removal of ignorance and we are working to improve it. . . Our number one priority is maintaining control over schools and curriculum through community-elected school boards."

However, despite continued activity, FOE has failed in two and a half years to attract much interest beyond Southern California. Even there its membership is comparatively small.

Frustrated parents, it would seem, prefer to remain frustrated.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

Rabies Shots Required For Dogs; Why Not For Cats As Well?

There were more than 40 known rabid animals in Marin County last year. These are animals that have come into civilization and been killed and their rabies diagnosed.

It does not begin to estimate the number of animals which die of the disease in the remoteness of the county.

Cats are natural hunters and therefore are more exposed to the rabid animals than dogs. Yet dogs, which are basically confined to yards or kept on leash, must be vaccinated.

Why not cats?

The cats are not immune to the disease and run a far greater chance of contracting it than dogs. They roam all over and continually are killing smaller animals and birds. The chance of them contacting or coming in contact with a rabid animal would appear to be many times more than that of dogs.

THE OTHER NIGHT I barely missed three bicycle riders on South Novato Boulevard. I had to swerve to miss them, endangering not only the bike riders, but also myself and those in oncoming cars.

Yes, it was dark and raining. The bicycle riders, one of whom was an older teen-ager or a young adult, had on dark clothing. Worse, they had no lights nor reflectors on their bicycles.

The older rider and the parents of the younger riders should have known to wear something white so that they could be seen, even if they were riding illegal bicycles without reflectors or lights.

WHICH COULD LEAD to wondering whether the new long-time daylight saving time will have any effect on the school children going to school in the dark.

Going an hour earlier each morning, they leave in the dark and are on the streets about the same time as the commute traffic. It could make a difference in the number of bicycle-auto accidents.

Parents should remember that bicycles should have lights and reflectors. They should also remember to have their children wear something white so that they can be seen.

Somewhere I read where a mother was worried about her offspring wearing a black jacket when riding a bicycle. So she put fluorescent tape on the back of the jacket so that it could be seen by the reflections of the lights of the cars.

A Bright Hiking Day Could Spell Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A bright winter day in America's wilderness carries deception, and perhaps even death, for the outdoorsman who is not prepared, a California doctor warns.

Dr. Mike Chapman, assistant chief of orthopedic service at San Francisco General Hospital and an experienced outdoorsman, was talking about hypothermia, commonly called exposure.

It happens when a person's core body temperature starts to drop from its normal 98.6 degrees. At 86 degrees the victim loses consciousness; 82 degrees is fatal.

Even experienced outdoorsmen have been known to set out in brilliant sunshine, only to be caught unprepared when a fast-moving mountain storm drenches them in freezing rain or snow.

But it doesn't have to be freezing for exposure to set in. Chapman said someone wearing light clothing who is caught in a cold rain can suffer exposure at 40 degrees or warmer. Wind velocity is also a factor, as is the person's physical condition.

One of the first symptoms is shivering — the body's own attempt to warm itself. Then lack of coordination sets in, followed by drowsiness, failing vision, shock and eventually heart failure.

—Feet, hands and head are the "radiators" of the body; keep them covered. A wool hat and a light pair of gloves are recommended even if weather is above freezing.

—Don't smoke or drink alcoholic beverages. Drinking dialates blood vessels in the hands and feet, thus accelerating heat loss. Smoking restricts the vessels, making the smoker prone to frostbite.

—Keep the body fueled with high calorie foods and enough fluid to stop dehydration. A person has a very high caloric requirement while hiking. He can also use some four quarts of water a day.

—Avoid getting wet. Wear clothing that unbuttons so it can be opened when a person starts to perspire.

If a person starts showing symptoms of exposure, immediate treatment is necessary, Chapman says. Once it reaches advanced stages, the cooling process is irreversible.

The obvious thing to do, the physician advises, is to warm the victim as much as possible. Give him warm liquids.

If the victim is approaching an advanced stage, get him completely undressed and into a dry sleeping bag. Then, Chapman said, two other people should get undressed and into the bag with him, one on either side. That way he is warmed by his companions' body heat.

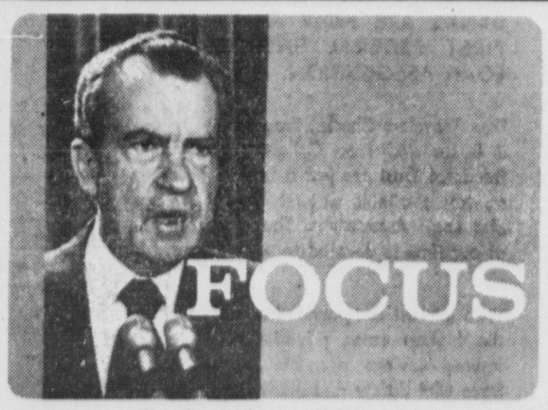
INDIANA, Pa. (UPI) — The Homer Center School District yesterday pushed back the starting time of classes after parents complained it was unsafe for school children to travel to school in the darkness caused by the switch to Daylight Saving time.



The President's Birthday

Today President Nixon is celebrating his 61st birthday. He may well be wishing it were his 60th instead. A year ago, the President was about to be inaugurated for a second term after one of the greatest electoral landslides in U.S. history. He was widely praised for having improved relations with China and the Soviet Union, and for the peace agreement about to be signed in Viet Nam. Today, after a tumultuous year in which Watergate became a household word, the House Judiciary Committee is investigating whether grounds exist for impeaching the man who brought the U.S. out of Viet Nam. Richard M. Nixon, who wrote Six Crises in 1962, now faces his seventh and greatest crisis.

DO YOU KNOW — Where was President Nixon born?

Sausalito Candidate Wants To Reconcile Split In Community

Sausalito businessman William Hanna is seeking election to the city council in the March 5 election to reconcile misunderstandings between the business community and citizens.

Hanna, 33, owner of a downtown store, is among nine candidates competing to fill the expiring terms of Stephen A. Fraser and Earl F. Dunphy. Both incumbents are candidates for reelection.

"There is a seemingly wide variation between what the people want and what the business community wants," Hanna said. "Actually, it's the same thing, but the two are butting heads and making it more difficult."

He promised that he would work to coordinate the desires of both groups and to serve as a sounding board for community feeling.

Hanna said he favors limited waterfront development, within city guidelines.

He opposes the city buying waterfront property for open space because "prices are too high," but supports a cleanup drive that would improve existing facilities.

A resident of the city for eight years, Hanna lives at 833 Bridgeway. He attended Diablo Valley College in Contra Costa County and is a member of the Sausalito Business Association and chamber of commerce. He is single.

Realtors Seat New Officers

Emphasizing that "real estate is the best hedge against inflation," Mill Valley realtor Bruce Wrisley accepted the presidency of the Marin County Board of Realtors at installation ceremonies last night at Peacock Gap Country Club in San Rafael.

Wrisley, elected to office last month, is co-owner, with James McGinnis, of Magic Key-Wrisley-McGinnis & Associates, Mill Valley. He is a specialist in residential and income properties and has been active in the real estate industry since 1956.

A native of Honolulu, Hawaii, Wrisley is married, and the father of two sons. His affiliations include the Mill Valley Rotary Club, Mill Valley chamber of commerce, Boy Scouts of America, and the Mill Valley Tennis Club.

Also installed were vice president Frank Hanses (Home & Land Co.) of Novato; secretary Gladys Mekisich (Magic Key-County Wide Properties, Inc.) of Mill Valley; treasurer Joe

BRUCE RISLEY
Realtor president

Asiano (Magic Key-J. Asiano, Realtor) of San Rafael; and directors Cole Jackman (Rivers & Jackman) of San Anselmo; John Mountz (W. John Mountz, Realtor) of San Rafael; Robert J. (Robin) Barossi (Barossi & Co.) of Mill Valley; and Grant Wartena (Stewart Associates) of Corte Madera.

Daniel Deedy continues, for the 24th year, as executive manager.

Market In Deep Slide At Opening

NEW YORK (UPI) — Concern over inflation and an apparent snarl in Middle East peace talks sent stocks into a deep slide on the New York Stock Exchange today. Trading was active.

Analysts attributed selling to a combination of depressing developments. The latest session in the Middle East peace talks ended after only an hour with no progress reported and were adjourned for a week. Also, the world's major oil supplying nations decided to freeze oil prices at current skyhigh levels until April.

Yesterday, the specter of rampant inflation became more visible with the government reporting the inflation rate in 1973 at the highest level since 1946.

Other blue chips listed in the Dow industrial average took sharp losses. Dupont slumped 3 ¼, Eastman Kodak 1 ¾, Union Carbide 1 ⅜, International Paper 2, General Electric 1 ⅝, International Harvester and Procter & Gamble 1 ½ each, and Esmark and Anaconda a point apiece.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Many Forms May Be Needed In Filing Your 1973 Return

The basic individual income tax return Form 1040 for the year 1973, consists of one piece of paper and two pages, page 1 and page 2 of 1040. However, there are quite a number of other forms that you may have to attach to this basic form in order to complete your return. In fact, there are probably hundreds of other forms that you may conceivably have to use. The more common ones, however, are mentioned on this return themselves, and they are:

Schedule D tax computation; Schedule G tax computation; Form 4726 maximum tax; Form 4972 five year averaging; Forms W-2 or W-2P; Form 4868; Form 2210 penalty; Form 2210F; Schedule C business income; Schedule D sale of capital assets; Form 4797 supplemental schedule of gains; Schedule E pension, rent, etc.; Schedule F farm; Form 2440 sick pay; Form 3903 moving expense; Fomr 2106 employee business expense; Form 4848 self-employment retirement plan; Schedule R retirement income credit; Form 3468 investment credit; Form 1116 foreign tax credit; Form 4874 work incentive credit; Schedule SE self-employment tax; Form 4255 prior-year investment credit; Form 4625 minimum tax; Form 4137 Social Security tax; Form 4136 credit for federal tax on special fuel; Form 2439 credit from a regulated investment company; Form 4683 foreign bank accounts.

These are just the forms that are listed on your Form 1040 as being necessary under certain circumstances. There are also many other forms and schedules that should be used under various circumstances that are not mentioned on this Form 1040.

The shrew leads a fast, short life of about 16 months during which it propagates two or three families.

New Shopping Center Is Scheduled For Construction In Mill Valley

A new shopping center in Mill Valley at the corner of East Blithedale Avenue and Lomita Drive is expected to start taking shape this summer, although everything still hinges on the lifting of the sewer moratorium.

Alpha Beta Market and Thrifty Drug will be the two major tenants to occupy the Mill Valley Center on six acres of land near Red Cart Market, across Lomita Drive from the old Purity building. Sutter Hill Ltd. of Palo Alto, the developer, plans 56,000 square feet of floor area, with the bulk of it occupied by Alpha Beta and Thrifty.

Rich Garlinghouse, project manager, said about 4,000 square feet of space is open for lease. "We may get a liquor store, an ice cream shop, or similar retail store," said Garlinghouse. He hopes construction can start about April, and the project completed this year.

BANK OF MARIN president William P. Murray Jr. announced two new appointments at the bank's headquarters at Fifth Avenue and B Street, San Rafael.

Catherine J. Knopf, who has been with the bank since 1966, was appointed assistant vice president and secretary. She and her husband, Dr. Gedge W. Knopf, live in San Rafael.

Knopf

Bowler

E. Joseph Bowler of Mill Valley was appointed assistant vice president in the investment department of Bank of Marin. He was with the portfolio planning office of Bank of America before joining Bank of Marin in 1972.

CAL WESTERN SAVINGS and Loan Association's first Marin County branch is open at 61 Camino Alto in Mill Valley, across the street from The Redwoods retirement community.

Managing the Mill Valley office is Copy Harris of Tiburon, who joined Cal Western last May after five and one-half years as director of industrial relations and public relations with Electronics Enclosures in Southern California.

Cal Western has been operating in San Francisco since 1886.

ROBERT A. FLYNN of San Rafael has been elected a vice president of Hoefer/Amidei Associates, Inc. public relations firm in San Francisco.

Flynn joined the firm two years ago as an account supervisor. Prior to that, he was supervisor of public relations in the Philadelphia office of N. W. Ayer and Son. He has also been with Western Electric Company Inc. in San Francisco, an associate editor of Modern Lithography magazine, and a PR executive with the Thomas J. Lipton Co.

Flynn

Andrian

BARBARA ANDRIAN of Mill Valley has been named manager of personnel and training in Wellsco Data Corp., a subsidiary of Wells Fargo & Company, San Francisco.

A 1964 graduate of San Francisco State University, Miss Andrian joined Wells Fargo Bank in 1965 and transferred to Wellsco Data in 1973.

Edwardson was formerly innkeeper at the Holiday Inn Paradise Island in Nassau, Bahamas, for 18 months. He held similar positions in San Diego, Los Angeles Medical Center, and at Little Rock, Ark.

Edwardson's appointment was announced by James Proctor, president of Terra Linda Inn Corporation, a subsidiary of GIF Corp., which took over the Holiday Inn from Chatmar Inc. last April.

WARDS TREAD WEAR GUARANTEE

PREMATURE TREAD WEAR-OUT

If a Montgomery Ward passenger tire wears down to the top of the tread wear indicators (to 2/32" tread depth) within the period of months or number of miles stated for a given quality of tire, Montgomery Ward will replace the tire for a prorated charge determined by the months or miles of use, whichever serves as basis for the guarantee.

All prorated charges will be based on actual selling price in effect at the time of adjustment at the retail store to which returned or the catalog price in effect at the store or agency to which returned, in either case, including Federal Excise Tax.

- Due to the importance of proper vehicle maintenance in delivering stated mileage, Montgomery Ward will rotate tires purchased at retail or catalog stores having installation facilities free of charge, every 5,000 miles. Wheel alignment and wheel balance may be checked at that time.
- Montgomery Ward will repair nail punctures free of charge for the full term of the tread wear-out guarantee.

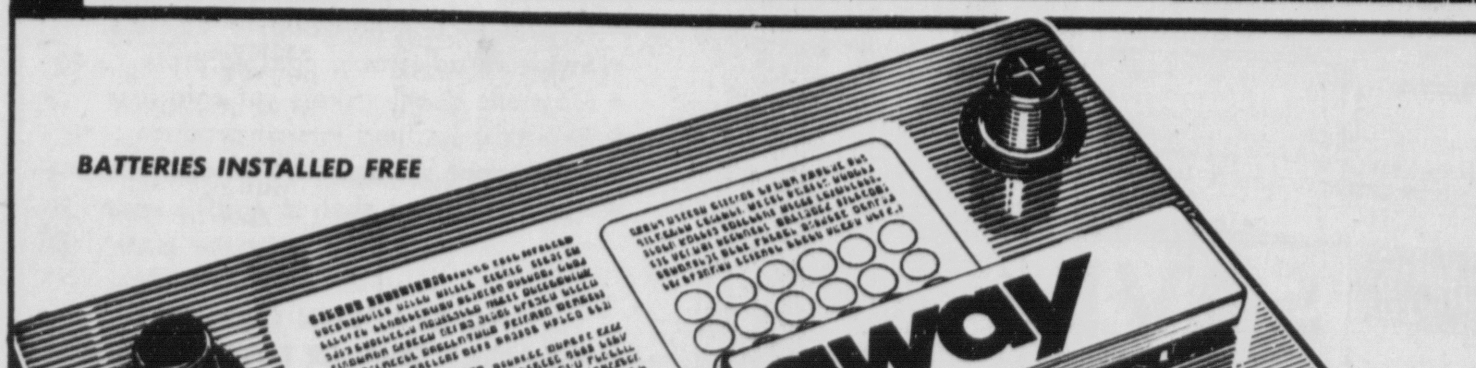
BATTERIES INSTALLED FREE



WARDS BATTERY PROTECTION PLAN

Montgomery Ward will replace this battery at no cost to the original owner if it fails to accept and hold a charge in non-commercial passenger car use during the Free Replacement Period shown:

FREE REPLACEMENT PERIOD:	24	16	12	9	6	3 Mos.

After this period, to the end of the guarantee period, Montgomery Ward will replace the battery, charging only a pro-rated amount for the time since purchase, based on the current regular selling price less trade-in. Batteries in commercial use are guaranteed on a similar basis for half of the specified periods. Commercial use is defined as use in any vehicle for other than family or personal use.
